At Philadelphia— R. H. E.

St. Louis.....0 0 0 — —

Philadelphia..2 0 0 — —

Batteries—Haines and Mancuso; Collins and Davis.

BAKER BOWL, PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—The league-leading St. Louis Cardinals were out to bolster their hold on first place here today when they opened a series with the last-place Philadelphia Quakers.

Jess Haines, veteran right-hander of the Cards, was on the firing line for the league leaders, while Phil Collins started for the cellarites.

The appearance of the Cards here had a tendency to improve the attendance, more than 10,000 turning out for the contest.

The cards now lead the National League race by a margin of two games.

The game in detail:

FIRST INNING

ST. LOUIS—Whitney threw out Douthit. Adams flied to Friberg. Frisch singled over second. Frisch stole second. Bottomley fanned. One hit.

PHILADELPHIA—Brickell flied to Watkins. Thompson singled to center. Friberg forced Thompson, Adams to Frisch. Klein smashed his thirty-seventh home run over the right field fence, scoring Friberg ahead. Frisch threw out Hurst. Two runs, two hits.

SECOND INNING

ST. LOUIS—Whitney threw out Hafey. Watkins singled past Whitney. Mancuso flied to Klein. Gelbert singled to left. Watkins stopping at second. Haines popped to Hurst. Two hits.

PHILADELPHIA—Gelbert threw out Whitney. Davis hit the fence in right for a single. Thevenow hit into a double play, Gelbert to Bottomley. One hit.

THIRD INNING

BRUINS GET EARLY LEAD OVER BRAVES

At Boston— R. H. E.

Chicago.....2 2 0 — —

Boston.....0 0 1 — —

Batteries—Teachout and Hartnett; Zachary and Spohrer.

BRAVES FIELD, Sept. 19.—The hopes for the National League pennant almost faded, the Chicago Cubs opened a four-game series with the Braves here today, bent on staying in the fight to the finish.

Bud Teachout was on the mound for the Cubs, while Zachary started for the Braves.

The Cubs scored two runs in the first and added two more in the second to obtain a 4-0 lead.

MOUNTAINEERS HERE FOR GAME TONIGHT

Pittsburgh today was all set for its first college football game of the season, scheduled at Forbes Field at 8:45 o'clock tonight between Duquesne University and West Virginia University.

The West Virginia squad, headed by Coach Ira Rodgers, arrived in town this afternoon by bus from Morgantown and went immediately to Webster Hall. Arrangements were made to get the players to Forbes Field early in the evening, so they could get in a workout under the arc lights before starting time.

The Dukes rested this afternoon. Coach Elmer Layden kept them in seclusion until time to leave for Forbes Field.

The battle shapes up as one of the toughest opening games on record for both teams. The rivals played a 7-7 tie at Morgantown last fall, and each is anxious to start the new season with a victory that should give it considerable impetus in its bid for major honors.

JONES GIVES UP TROLLEY FOR GOLF

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Bobby Jones, world's leading golfer, who told friends yesterday that he guessed he would take a "trolley ride" today, turned up at the Pine Valley golf course down in Jersey today and played a foursome.

Bobby practiced yesterday on the East course of the Merion Cricket Club at Haverford in preparation for next week's national amateur tournament. He considered his round rather poor and intimated that he would "lay off" the game today. The gallery that followed him yesterday was very large.

At Pine Valley today there were few persons on hand to watch him. His companions in the foursome were Jess Sweetser, New York, 1922 amateur champion, and Cyril Tolley and T. A. Bourn, English golfer. No scores were kept.

Gibson Dunlap, Jr., Los Angeles golfer, one of the entrants in the amateur, equaled the record for the championship Merion Cricket Club links today when he shot a 67, three under par, in a practice round. George Von Elm continued his fine play of yesterday by shooting 69 today.

Produce Man Held For 'False Claim'

Abraham Shilit, a produce dealer, of 1814 Penn avenue, was arrested today by John Lowers, United States deputy marshal, on a charge of making a false claim for $450 against the Pennsylvania Railroad on May 23, 1929.

The warrant charged Shilit with claiming damage on a shipment of strawberries consigned to the Shilit Produce Company from Faison, N. C. Shilit was held in bond of $2,000 for trial.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ROY AMMEL, a red-haired young man from North Dakota, who did some air fighting in the war, and enjoyed it, has invested his $40,000, including his last dollar, in a fast Lockheed Explorer plane, and plans to fly, by himself, to Paris.

He calls the trip that he plans "doing a Lindbergh," and hopes to cover the distance, 3,610 miles, in about 25 hours, beating Lindbergh by nearly eight hours.

If he does that, Lindbergh will be well pleased. The engine decides the speed, and Lindbergh, like everybody else, knows that the trip will be made, eventually, in 10 hours and less.

PRESIDENT HOOVER did a good, wise day's work when, through Secretary Stimson, he announced our recognition of the three new South American governments in the Argentine, Peru and Bolivia.

Those new governments exist, and evidently express the will of their peoples, or, at least the determination of the most intelligent and forceful among them.

Each people's government is its own business.

It is our business to recognize the accomplished fact, not to moralize and hesitate, as we do foolishly with Russia.

RUSSIA, BY THE WAY, which wishes and needs recognition, could get it by paying a small amount of money, less than 40 millions, to some that foolishly bought the czar's and Kerensky's bonds.

The payment could be disguised, so that it wouldn't involve paying vastly larger sums owed to nations that HAVE already recognized Russia.

PRIMO CARNERA, Italian giant from Venice, concludes his present tour of the United States, winding up with his twenty-third victim, a heavyweight called Jack Gross. He has met and knocked out 23 American heavyweights, and decides to "call it a day."

Intelligence possessed by the most important American heavyweights has made them keep away from the big Italian.

The general belief is that Carnera, when he hits, hits too hard, as the British boxer said to John L. Sullivan after he went over the ropes at the Crib Club in Boston, long ago.

J. W. LAWRENCE, PITTSBURGH HORSE FANCIER, KICKED AND INJURED BY HIS HORSE

ANDRINI SENTENCED TO 25 YEARS MORE

Harry Andrini, busy robber and holdup man, today was sentenced to from 25 to 44 years in the penitentiary by Judge George V. Moore in Criminal Court.

This is in addition to the five to 10-year sentence imposed by Judge Frank P. Patterson for a robbery a year ago. At that time Andrini escaped from a deputy sheriff while in the court house.

The sentence was divided among Andrini's numerous crimes, as follows:

For the holdup of the South Hills Trust Company, June 16, 10 to 20 years. John B. Stauff, bank messenger, held up by Andrini and an accomplice, died the day after the robbery from shock.

For holding up Regis Carr in his home, 5 to 10 years.

For stealing the car of Morris French, immediately after the South Hills bank holdup, 5 to 10 years.

For shooting Policeman Florence Bruner while trying to escape after the Carr holdup, 2 to 4 years.

For escaping from deputy sheriff two years, and for carrying weapons one year.

Andrini tried to escape punishment for his crimes by feigning insanity in jail, but physicians declared him sane. He later confessed to all charges.

He is expected to testify at the coming trial of Constable Jack Schneider, charged with being an accessory after the fact in robberies and for harboring Andrini while he dodged a police dragnet.

MRS. COREY'S PRINCE WEDS PRINCESS, 73

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Overriding the objections of her family, the Princess Marie Charlotte Constance de Broglie, 73-year-old member of the French aristocracy, was married quietly at a register office here today to Prince Louis Ferdinand D'Orleans Bourbon, a cousin of King Alfonso, of Spain, according to the London Evening Standard.

Prince Louis, who is more than 30 years younger than his bride, at one time was reported engaged to Mrs. Mabel Gilman Corey, divorced wife of William Ellis Corey, Pittsburgh steel "king."

Only a few weeks ago, the Paris courts quashed an attempt by the Duke de Brissac, nephew of the princess, who represented various of her descendants, to restrain her from carrying out her intention of marrying the prince, charging the princess was not capable of managing her huge estate, and asking that a guardian be appointed for her. The court's reply was that the princess had a perfect right to marry whomever she pleased.

In an interview with the Standard, after the ceremony, the princess heatedly repudiated these accusations. She declared:

"It is a monstrous insul. I am not insane because I love, nor am I a silly, sentimental girl. I know my own heart."

Stocks Drop $3 to $5

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The most active selling in several weeks carried stock prices lower today, although covering in the last hour reduced the extreme declines moderately. Net losses ranged from about $3 to $5. Sales for the day fell just short of 3,000,000 shares. Liquidation was largely professional.

United States Steel closed $3.87 lower, Westinghouse Electric lost $5.25, American Can $3, J. I. Case, American Telephone $2.75, Republic Steel $3 to a new low, Bethlehem Steel $2 and Worthington Pump $5.62.

Horse Kicks Lawrence At Show

GREENSBURG, Sept. 26.—Kicked by the horse he was leading to the arena at the Greensburg horse show here today, J. W. Lawrence, of the Little Pine Creek road, Glenshaw, suffered injuries that necessitated his removal to Greensburg Hospital.

Attaches there reported him suffering lacerations of the right arm. After X-ray photographs were taken Lawrence was permitted to go home.

Lawrence, witnesses say, was leading the horse into the stockade at the Polo Grounds, where the annual show is being staged, when it turned and kicked him.

Lawrence is a well-known horse fancier.

ENGELSBERG SLATE IGNORED; 'CLOSED BOOK,' HE SAYS

Alderman John J. Verona's list of nominees for judges and inspectors of elections in the Third Ward was approved today by the Redistricting Commission and will be submitted to the Court of Quarter Sessions, which makes the appointments.

The only name on the list submitted by Joseph Engelsberg, Verona's political rival, to be given consideration was that of Grant Taylor, suggested by Charles E. Flinn as a substitute for Verona's nominee, Albert Poole, as judge of the Seventh District. Flinn's motion was lost.

Told of the commission's decision, Engelsberg said:

"The matter, so far as I'm concerned, is a closed book. The members of the Redistricting Commission are appointees of the court and I can do nothing but accept the decision. I never made any charges against Verona's nominees, and do not know who did."

HAD BEEN CHALLENGED

Flinn declared Taylor had been elected by the voters of the ward, but was challenged by Verona as ineligible, because of being a city

SUICIDE SUSPECTED IN GIRL FLIER'S FATE

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 19.—Startling reports involving suicide and a confusing divorce and remarriage predicament followed today in the wake of the fatal airplane crash, near here yesterday, of Ruth Alexander, record-holding girl flier.

The report that Miss Alexander, had chosen a dramatic means of committing suicide when her plane crashed at Point Loma was denied by Coroner Schuyler C. Kelley, who declared:

"The notes Miss Alexander left were studied carefully by me, and in my considered judgment, they were exactly the kind a thoughtful person would leave when embarking on a dangerous journey.

NO HINT OF DEPRESSION

"Among intimate friends of Miss Alexander whom we have questioned, there was no hint of any depressed mental condition. On the contrary, the girl was cheerful and even gay, her every contact emphasizing her joy of life, her adventurous spirit and her happiness, which

VOTE MACHINE ROW BLAMED ON POLITICS

The suit to restrain county officials from consummating the $1,000,000 contract for voting machines awarded the Poole Engineering and Machine Company of Baltimore, scheduled for an initial skirmish in Common Pleas Court today, brought a charge from County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern that the tangle is part of a conspiracy of machine politicians to deny voters the use of voting machines.

Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong declared the county would fight the suit and continue with the performance of the contract until otherwise directed by the courts.

DELAY RESULTS

Attorney H. D. Hirsh, counsel for the Poole company, voiced the opinion the suit was interposed for a delay and declared members of the voting machine committee favored a machine failing the award.

Attorney Charles F. C. Arensberg, representing Francis S. Guthrie, complainant in the suit, planned to petition next week for

CUBA BALKS HOOVER LEAGUE COURT DRIVE

GENEVA, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Prof. Noel Baker, British spokesman, told the League of Nations assembly committee today that the efforts of the Hoover administration to bring the United States into the League Court might be embarrassed seriously by Cuba's opposition to the protocol for a revision of the statute affecting the term of court sessions.

Baker called attention to a letter from Secretary of State Stimson to President Hoover, which asserted that American interests before the League Court, as regards advisory opinions, would be safeguarded by a special provision in the revised statute as well as by the Root formula, which is embodied in the protocol.

EXPLAINS ITS EFFECT

With regard to the effect of the Cuban action upon American policy, Baker explained:

"It is well known that in the exchange of correspondence between the Secretary of State and President Hoover, last November, the Secretary urged that American adhesion to the court statute was possible when objections had been removed on two main grounds—one, the general acceptance of the Root formula. The other was the acceptance of this revised proto-

In its first meeting since the beginning of the summer vacation in June the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce last night declared for modification of the Blue Laws of 1794, but against repeal. The resolution, as presented to the chamber, was as follows:

"Whereas, in order to bring about an observance of the Sabbath day more in keeping with present-day life, under which certain diversions and amusements, wholesome in themselves and now frequently indulged in contrary to the Blue Laws of 1794, without shocking the sense of propriety of this community, may be legalized; in order to prevent the present unequal, spasmodic and discriminatory

U. S. STEEL CUTTING BETHLEHEM BUSINESS, EATON CLAIMS

MERGER FOE ON STAND IN HEARING

International News Service

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 19.—Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, today took the stand as a defense witness in Common Pleas Court here to uphold his action in opposing the merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Matching his wits against the brilliant attorney for the defense, Newton D. Baker, who directed a barrage of piercing questions at the witness, Eaton explained in careful details his reasons for attacking the consolidation of the two great steel concerns.

Eaton paid high tribute to the officials of the Youngstown concern, but declared that he did not think them competent in judging the value of capacity in such things as rails and structural steel, which Bethlehem produces and Sheet and Tube does not.

TRIED TO GET FACTS

Eaton said that he had tried to get information for investigation regarding these phases of Bethlehem's activities but that he was unsuccessful, Eaton declared.

"Such information is absolutely necessary because of the growing competition of U. S. Steel Corporation in structural steel."

The witness went on to explain that the Homestead, Pa., plant of the Carnegie Steel Company is making inroads into the territory now covered by Bethlehem in Pittsburgh and the East. He continued:

"Bethlehem markets are being seriously restricted. They are facing more competition from U. S. Steel than ever before."

COURTROOM SURPRISED

This assertion was regarded with surprise in the courtroom. It was the first time the point, which some considered important, has been mentioned in the prolonged trial now in its fifty-first day.

Previous to Eaton's testimony, Samuel Mather, 79-year-old millionaire, partner in Pickhands, Mather & Co., and a large stockholder in Bethlehem and Sheet and Tube, was on the stand. He testified that he favored the merger because of his confidence in the auditing firm that recommended the terms and his regard for the judgment of James A. Campbell, chairman of the Sheet and Tube board.

col, under which certain articles of the original statute, as to which the United States government had doubts, had been amended.

"Now if we throw over these revised articles—if we hold out no expectation that we hope or believe they will come into force at an early date—we may be certain that will have a contrary effect upon the action which the United States Senate and government may be able to take in the next few months."

PROVIDES SAFEGUARDS

The Root formula provides that the court may not be asked for an advisory opinion on an issue touching American interests until the United States has been so informed and has consented. The revised protocol contains provisions strengthening that guarantee.

Both Baker and Rene Cassin, of France, emphasized today that the League Court situation is in a "terrible muddle" and that Cuba's insistence, under her rights, upon preventing the protocol of revision from coming into effect is "the last of the protocol itself," and, according to the French expert, also the "last of the adhesion of the United States to the statutes of the court."

Boyds Air Marital Woes At Divorce Hearing

Dr. Isaac N. Boyd, 71, of 71 Knox avenue, was assisted to the witness stand in Common Pleas Court today to testify at the hearing of his divorce suit against 20-year-old Mary Louise Boyd, of 309 Jacksonia street, North Side.

He testified that his young wife, for whom he had bought expensive clothing and an automobile "went home to mother" after declaring his home was a so-and-so shanty.

Contesting the divorce, she testified their marriage was the outgrowth of a street car flirtation and charged that the aged physician's "maltreatment" had caused the loss of 30 of her 138 pounds.

Mrs. Boyd said:

"After several meetings on the street car, he called at our home. I thought he came to see my mother."

Dr. Boyd said:

"I married the little girl because I liked her; if buying her expensive clothing and an automobile is maltreatment, then I have maltreated her."

Asked by Judge James B. Drew whether a reconcilliation was possible, both intimated that they wished the marriage tie severed.

Mrs. Boyd has entered a counter-suit against Dr. Boyd, in which she charges cruel and barbarous treatment.

NEW JURY RULE SPEEDS COURT

As the result of an order issued by Judge Frank P. Patterson, presiding in the assignment room of Common Pleas Court, halting the excusing of jurors, sessions of court were notably speeded today. Judge Patterson also ordered that lawyers try their cases as listed, with the alternative of facing a continuance or non-suit.

Both orders came as a result of the crowded calendars in the courts. Besides Judge Patterson there are eight other judges in Common Pleas Court, all sitting continuously, and at times eight jury trials have been in progress, which left only a few jurors on duty.

Plays Safe on Autos, Killed by Cave-in CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Ragner Anderson, of Waukegan, Ill., took precautions yesterday to see that no automobiles were approaching from either direction.

Not a car was in the street. He stepped from the curb.

Cement surrounding a manhole cover yielded to his weight. He fell six feet and was wedged between two slabs of paving.

He died within an hour.

Weather Conditions

There is a rain area over the South Atlantic and East Gulf states this morning, and cloudiness extends as far north as the Middle Atlantic states. The rain is spreading northeastward. The disturbance causing the rain is over the Gulf of Mexico. Another disturbance appears over Western Ontario, lowest barometer, 29.60 inches at Port Arthur. It is causing scattered showers over the Upper Mississippi Valley states. High barometer covers the East, with its center over West Virginia, and a well defined high covers the far Northwest. The Northwest high is producing cooler weather over that section, but no frost is reported except at Edmonton, where the temperature is 30 degrees.

River Conditions

The rivers continue stationary. Stage at Franklin is two-tenths foot below zero; Lock No. 7, 10.3; Pittsburgh, 9.5; Dam No. 4, 9.1; Dam No. 6, 7.4; Dam No. 9, 8.0, and Dam No. 12, 4.0. The dams are up.

Aviation Bulletin.

High barometer is influencing the weather over this flying area, center over West Virginia, and the weather is clear with unlimited ceiling everywhere, except along the Atlantic coast, where cloudiness is moving in from the South. Visibility ranges from one and one-half miles at Newark to three miles in Northern Pennsylvania, and five to eight miles elsewhere. The wind is light from the Southwest. Good flying weather will continue today and early tonight, but Saturday will be cloudy over most of this section.

her friends believe was due to her recent marriage to Lieut. Elliott, whom she loved."

Meanwhile, investigation of court records revealed that Miss Alexander's first husband, Mac Alexander, a farmer, of Gardner, Kan., brought suit for divorce at Olathe, Kan., last March on the ground of wilful abandonment, but there was nothing to indicate the case had been acted upon.

Whether the aviatrix married Elliott under the impression the divorce had been granted at Olathe, or obtained a divorce herself elsewhere, remained in doubt. In applying for the license to wed Elliott, she gave her maiden name of Ruth L. Blaney.

SHOW LICENSE ISSUED

Records in the Yuma (Ariz.) Court House showed that Miss Alexander was issued a marriage license and married to Robert A. Elliot, Brooklyn, N. Y., naval aviator, June 21. The ceremony was recorded as being performed by E. A. Freeman, justice of the peace, with Sarah E. Badgeley, marriage license clerk, acting as witness.

At the home of the aviatrix's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Blaney, of Irving, Kan., the father expressed the belief his daughter's first husband had obtained the divorce. Mr. Blaney could not be reached this morning, and his wife did not care to make any comment.

Farewell letters indicate that forebodings of disaster rode with Miss Alexander when she met death at the outset of a projected one-stop transcontinental flight.

One was addressed to her parents requesting a quiet funeral in case of death. The other was to Elliott.

She wrote:

NOTE TO HUSBAND

"To My Husband, Bob:

"Life is strange, Honey. If I have preceded you do not grieve for me, but be content. Finish your work down here and make me proud of you, as I ever will be at your side.

"And when you come I will welcome you. Always I will love and wait for you. And, sweetheart, keep my pretty wedding ring always with you.

"RUTH."

The wedding ring, a tiny silver circle set with small diamonds, was in the flier's jewel box in her hotel room here. Nearby were the notes to her parents.

The note containing funeral instructions said:

"I want to be dressed in comfortable, pretty night clothing. I want to be placed on my side in a comfortable sleeping position—my body will have to lie there a long time and I want it to be comfortable while I am going on.

"I want to be placed where there are trees and sunshine and grass. I wish no long funeral sermon. In my scrapbook is a poem marked with ink and if my wish is observed, I will be put away only by my closest friends, a song shall be sung, this poem read, and that is all."

The coroner said the body probably would be sent to Kansas, although no definite plans have been announced.

'BIG BUSINESS' CREDITED FOR DROUGHT AID

West Penn Power Released Huge Water Supply Into Rivers, Saving Industries

Millions of dollars in industrial products were made possible, and work for thousands provided in the tri-state district by co-operation of "big business" during the summer drought, it was revealed today by Col. Jarvis J. Bain, United States engineer for the Pittsburgh district.

Complete cessation of navigation in the Monongahela river and the closing of hundreds of industrial plants were certain, Col. Bain said, until the West Penn Power Company offered to release millions of gallons of water from its Lake Lynn reservoir, on the Cheat river, to provide a working stage in the Monongahela and Ohio reaches.

COMPANIES IN PACT

Faced with a shortage of power on its own lines if the Lake Lynn supply were diverted to the Monongahela, West Penn Power and Duquesne Light Company reached an agreement whereby the water could be released and Duquesne Light would care for any shortage West Penn might incur.

Then the huge volume of water from West Virginia's mountain springs was sluiced into the upper Monongahela and shipping and industry went on its normal way.

Regarding the aid given by the two companies, Col. Bain said:

"Their action was a magnificent one."

FIRMS AFFECTED

Col. Bain stated that in the immedaite area affected are the river mines of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, the Penn-Pitt Coal Company, W. J. Rainey coal interests, Weirton Steel Company, Pittsburgh Steel Company, H. C. Frick Coke Company (U. S. Steel Corporation), Crucible Steel Company of America, Wheeling Steel Corporation and the Hillman Coal and Coke Company, which support the coal and coke demands of the steel plants along the rivers in the tri-state district of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio.

Col. Bain pointed out that the benefits of the increased water supply were not confined to industry, but that municipalities using the rivers were protected from acid and other poisonous conditions due to a depleted rainfall.

Drought conditions similar to the present occurred in 1881 and 1908, Col. Bain said, but all records are due to be broken this season he fears.

BRITAIN WANTS YACHT RACE

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Suggestion the victorious America's cup yacht Enterprise might cross the Atlantic to compete with British yachts on their "home ground" was broached in the newspapers here today.

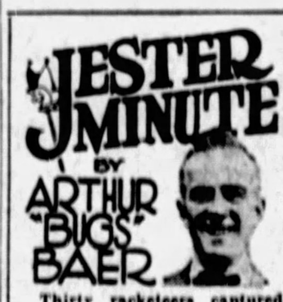
It was regarded likely some wealthy yachting enthusiast might offer a cup for competition between British and American yachts in British waters. An international event of this sort has not been held here since America lifted the cup from Britain off Cowes 79 years ago.

British yachtsmen generally concluded the special boom and mast of Harold Vanderbilt's Enterprise were chiefly responsible for her victory over Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V. The press hails Sir Thomas as a "happy loser," and all newspapers pay tribute to American sportsmen for their skill and seamanship.

Restoring Ancient Searchlight Marvel

ST. LOUIS.—(INS.)—Although it is 26 years old, an electric searchlight which was one of the marvels of the World's Fair here in 1904, casting a 250,000,000-candlepower beam, is to be restored for service, it has been learned. The searchlight now sets atop the City Hall in University City, St. Louis suburb.

The searchlight, according to Mayor Eugene T. Ruth, Jr., of University City, will be more powerful than any now known to exist.



Thirty racketeers captured New Jersey brewery. They were defeated by army of 40 prohibition agents. America thirsts for news of the battle of suds. Nobody killed, nobody wounded. Everybody missing. This war was by invitation only. Over 240,000 gallons of beer were poured into the river so the fish should taste pretty good today.

In this war nobody is over the draft age. In the heroic words of Gen. Joffre at the Marne, "My right wing is shattered. My left wing is gone. I'll have to eat the neck."

VERONA VOTE CHIEFS ARE APPROVED

employe. Flinn explained that City Controller James P. Kerr had submitted a letter, stating Taylor was not on the city payroll.

Attorney N. R. Criss, chairman of the commission, said he preferred Verona's nominee because Verona had control of the situation and had included the larger percentage of elected officials in his list.

Criss declared his only objection to Verona's nominees was the absence of a written explanation for the new names submitted. He said it was possible a number of the elected officials had moved from the ward or had declined to serve further but, in any event, Verona should have given the commission the facts.

APPROVES SELECTIONS

The commission also approved today, with a few reservations, two sub-committees' recommendations of nominees sponsored by the chairmen of the various parties in other Pittsburgh wards and in McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton.

Decision on the Seventh Ward was deferred, to await consideration of R. E. Zuker's request that he be substituted for J. A. Kuhl as judge in the Sixth District. Zuker said he was an elected judge in the ward, hence was entitled to recognition as a taxpayer and voter.

He declared Kuhl had been recommended by Alderman Charles A. Burke, Republican chairman of the ward, but averred Burke told him of his willingness to withdraw Kuhl's name. Zuker's protest was referred to the sub-committee handling the first 10 wards—Criss, Flinn and W. H. Ziefel.

SUBSTITUTION MADE

At the request of J. M. Huston, representing P. J. Donahoe, Republican of the Tenth Ward, the commission substituted Lawrence J. Frazier for Daniel Bullion as majority inspector in the Fourth District.

The commission discussed a statement by Mrs. Della M. Hershey, executive secretary of the League of Women Voters, charging the commission had discontinued the use of 12 schools as polling places. David L. Lawrence, commission member, said:

"The statement is a gross misrepresentation of what the commission has done. While the number of school buildings has been reduced, the fact remains that under the redistricting plan, the number of persons to vote at the schools still in use will be increased, probably 50 per cent."

LIST, AS APPROVED

The list of Verona's nominees, as approved by the commission, follows:

First District—Judge, Joseph Gaglierdino, 916 Wylie avenue; majority inspector, D. Mastrianni, 4 Fernando street; minority inspector, Ralph Scanga, 94 Elm street.

Second District—Judge, Mike Cozza, 57 Washington street; majority inspector, John Guiliano, 1038 Bustrick way; minority inspector, Francis Hasck, 1109 Webster avenue.

Third District—Judge, Joe Forte, 1210 Webster avenue; majority inspector, John Adams, 1210½ Webster avenue; minority inspector, Vincent Bonacci, 1410 Hazel street.

Fourth District—Judge, Max Zerelstein, 1422 Colwell street; majority inspector, Frank B. Dunn, 1421 Fifth avenue; minority inspector, Morris Solomon, 1400 Colwell street.

Fifth District—Judge, Harry Willinski, 1720 Colwell street; majority inspector, Max Seigel, 1720 Colwell street; minority inspector, Nick Marino, 2 Vine street.

Sixth District—Judge, Anthony Sibilia, 1554 Center avenue; majority inspector, Ben Neaman, 7 Miller street; minority inspector, Larry Green, 311 Vine street.

Seventh District—Judge, Albert B. Poole, 54 Arthur street; majority inspector, Willie Smith, 1536 Webster avenue; minority inspector, Arthur Dooley, 1536 Webster avenue.

Eighth District—Judge, John Chandler, 7 Logan street; majority inspector, James Macri, 18 Crawford street; minority inspector, James Ventrone, 5 Logan street.

Ninth District—Judge, Mike Wendell, 1727 Bedford avenue; majority inspector, Charles P. Betters, 1715 Bedford avenue; minority inspector, Carmen Bosco, 1604 Cliff street.

Tenth District—Judge, Louis Friedman, 69 Roberts street; majority inspector, Irwin Green, 69 Roberts street; minority inspector, Herman Grant, 1952 Epoch street.

Eleventh District—Judge, Joseph Pento, 1821 Fifth avenue; majority inspector, Mike Capodanno, 1821 Fifth avenue; minority inspector, Louis Pittler, 208 Dinwiddie street.

Contractor's Home Damaged by Bomb

KENOSHA, Wis., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—A bomb, thought to have been planted by Chicago racketeers, today damaged the home here of Markus Thompsen, paving and sewer contractor, who held several contracts in Northern Illinois.

The bomb exploded in an outside drain pipe. A corner of the house was torn away. Mrs. Thompsen and her four children were unhurt.

THREE IN COURT AFTER CHASE

Captured after a chase through Hays when their machine plunged into a creek and they had to flee on foot, Thomas Durett, 35, Negro, of 2553 Berthard street, and Marie Wilson, 30, of 2018 Bedford avenue, were fined $25 on suspicious person charges. George Morrisson, 26, Negro, of 1614 Wylie avenue, was held for court on a larceny charge. The hearing took place before Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court today.

Commandeering a machine when the trio refused to halt in Baldwin street, Officer John Mathias, of the Hays police, gave chase until they plunged their car into the creek. Soon afterward, the fugitives were halted by a shot from the officer's gun.

The machine in which the trio rode was taken, police say, from the Fourth street garage, where Morrisson was employed.

SWINDLE LAID TO THREE

An alleged swindle, through which banks and business houses were induced to place advertising in a booklet, supposedly indorsed by police and city officials, today resulted in the holding of two men and a woman on conspiracy charges.

Louis G. St. Clair, of 1109 Western avenue; Mrs. May Glaser, married and the mother of four children, who lives at 818 Craig street, and Luther Jones, janitor in the City-County Building, were arraigned and ordered held by Magistrate J. J. Connors in Oakland Police Court.

Inspector James Hoey made the information against the trio, charging they had used the names and pictures of Mayor Kline and other city officials when inducing advertisers to place contracts.

D'Annunzio Views Restoration Work

VERONA, Italy, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Gabriele D'Annunzio, the noted warrior-poet, today made one of his rare trips from his home on Lake Garda to Verona, where he inspected work of restoration of the historic basilica of San Zeno. He was accompanied by his physician.

INSPECTION OF AUTOS JAMMED

Last-Minute Rush, Flood of Complaints Blamed for Mixup—Four Days Late

By AL GOUCH,
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 19.—Compulsory inspection of motor vehicles has run into a jam. Between 750 and 1,000 applications from garages throughout the state for certificates of approval as official inspection stations are in the process of investigation today, four days after the designated opening of the examination period, scheduled to start September 15.

Another week or 10 days will be required to complete the investigations, it was revealed today in the office of Deputy Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Walter W. Matthews, in charge of the compulsory examination.

The delay, it is understood, is the result of a last-minute jam in the filing of applications by garage owners, and an unusually large number of complaints lodged against some of the inspection stations authorized last year.

BLAME DISAGREEMENT

The delay is blamed partly on a disagreement between the office of the commissioner of motor vehicles and the state highway patrol, which organization is charged with the official investigation of applications and complaints.

Commissioner Benjamin G. Eynon, it is said, sought the assistance of the highway patrol in making a complete re-examination of every station authorized last year. Heads of the patrol pointed out the necessity of keeping the patrolmen on regular duty along the state highways and balked at this plan, suggesting that only those garages against which complaints had been made be subject to re-examination this year.

500 ALLEGHENY DEPOTS

All garage owners who operated authorized inspection depots last year, but who did not attend the meetings called by the commissioner of motor vehicles this year, were listed for re-examination.

New applications were given precedence over many indifferent inspectors.

Allegheny County's approximate share of inspection stations totals between 500 and 600.

Commissioner Eynon, in answer to criticism over the delay, declared:

"There have been many complaints this year. In a great many instances we have found that official inspection stickers were given with five gallons of gasoline and we do not intend to stand for a repetition of this again this year if we can avoid it."

LOTTERY GRAFT CHARGED

After charging that the "number" lottery crusade, waged by Detectives William Noon and Robert Burke, resulted only in the arrest of bookies who were not paying protection money, Anthony Caputo, of 616 Larimer avenue, was fined $50 in East End Police Court by Magistrate Charles Papale.

For making such a charge Caputo was arrested at Larimer avenue and Joseph street yesterday during a near riot, which grew out of the arrest of a "numbers" writer, Cecil Brissett, a Negro, of 709 Larimer avenue. Brissett was fined $100 this morning.

Asked by Magistrate Papale if he could name anyone who payed Noon and Burke protection money, Caputo replied that he couldn't.

Ralph Arcadio, 21, of 545 Indiana way; William Jones, 22, of 160 Brushton avenue, and James Weaver, 39, of 7455½ Fletcher way, the latter two Negro "numbers" writers, arrested by Noon and Burke yesterday, failed to appear for hearings.

Naples Sees Omen for Good As Martyr's Blood Boils

NAPLES, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The phenomenon of the boiling up of the blood of St. Januarius, the martyr, in its receptacle at the Capella del Tesoro Cathedral, occurred this forenoon, with all Naples' church bells ringing and the people shouting with joy.

The occurrence, for which science has provided in the past no explanation, came at 9:43 a. m. while a tremendous throng filled the cathedral, chanting prayers for the supposed miracle.

The phenomenon occurs generally at stated periods. When it fails to materialize, the people of Naples fear a new eruption of Vesuvius is coming or that an earthquake, a plague or some other calamity impends.

Its materialization today was taken as an omen that earth shocks, such as occurred July 23, or cyclones like that of August 14, will not be repeated for a long time.

The dark, solid mass in the flask rests within a second or inner phial and presumably is little affected by outside temperatures. The bottle is firmly sealed with a hard, gummy substance. For more than 400 years, liquification of this substance has taken place at frequent intervals.

Custom requires the officiant to hold the reliquary by its extremities without touching the glass, and from time to time to turn it upside down, to note whether any movement is perceptible in the enclosed substance. After an interval, sometimes of only two minutes, but on other occasions of more than an hour, the mass is seen to detach itself gradually from the glass, become liquid or a more or less ruby tint and, in some instances, to froth and bubble up.

RITCHIE NAMED FOR 4TH TERM

BALTIMORE, Sept. 19.—(INS)—Albert C. Ritchie, a pioneer opponent of constitutional prohibition, and exponent of state's rights, was for the fourth time today democracy's nominee for the governorship of Maryland.

If elected in November, Gov. Ritchie will embark on his fourth term as head of the Free State. He was without opposition in the convention.

The Democratic platform attacked prohibition in its usual fashion and advocated returning the question of controlling liquor to the states.

Gov. Ritchie will be opposed in November by William F. Broening, Mayor of Baltimore. The Republican convention will be held Monday.

Woman, 72, Quits Knitting for Swim

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Mrs. Abby Stewart Cooley, 72, of Waterbury, Conn., is a long distance swimmer. Visiting relatives, she dropped her knitting and decided to swim out in Long Island Sound from Prospect Beach to Sperry Light, a distance of four miles. An airplane spotted her. An alarmed son-in-law overtook her in a motorboat one mile from her goal. Against her wishes she rode back to the beach.

Low Water Supply Leads to Economy

The students were praised by instructors, but for once nothing was said about the graduates going forth to take their places "out in the world."

Diplomas were not presented immediately. This part of the ceremony was postponed until the recipients, all convicts at San Quentin Penitentiary, returned to their cells.

3 YOUTHS FINED ON GUN CHARGE

Three youths, Richard Garrison, 16, 5401 Wilkins avenue; Allen Clark, 17, 5435 Dunmoyle street, and Frank Conley, 18, 607 St. James place, sons of prominent families, were fined $10 on suspicious persons charges by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court today.

Arrested, police say, after they pointed a revolver at Officer Norman Borland at Highland and Ellsworth avenue when the officer warned them about traffic lights, a .45 caliber pistol, minus a barrel, and a tin officer's badge were found in the car. The youths denied knowledge of the gun.

Arrest Foe of Slain Vet in Murder Case

CRISFIELD, Md., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Benjamin Walston, of the Fairmount district, is under arrest here for the murder of Clyde Smith, World War veteran. Recently Smith had trouble with several men, and Walston, officers said, was heard to remark he would "get Smith."

Solution of the Eastern Shore's second murder of the week, that of Benjamin Lyons, Owings, Md., merchant, found with his throat cut, seemed distant today. Lyons said before he died he had been attacked and robbed by three men.

SLEUTH FINED IN ATTACK

Unable to give any reason for beating a Burgettstown teacher, Precinct Detective Herman Stubenrauch, 33, today was fined $5, with the option of five days in jail, at a hearing before Magistrate Ray Schneider today in North Side Court. He also was suspended pending a police trial board hearing.

Stubenrauch denied he was drunk, but admitted taking two drinks of home brew.

Ray Mann, 28, and Charles Hamilton, 26, Burgettstown teachers, testified that Stubenrauch hit Mann with the butt of his revolver after using abusive language.

The attack occurred at the north end of Sixth Street Bridge following an auto accident.

When Mann tried to explain the officer, it was testified, pulled his gun and hit Mann with it. He then ordered the teachers to drive to Sandusky and Lacock streets, where he turned them over to a patrolman, ordering they be locked up for five days.

DONOHOE TRIAL NEARS JURY

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 19.—On trial for nearly three weeks, Tony Bell, charged with the murder of John F. Donohoe, may learn his fate today.

Special Prosecutor A. E. Hess began his address to the jury at 9:30 a. m. He did not ask for a death verdict for Bell. Attorney H. S. Dumbauld, addressing the jury, said, in part:

"We agree with the commonwealth that the murderer of John F. Donohoe should suffer the extreme penalty. The killing was without doubt premeditated and for that reason the guilty one should be given the death penalty.

"John F. Donohoe is dead. We knew him as well perhaps as anyone outside his family circle. We are not defending Tony Bell because of a like friendship, but because he is as innocent as any one of you who sit there in the jury."

HAMMERSTEIN HELD FOR TRIAL

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Arthur Hammerstein, theatrical producer, was ordered held today for trial on the assault charge brought against him by George Haskell, dance director.

The case grew out of an altercation between Hammerstein and Haskell, which involved Harold and Sally Rand, brother and sister in the chorus of Hammerstein's musical comedy, "Luana."

Hammerstein was alleged to have struck Haskell, whom he later discharged as director of the show's dances, after a quarrel between Haskell and the Rands.

Hammerstein's bail was placed at $500.

Wife Must Write Tax Receipt Order

An opinion signed by President Judge J. R. Macfarlane and Judges Ambrose B. Reid and Frank P. Patterson in Common Pleas Court, today ordered the name of Mrs. Grace Clemenson stricken from the registration lists because her husband had not procured her written permission in obtaining a tax receipt.

The opinion was the result of an appeal from the action of the Registration Commission in refusing to strike out her name.

RED FINED FOR KLINE PROTEST

Four of five alleged Communists, whose meeting protesting Mayor Charles H. Kline's home-coming banquet was dispersed last night by Hill police, were discharged this morning by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Center avenue station.

Declaring he was an innocent bystander, Sam McDonald, 23, of 2125 Herman street, arrested at the meeting, was fined $5. Emmet Cush, 23, of 5225 Kincaid street; Robert Ernest, 21, 2002 Webster avenue; Anna Snear, 21, of 800 Blossom avenue, and Nell Amter, 21, of 845 Grand avenue, were discharged.

When asked by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg concerning the reason for the meeting, Cush replied that he and his followers were protesting the fact that a banquet was given to Mayor Kline at $7.50 a plate while thousands were unemployed.

The prisoners were charged with violating a city ordinance. They had a permit to hold a parade in Center avenue, but could not show a permit to hold a meeting at Center avenue and Kirkpatrick street. Police testified they broke up the meeting after one speaker had uttered his protests from a "soap box."

The pedestrian, Leroy Coulbridge, was arrested on a manslaughter warrant when police complained he had walked into a running motorcycle and knocked it down, causing the death of one of the riders, Miss Frances Marie Springer.

WARNING FROM FLIER NIPS FIRE

Circling low over the tops of homes in Ingomar late yesterday, the pilot of a small airplane stopped his motor momentarily and shouted:

"Fire—Wildwood — follow me!"

P. A. Brunn, Jr., assistant chief of the volunteer company, his brother, Louis Brunn, driver of the combination chemical and hose truck, and several others responded, and trailed the flier to a timber fire at Hearts farm, Wildwood, 10 miles away.

Aided by volunteer firemen of Allison Park and Wexford, they extinguished the flames after a two-hour fight.

The flier was George Dickson, of 5200 Westminster place, unattached, flying from Rodgers Field. He returned to the field after sounding the alarm.

Coolidge Deems 'Protest' Situation Hard to Meet

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Sept. 19.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

So far as the primary election results disclose, anything, it seems to be the presence of a rather large protest vote. This has not been directed in general at any particular issue but appears be in the nature of dissatisfaction with present conditions. The German elections and the revolutions in South America indicate that it is not confined to this country, but is world-wide.

Calvin Coolidge.

The dissatisfied have not always been victorious. But, beginning in Illinois and trailing along through California, Louisiana, North Carolina, South Carolina and Wisconsin, they were sufficient to defeat the incumbents in state or national office.

A situation of this nature is especially difficult for organized society to meet. When there are specific abuses they can be reformed. But when there is simply a general complaint that the government is not doing things that can only be done by the hardest kind of work and the most skilled management of the people themselves, the answer is so long and involved that the voters are slow to grasp it.

It is a time when the conservative and constructive influences of the world without regard to party lines or international boundaries must co-operate.

King and Queen Give Ball For Castle Servants

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—While a tempest roared around the turrets of Balmoral Castle, Scotland, last evening, its ballroom was the scene of a brilliant gathering, assembled at the King and Queen's periodical ball for the servants of their Scottish estate, Deeside.

Tartan kilts for the men and tartan decorations for the women were in order. His Majesty wore kilts and so did the Prince of Wales, who flew from Le Touquet, where he was playing golf, to London and caught a night train there for the castle. So also did the Duke of Gloucester and Prince George.

King George did not dance but genially watched his guests and talked with them. Queen Mary danced several times, sometimes partnered with her game-keepers and other servants. There were no modern dances—only such as waltzes, quadrilles and reels.

6 HURT IN CRASH OF FIRE TRUCK AND AUTO

Wife of Machine's Driver Badly Hurt as Impact Hurls Motor Car 75 Feet

One woman and five firemen were injured when the automobile in which the woman was riding, police say, darted into the path of the hook and ladder truck of No. 46 Engine Company at Sandusky street and Stockton avenue, early today.

Police said the auto, driven by Emilio Bonsall, 46, of 929 Bradford street, West View, ran in front of the truck, the driver of which swerved into East Park in an effort to avoid a collision, but the machine was sideswiped with such force it was hurled about 75 feet.

FIREMEN CUT

Mrs. Anna Bonsall, 26, wife of the driver of the car, was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital with possible internal injuries, police said.

Driver Thomas Churchill, 35, of Fulton road, of the fire truck, Capt. John McCabe, 44, of 78 Greenbush street, and Firemen William J. Harkins, 37, of 2210 Spring Garden avenue; M. J. Flannery, 37, of 1194 Harvard circle, and Paul Rund, 25, of 606 Chestnut street, were treated for lacerations and returned to the engine house.

The truck was answering a call to a fire at 221 Anderson street, which was extinguished before it caused much damage. Police said a carpet had caught fire in the house.

BABY INJURED

Priscilla M. Daniels, 3, of 142 Locust street, Homestead, is in the Homestead Hospital with lacerations of the forehead and body bruises as a result of being struck by an automobile in front of her home last night. Anthony Bonner, of 215 Tenth avenue, West Homestead, driver of the machine, was arrested for reckless driving.

When he tried to regain a package which he dropped in the street, Charles Bowman, Jr., 10, of 173 Lamasco avenue, was struck by an automobile and fatally hurt, according to a police report.

Constitution. Earnest drys say the wets are trying to destroy the Constitution.

The anti-drys say that cutting a cancer out of a man isn't destroying it's saving him, and the Eighteenth Amendment, cause of our crime wave, needs cutting out.

There will be interesting wet-dry fights in all elections for years to come.

A FEW MONTHS ago to talk of changing the prohibition law seemed foolish. It is still foolish to talk of repealing the Eighteenth Amendment. There will always be seventeen states to vote against repeal, enough to prevent it.

But there is no knowing what other changes may be made although we probably shall have the worst which would be to keep the law, ignoring it, letting bootleggers do their worst, putting the public on a permanent bootleg beverage basis.

CRIME BECOMES ever more efficiently organized.

A gang of automobile thieves, alleged by the government to be managed by a distinguished criminal formerly of Chicago, takes orders through regular salesmen for any car you want.

They explain that some cars were ordered for shipment to Russia, and the shipment refused.

You give your order for a fine car at half price. They steal the car and deliver it. It costs $50, as a bribe, to arrange for license plate changes.

CHICAGO'S POLICE, in the fight against racketeers, raided 10 labor union offices. Papers seized show the determination of racketeer gangs to "muscle" into reputable labor groups, and control them.

Fortunately, union labor, as a whole, is free, thus far, from any racketeering taint.

But union-racketeering does exist, on a gigantic and dangerous scale. The welfare of the unions demands that it be stamped out.

"Go to now, ye rich men, weep and howl for your miseries that shall come upon you."

James, "a servant of God," wrote that in the beginning of his fifth chapter, rebuking the rich that treated workers unjustly.

The weeping and howling words can be borrowed now in connection with the news published by the Veterans' Bureau. Within a year 156,000, not now on any pension list, will be drawing money from the government for "disability not connected with military service."

With that cost tacked on to the rich men's income tax they will have something to weep and howl about.

DETROIT POLICE have discovered and destroyed the biggest bootleg still ever found. It cost the owners, according to the police, at least $1,000,000. It seems to have been a good investment while it lasted, producing every month a million dollars worth of whisky, that cost the bootlegger for raw materials not more than $8,000.

SMILES AT ACCUSATION

FORMER JUDGE AND MRS. GEORGE F. EWALD

Ewald leaving New York Supreme Court, cigar in hand, smile on face, after his former secretary, one of ten witnesses, had told the grand jury that Ewald had often confided that he had bought his bench appointment for $10,000. Others also face inquiry.

URGES CHANGE IN BLUE LAWS

enforcement of these laws; and finally, in order to provide healthful recreation and entertainment for the many so situated as to have no legitimate means of employing their time in healthful recreation outside of church hours, be it

"Resolved, that the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh will support the enactment of some law by the General Assembly of Pennsylvania during its session of 1931, which will have for its purpose the modernization of the so-called Blue Laws of 1794, upon the following conditions, to-wit:

"(a) That no outright repeal of these laws be advocated.

"(b) That any such act provide for local municipal regulation, permitting municipalities to decide what games, pastimes and diversions may be indulged in on Sunday and between what hours, provided no admission be charged except wholly for charitable and educational purposes, subject to a general legislative expression that not even by local regulation shall there be such activities on Sunday as would interfere with religious worship, or be destructive by reason of noise or disorder of the peaceful and restful character of the day.

"(c) That no commercialism or purveying of recreation or entertainment for profit be permitted even by local regulation."

FIREWORKS BAN

Decrying fatalities and injuries from fireworks on the Fourth of July, the board went on record as favoring the ordinance on fireworks recently introduced in City Council, which governs the sale and use of explosives, and urged Mayor Kline and Council to bring about its adoption as soon as possible.

Considering the recent recommendation for increased postal rates to wipe out a deficit in the Postal Department, and to balance the budget, the board urged that no change be made in the rates until such time as a survey, based on scientific determination, has been reported. It indorsed findings of the postal service committee, United States Chamber of Commerce, relative to the proper accounting for policy users, and for the reduction of unit costs through development of a larger volume of business.

OPPOSE SPROUL BILL

In reference of the reports made by the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board to the Finance Committee of City Council, dated January 30 and February 24, pertaining to city properties, their operation and expense, the board requested to know what action had been taken on them by the city. It further recommended to Council to prepare an ordinance authorizing the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board to make further investigation, and that one building that should be checked immediately was the Exposition Building.

The directors went on record as opposing the Sproul bill, now pending in Congress, which would establish an organization as an arbitrator of wage rates to be paid by contractors and sub-contractors on government works. It was noted:

"This bill is opposed as it permits of wage agreements between contractors and sub-contractors operating under labor union jurisdiction with the ultimate results that the United States Treasury would be depleted of large sums of money."

Indorsement was given to the proposed air tour to large cities to advertise Pittsburgh and stimulate local interest in aviation.

INDICT EWALD, 3 OTHERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(INS)—George F. Ewald, former magistrate, and his wife, Mrs. Bertha Ewald, together with Martin J. Healey and Thomas T. Tommaney, Tammany leaders, today were indicted by the special grand jury investigating the Ewald appointment to the bench.

The indictment was returned in connection with the investigation into the charge that Ewald had bought his appointment through a $10,000 loan made by Mrs. Ewald to Healey through Tommaney.

The special grand jury asking the indictment was selected by Attorney General Hamilton Ward, appointed by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt to make the investigation.

Meanwhile, investigation into the disappearance of Supreme Court Justice Joseph F. Crater, today centered in efforts to find the tall blonde woman who threatened to start a $100,000 breach of promise suit against him the day before he dropped from sight.

Yancey Pals Return to N. Y. After Crash

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Lewis Yancey and two companions, whose 20,000-mile flight over South America in a goodwill plane ended in a forced landing on a West Indies isle, came back to New York today aboard ship, downcast at the loss of their plane, which burned with all their clothing and souvenirs when it came down on Great Exuma Island.

Boy Flier, 16, Plans Cross-Country Hop

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 19.—(INS)—Although he is only 16 years old and has been flying only eight months, Robert Buck today was tuning up his plane preparing for a trans-continental flight. Young Buck said he hoped to hop shortly in an attempt to lower the trans-continental record for junior fliers, now held by Eddie Schneider, 18-year-old Jersey youth.

Sabotage Loss Laid To German Officials

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Sept. 19.—(AP)—American Agent Bonynge, during the meeting this morning of the mixed German-American commission for the examination of American war claims, made the charge that actions of German agents in the United States which caused sabotage loss to property holders were due to orders of the German government.

Seek Identity of 2 Killed Riding Train

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Sept. 19.—(INS)—Police were endeavoring today to establish the identity of two young men taken dead from the roof of a B. & O. box car here late last night. Their skulls apparently had been crushed by coming into contact with a bridge.

Sinclair in Germany Viewing Oil Fields

BERLIN, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Harry W. Sinclair, American oil man, arrived in Berlin today after a short visit to the Hanoverian oil fields. He said he had been investigating possibilities of petroleum exploitation of that area.

VOTING MACHINE FIGHT CALLED POLITICS PLOT

Injunction Suit Blockade Scheme, Says McGovern; Court Battle to Go On a preliminary injunction pending final hearing and determination of the action.

The suit, which was filed yesterday, named the three County Commissioners, County Controller Robert G. Woodside and County Treasurer John Francies as respondents.

NEED PATENT BOND

The County Commissioners failed to demand a bond to protect themselves from patent litigation, complainants in the injunction suit filed yesterday averred, an examination of the bill disclosed today.

A bond of $1,000,000, the full amount of the contract, should have been required, it is alleged, as a patent suit is likely would deprive the county of use of the machines after their purchase. The only bond demanded by the county was $100,000 guaranteeing faithful performance of contract.

Commissioner McGovern, who argued against awarding the entire contract for machines to the Poole company and suggested splitting it 50-50 between the two companies, and when this suggestion was ignored suggested that the machines be rented for one year before purchase, declared that the delay is part of a conspiracy to keep voting machines away from the voters. McGovern said:

"This action is the shadow of a conspiracy to deprive the voters of the privilege to use voting machines. The action now brought will probably delay the putting them into use.

"This is a continuation of a nine-year undercover war against the voters by the men who control the state and county Republican organization.

Commissioner Armstrong said:

"We will continue on with our contract just the same until the court notifies us to do otherwise. We don't recognize Mr. Guthrie.

"We have a contract with this company and if they fail down on it they will have to come in here and explain. It will then be up to the commissioners to decide if they are to have an extension of time or whatever else there is to be done. I am only 33⅓ per cent of the board and I cannot say what action it will take.

"The suit filed yesterday will not affect our plans in any way. Our solicitor will appear in court to fight the injunction proceeding."

HIRSH STATEMENT

Attorney Hirsh stated:

"Newspaper inquiries today at the main office of the company at Baltimore have been referred to me as counsel for the Poole Engineering Company, with regard to the suit seeking restraint of the contract for American voting machines in Allegheny County. Otherwise, why was the action not filed immediately after the warding of the contract, when the remarkable deficiencies and oversights now alleged should have existed just as well? Why the delay until this day, when the fulfillment of the contract is under way?

"The bill of complaint filed today is ridiculous on its face and in the absurd and erroneous charges it makes, and I trust, through the developing of this issue in our courts, that we may be able to remove promptly this impediment to the public business of this county."

Missing Boy Feared Kidnaped at Play

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—(INS)—Fear was expressed today that Harold Wendel, 11, of Collingsdale, Pa., who disappeared while out at play on September 7, may have been kidnaped.

The boy went to church and then out to play. Later his pet dog, "Wolf," returned home in an exhausted condition.

Silk Hosiery, $1.00

Now Specially Priced

All-silk picot top chiffon and a semi-service weight hose . . . regularly sold at a much higher price. There are more than fifteen shades . . . ranging from gunmetal to nude, suited for afternoon or evening wear . . . in both styles of hose. Not every color is available in complete size range, but there's a splendid selection of colors in each size. It's a good idea to take several pairs of these hose for college wear.

. . . Horne's, Main Floor . . .

An Exceptional Quality Silk

Pure-dye silk . . . pretty laces . . . appliques in deeper pastel hues . . . all the attributes of more expensive lingerie are met in these chemise and step-ins. They were purchased specially to sell at this low price . . . and you'll realize more definitely after they've been laundered what remarkable values they are at $1.95.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

Lustrous Soleil Hats for New Costumes

$10

The lustre and suppleness of soleil make it a favorite material for the softly treated hats of the new season.

In these hats it is draped, tucked and folded to form youthful, shallow-crown toques and more dignified hats with side brims . . . Hats for young women who wish to go to extremes with the new fashions, and hats which older women can wear becomingly.

Black, dark blue, wine and copper.

. . . Horne's, Fourth Floor . . .

So Much That Is Really NEW—In

New Neckwear, $1.00

Neckwear that is so definitely "Fall 1930"—that adds to the smartness of a new frock and cleverly disguises an older one. . . . The new lace gilet—georgette frills—smart wool face . . . all such new and flattering versions of the lingerie neckline. It will be difficult to limit your choice to one tomorrow.

. . . Horne's, Main Floor . . .

Velvet Dresses

For Women and Misses

$25

For Women—Lace-trimmed dresses for afternoon, youthful bolero models, and ensembles with detachable lace blouses which will be popular for theater wear . . . Black, wine, green, brown.

For Misses—Beautiful afternoon dresses in black or dark colors, with loop bead trimming, cowl necklines faced with light color, and simple draped models without adornment. Also, sleeveless Sunday night frocks, and ensembles with dinner frocks.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

Pointed Fox Scarfs

$49.50 $59.50

An exceptionally good collection at these moderate prices, of full-furred scarfs in sizes to suit individual tastes.

Pointed fox remains the favorite fur to wear with untrimmed suits or street frocks, being especially effective with black, oxford, and the new green and wine shades.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

Fabric Gloves

95c

Our own importation of fine slip-on fabric gloves, made with the enduring Bolton thumb, hemmed top and spear-point backs. Choose from two shades of brown, two shades of mode, chamois, gray and white. You can indulge in light shades if you prefer them, because these gloves are washable.

. . . Horne's, Main Floor . . .

New Sweaters and Skirts $2.95

New Sweaters include the new deep hip-band models, long-sleeved Antibes shirts, high-neck sports shirts, and slip-overs with round or V necklines.

New Hip Skirts are of flannel in black, dark and bright colors, and of cheerfully colored covert.

Silk Blouses, $5.75

They are in those lovely, delicate shades which form the fashionable contrast to dark suit colors and black . . . Oyster green, mint, honey-beige, toast and eggshell.

Dressy and semi-dressy models of dull crepes and satins.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

Junior-Misses' Dresses

$10

We know it is usually variety that Miss 13-to-17 wants when she chooses new frocks, so we have provided it at this one price, for tomorrow.

—Tailored Wool Crepe Frocks, like the one pictured, which has the new metal "snake" belt, metal buttons and a metal-finished boutonniere at the shoulder.

—Wool Crepe Jumper Frocks, with contrasting silk blouses, and berets of the cloth included.

—Wool Crepe and Silk Crepe Frocks in the new peplum models.

—Tailored Frocks of figured travel crepe, which has the right weight and texture for hard service.

We have chosen them all for their suitability to high school and business wear, so they are good-looking and practical at the same time.

Adorable Bloomer Dress for Tot

Pattern 2021

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

This cunning little model is so very simple to cut and sew that it could be made in no time and if you do a bit of smocking in it, it will be delightful although shirring will do nicely. The back has a band continues to form two straps on either side of the front fullness and a pearl button is used as a dainty finish. The sleeves are set in and therefore comfy and well fitting.

Pattern 2021 may be made of percale, dimity, percale, cotton broadcloth, batiste, lawn or challis in solid color or a print. The smocking should be done in the predominating color of the printed design. Smocking pattern No. 568 is 15 cents additional.

May be obtained only in sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 4 requires 2⅛ yards of 36-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size and simple exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps, for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

OUR NEW FALL AND WINTER FASHION BOOK, containing exquisite models for adults and children and an excellent assortment of transfer patterns and stamped novelties, is NOW READY. Price FIFTEEN CENTS. ESCAPES PLANE, AUTO CRASHES

Emmett "Jimmy" Williams, late of N. Aw'ins and the Downtown Y. M. C. A., seems to bear a mechanically charmed life. Some time ago his forlorn "Lizzie" ran away on the Monongahela wharf and Jimmy jumped a second before "Liz" dived beneath the river waves.

Then Jimmy went up in the air. He bought a condemned "Jenny" airplane and quickly mastered the trick of getting it up and keeping it there. But the Uniontown mountains embraced the remnants of Jenny one day. Again Jimmy jumped just in time, safe.

Yesterday in Duquesne way, a successor to the drowned "Lizzie" took fire with James at the wheel. Top, body and tires crumbled under the consuming flames.

And Williams jumped out, looked at the charred skeleton of Henry Ford's first love, bought a gallon of gas, poured some water in the radiator and triumphantly drove from the scene.

Williams owns a new plane of the latest type.

BLAKE
DALE
DALE— "BUT SOMEONE DID HEAR IT!"
BELFRIDGE— "THAT FOOL WHO WAS JUST HERE MIGHT HAVE TOLD YOU THAT . . . . BUT WOULD YOU BE AS MUCH OF A FOOL AS HE AND BELIEVE?"
L-5

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

The police receive word that a murder has been committed on the Adair estate. Investigating, the message is denied by the members of the eccentric household. A maniacal laugh is heard upstairs. It is Gerald Adair, a half-demented member of the family. He admits having sent the message. He leads the police to a room where young Bob Adair is found dead. He has been shot through the heart. Robin Dale discovers a strange message Bob had been writing in the family Bible and never finished. Old Dedrick Adair, father of the dead man, refuses permission for members of the household to be interviewed because it is the Sabbath. Returning to Dale's apartment, Sergt. Jardin finds that the revolver with which the crime was committed has been stolen from him. Upon a second visit to the Adair house Dale learns that the demented Gerald saw the murder committed. He is about to tell when he hears the creaking of old Dedrick's wheelchair, Gerald runs away in terror.

Now Go on With the Story.

CHAPTER V.

Just outside the door, on his hands and knees, pushing a huge toy automobile, was young Roderick Adair. He was very slight, pale-faced and with a frightened look in his eyes. As Gerald rushed by him the little lad cringed against the wall. He had scarcely had time to resume his playing when his father, Belfridge, came into view.

The father spoke a few words in a sharp tone, which those in the library were unable to make out, but the little lad, without a word picked up the toy and went hurriedly across the room. The older Adair was about to leave when Captain Blake called his name. Belfridge came slowly into the library. He answered the questions Blake put to him, but in no way was he able to throw any light on the killing.

"We always retire early. Saturday night I and my wife went to our room at ten o'clock. In less than half an hour we were asleep. We woke up when you rang the outer bell. The boy you just saw was asleep at eight."

"Isn't it peculiar that no one heard the shot which killed your brother?"

"Those who sleep with the slumber of the righteous, sleep soundly. There is nothing strange in that."

"But someone did hear it!" Robin Dale said that, as much to the surprise of Blake and Jardin as Belfridge Adair.

"That fool who was just here might have told you that . . . but would you be as much of a fool as he and believe?

When they were finally alone in the library Robin Dale offered the first important suggestion he had made in the case.

"If I were you, Captain Blake, I would make certain that young Gerald was not left out of the sight of one of my men until tomorrow noon. The young man's mind is peculiar enough, so that you will not be able to get another word out of him until the time he stated. However, it is also possible that there are those who do not want him to speak. And I feel they will stop at nothing to shut him up!"

"This case is crazy enough as it is, Dale . . . I suppose now it's going to get idiotically melodramatic?" suggested Blake.

It's very liable to. The fact is that Gerald can tell you something when he makes up his mind to speak . . and that's high noon tomorrow. You can use your own judgment as to the rest."

"Well, I'm going to keep Jardin right on the job . . . and the job'll be, sergeant, not to let young Gerald out of your sight long enough for anything to happen to him. I feel creepy enough about the whole affair to take this suggestion of Dale's damned seriously."

"I'm going to stick right here with Jardin, captain . . . the fact is I think this is our only out in the case. You'll never get anything out of the rest of this crowd if you question them from now until doomsday."

"I suppose you've got something else in your mind, Dale?"

"It's a suspicion, at least . . . but how we'd ever be able to make anything more out of it I can't yet see, unless we can get some help from young Gerald."

It required careful arrangements to permit Jardin and Dale to remain in the house without arousing too much suspicion. While it was logical for the police to make their investigation, it did not call for them to remain overnight. Augusta Adair, who had, since the arrival of the police, amply demonstrated that she was the head of the household, accepted Captain Blake's suggestion with little grace.

"In your blindness you will now spy upon us. Is that what you wish, sir?"

"It's our duty to protect you, Miss Adair."

"Rather say it is your duty to find someone to accuse!"

Without waiting for a reply she turned on her heel and left. However, Jardin and Dale remained at the house overnight. They took turns standing guard in hourly shifts. At ten the house settled down to absolute stillness. It gradually became chilly, too, until after midnight it was as bleak and cold as a barn. During his turn on guard, which one of them kept in the upper hallway while the other slept on the lounge in the living room, Dale, after eleven, seemed to hear faint, continuous footsteps moving to and fro in the square of rooms that bordered the hallway. Once or twice, too, he was sure he heard the dismal creak of the wheelchair.

At two o'clock Dale came downstairs to waken Jardin.

"I'm going to raid the kitchen, sarge, and see if I can snare up a cup of coffee . . . this place is like an icebox."

"Find two cups while you're at it, Dale."

It took some time to find the coffee, percolator and to heat it. Jardin apparently got impatient (or chilled) and came down into the kitchen. He was there scarcely a minute when a maniacal scream was heard upstairs, followed by loud, hysterical jabberings and then the report of a revolver shot! After that there was utter silence again.

MEYER JONASSON
LIBERTY AT OLIVER — ATLANTIC 6200

In Coats $59.75 and $95

At your price preference . . . $59.75 or $95 . . . you can pick skillful adaptations of the Paris Couture Mode. Wear for a moderate price copies of Heim, Lelong, Paquin, Patou, et al.

Heim Copy Favors Badger $95

Badger so full of light and vitality is for many the most becoming fur. Coat has characteristic Heim diagonals to accent fitted lines. Of cricket green.

Lanvin's Cuff of Mink-dyed Muskrat $59.75

The Russian influence brings a profusion of fur; note the tapering cuff point and picture-shawl collar on this Africana brown.

Third Floor

In Dresses . . $16.50

Many's the $25 dress with neither the style-newness nor the quality of these exceptional $16.50 frocks.

A Dolman Sleeve In Vionnet's Manner

and Vionnet's gracious draped cowl neckline are only a few highlights to this most successful copy. The wrap-around, draped and girdled overskirt in navy of the new. Of silk crepe. Wine, green, black, independence.

Replica of Patou's Russian Tunic is conspicuously better than its price. The manufacturer bought a silk mill's surplus satin crepe and fashioned the black underskirt of it. Jewel toned tunics in ruby, emerald or sapphire.

U. S. TO FINANCE NEW REGIMES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (INS)—American financial resources will be drawn upon to stabilize the three South American countries recently torn by revolution and, perhaps, to strengthen other governments against a possible spread of the fever which has gripped the Latin nations to the south.

Formal recognition of the new regimes in the Argentine, Peru and Bolivia accorded by the State Department opens the way for negotiations with New York banking houses for loans in each of these republics.

Secretary Stimson and the Hoover administration generally, it is believed, will look with favor upon the extension of loans not only to these nations but to others to the south. Stimson has said he expects these countries to seek loans.

GRILL SUSPECT IN GIRL'S DEATH

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 19 (AP)—Questioning of Edward Smith, 21, Negro, concerning the murder of Alice Woltman, 17, was continued today by police despite failure to connect the Negro with the crime through finger-prints found in the Woltman home.

Finger prints found on objects in the home and on a window sill were sent to Chicago yesterday for examination by experts. The marks were so blurred, experts reported, that they were valueless for identification.

Police nevertheless continued to hold Smith, who they say has admitted that he knew Alice Woltman and her sister, Henrietta.

CURIOUS CREATURES

High School Boy Hangs Himself

DENVER, Col., Sept. 19 (AP)—The body of a 12-year-old high school freshman, Norman Monhaile, who hanged himself with his belt in the basement of the family home yesterday was discovered by his mother when she returned from shopping downtown. No motive could be ascribed by relatives.

Student Chemist Errs, 5 Hurt in Blast

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19 (INS)—Five persons were today recovering from injuries received when a mixture of sodium and water exploded in a chemical laboratory of the evening High School of Commerce. The explosion was caused by a student's mistake in placing the sodium in the bottle of water.

BIG GOLD STRIKE IN NEVADA

RENO, Nev., Sept. 19 (AP)—Reports of an important gold strike at Manhattan, Nev., 75 miles north of Tonopah, were confirmed here by H. G. Clinton, widely-known geologist.

The high grade ore has been found in a northern drift in the Gold Metals Mining Company property. More than 100 feet of ore assaying as high as from $50 to $1,000 per ton has been exposed, while at the bottom face of the drift the ore assays $2,000 per ton, it was said.

Watchman Balks Three in Store Robbery

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Sept. 19—Three embryo Jesse Jameses attempted to hold up the R. & P. Coal Company store at Helvetia, and were frustrated in their efforts by the night watchman at the store.

The boys, all about 20, went from Punxsutawney their home town, to the scene of the planned robbery in an auto and began efforts to make an entry into the store, but were disturbed by the appearance of the watchman. One of the boys held a wrench toward the face of the watchman and told him to put up his hands. The watchman turned to a phone and called the police.

Indigestion

Immediate Relief!

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go learn—now—why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.

BRITON CALLS WORK PARLEY

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—An influential group of British industrialists moved today toward re-establishment of prosperity in the island empire.

The industrialists, headed by Sir William Morris, wealthy automobile manufacturer, often known as the "Henry Ford of Great Britain," have called a meeting of industrial and financial figures for September 25 to discuss the situation created by unemployment and financial depression.

It is Sir William's idea that at the meeting a "National Council of Industry" can be formed in an attempt "if humanly possible to restore the prosperity of the country."

The letter says of the National Council:

"Its object will be to secure adoption of proper measures for protecting the home market and to advance the cause of empire trade by every possible means. It will endeavor to achieve in our time some of the blessings which will flow from the concerted will of the nations of the United British commonwealth."

N. Y. Chess Player Wins in Germany

FRANKFURT-AM-MAIN, Germany, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Isaac Kashdan of New York City, Manhattan Chess Club today won second prize in the chess tournament with nine points. Nimtzowitch was first with 9½.

CHINA REVOLT END LOOMS

SHANGHAI, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—The Peiping government, a stumbling block for the past year and a half to the Nanking government, collapsed today with the resignation of its leader, Gen. Yen Hsi-Shan, according to authentic information received from the northern capital.

The virtual end of the rebellion which at times threatened to sweep the Nanking regime out of existence came as a culmination of futile efforts to get Chang Hsueh-Liang, Manchurian warlord, to pool resources and manpower with him.

Withdrawal of Yen from the helm of the rival government caused extensive jubilation in Nanking official circles where it is felt that latest developments indicated an early cessation of hostilities. Yen's resignation left Feng Yu-Hsiang alone in the field.

CANADA VOTES JOB RELIEF

OTTAWA, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Without a division, the Senate last night ratified the government bill to establish a fund of $20,000,000 for unemployment relief.

Senator James Murdock, former minister of labor for Canada, introduced an amendment calling for fair wages and an eight-hour day on all construction programs initiated under the scheme, but he later withdrew it. In its effect the amendment was similar to one proposed in the Commons by J. S. Woodsworth (Labor, Winnipeg North-Centre).

Samoans Seek U. S. Citizenship Rights

HONOLULU, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Seeking information to aid in drafting an organic act giving natives of American Samoa more freedom of government, the congressional commission, headed by Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, has held its first hearing here.

Chief K. Su'a, a Samoan resident of Honolulu, asked the commissioners to give Samoans American citizenship with a government similar to Porto Rico's.

Missouri Attorney General Sues Wife

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Stratton Shartel, youthful attorney general of Missouri, has filed suit for divorce from his wife, Martha Wills Shartel. His petition charged incompatability and abandonment and alleged Mrs. Shartel said she no longer loved him. He asked custody of their two daughters, and said a property settlement had been agreed upon.

Owner Sees Car Taken, Recovers It in Chase

DOVER, Ohio, Sept. 19.—County Recorder Fred Frank, who saw a youth backing Frank's automobile from a downtown curb, pursued the car in another and recovered it in 10 minutes when the driver abandoned it four miles north of Dover. The robber disappeared.

Ex-Governor Lind Of Minnesota, Dies

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—John Lind, former governor and congressman from Minnesota and who once went to Mexico as a personal representative of President Woodrow Wilson, died at his home last night after an eight months' illness. He was 76 years old.

HOOVER FAMILY UNITE AT CAMP

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Saturday is to be reunion day for the Hoover family at the President's camp in the Virginia mountains. For the first time in months, the President and Mrs. Hoover and their two sons, Herbert, Jr., and Allan, will be together.

Herbert, Jr., is resting at the camp in an effort to overcome a stomach ailment that has forced him to take a leave of absence of several months from his work. He is still in bed with no change reported in his condition.

Mrs. Hoover and Allan, who is to return to his studies at Harvard next week, plan to go to the camp today. The President is to motor down early Saturday, unaccompanied by guests.

Derby Attached, Straw Rejected As Substitute

DOVER, Ohio, Sept. 19.—Edward Manson, whose derby hat was attached with his household effects for a rent bill, was refused permission today by Justice W. G. Immel to exchange a straw hat for the derby, pending the outcome of the suit. Manson continues to wear the straw.

Cigaret Robbery Suspect Returned

BEAVER FALLS, Sept. 19.—Wesley Nettles, wanted in Beaver Falls for the robbery of the Wilner tobacco store of $1,500 worth of cigarets, was brought here from the Michigan state prison by Sheriff William V. Kennedy and held for a hearing.

WRECKED BOAT CREW SOUGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Coast Guard craft are searching the waters of the Pacific southwest of Cape Blanco, Ore., for survivors of the lumber schooner, South Coast, believed foundered with the captain and crew of 18 men.

The South Coast left Crescent City, Cal., northbound Tuesday afternoon in a heavy fog and was not seen again. Wreckage from the vessel, an empty lifeboat, a floating deckhouse and many logs were found scattered on the sea.

Capt. Stanley Sorensen, master of the vessel, was said by relatives here to have dreaded the south coast of Oregon, considered very treacherous. The crew all signed on from the San Francisco Bay region.

How Old Are You?

Today Is My Birthday—I'm 41

BUT NOT FAT

What a difference a year will make—Just a year ago I was fat and 40—I was indolent and far from ambitious.

Look at me today—You won't find a pound of excess fat on me—I am vivacious—ambitious—Active—feel as good as I did at 30.

It's so easy to take off unwanted fat if you only know how—just cut out pie—pastry—ice cream—sweet desserts and do just as I did.

Eat moderately of lean meat—fish or chicken—eat cabbage—spinach—cauliflower—sprouts or carrots—a fruit or green salad—go easy on potatoes, rice, butter, cheese, cream and sugar.

Be sure and take one half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

If you do this you will lose the fat that makes you lazy and sluggish—You'll have energy—ambition—your skin will be clean and clear—your eyes will sparkle—you'll gain in charm and vivaciousness.

Get Kruschen—Nature's own magic salts, at any drug store in the World—an 85-cent jar lasts four weeks.

LOCAL STUDENT NAMED EDITOR

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 19.—Mr. Theodore Liefeld, Pittsburgh, a senior in the College of Liberal Arts, has been elected as editor-in-chief of the Capital Chimes, campus bi-weekly newspaper. Liefeld is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Liefeld, 1326 Murray avenue, Pittsburgh.

Theodore Liefeld.

Liefeld served as a reporter on the Chimes in his sophomore year, as news editor in his junior year, and has now attained the highest journalistic honor on the Capital campus. Mr. Liefeld is also a member of the Capital Glee Club, of the Symphony Orchestra, of the Capital Band, and of the Glee Orchestra. He is also a member of Kappa Alpha Pi, local honorary society, and of Kappa Sigma Upsilon, local social fraternity. Liefeld was an honor student for two years.

Member Is Host To Mission Circle

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of Brighton Road Presbyterian Church meet this afternoon in the home of Mrs. James George, 3614 Fleming avenue. Miss Kathryn E. Falck will lead devotionals. Mrs. Charles Egerter will discuss "William Carey, the Father of Modern Missions," and Mrs. Edward Geyer, "Work Among the Lumber Camps."

Settlement Opens Activites for Fall

The winter season of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement, Center avenue, will be in full blast with the reorganization of clubs and announcement of the fall and winter sports schedule, according to Director Sidney Teller. With 14 clubs already reorganized, 50 are expected to be operating soon. At an athletic rally, October 3, the sports program, with its six basketball league and hiking group, is to be announced.

Mother's Corns Are All Gone

That's what an English girl writes to the makers of Radox—the greatest corrector of common foot ailments the world has ever known.

Millions of mothers in America have corns and bunions and callouses as well as tired, burning, aching feet.

These foot troubles will all go in a week if you will use Radox faithfully for a few nights in succession as directed.

You can get Radox at any real drugstore in America. Mayflower Drug Stores sell dozens of packages a day—Get a package; follow directions and if Radox doesn't do as advertised get your money back.

What English Girl Wrote

"Mother suffered for years with very bad corns, but now after using Radox, has not got a corn, or any sign of a corn at all. She used three tablespoonfuls of Radox in two quarts of hot water (not boiling) so that she could put her feet in with comfort, and soaked the feet for half an hour, adding more hot water as the other got a bit cold, after which she found she could pick off pieces of corn quite easily. Now they are gone."

"These Wise $6 shoes should give satisfaction and service equal to $10 shoes,"

DR. ALLEN ROGERS

PH. D., UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Supervisor Department of Industrial Chemical Engineering, Pratt Institute

Member of American Chemical Institute; American Institute of Chemical Engineers; awarded Grazelle medal, 1930; author "Manual of Industrial Chemistry."

THIS graceful continental heel—the high slenderized cuban favored for spectator sports and less formal wear—gives quite a new, different air to the three leading shoe styles of the new season, the opera . . . the single strap . . . the low cut oxford.

Wise offers all of them in the important black and brown velvetta, suede, or suede calf trimmed with fine fashion exactness in matching smooth calf, novelty grain kid, or patent leather.

Made like $10 shoes or even more expensive in style! That is saying a lot for a $6 shoe, but not too much for Wise $6 shoes. Dr. Allen Rogers, the noted authority, proves in an impartial analysis that you can expect $10 satisfaction from a Wise $6 shoe. Make the test for yourself. You can—with any pair of Wise shoes.

The opera in black velvetta suede covers its continental heel in leather. Elaborated with perforated calf. Simplified in price—at Wise—to $6

The low placed single strap is a high style in this velvetta suede model combined with novelty grain calf. Black or Brown Solid leather heels. A price possible at Wise only — $6.

WISE SHOE

The last makes this low cut oxford feel wonderful. Brown velvetta suede. Smooth calf trim and heel cover. The price will make you marvel. $6.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Patience is not an outstanding virtue of radio listeners tuning into broadcasts of important news events; they are too often discouraged by the efforts of announcers to impart vividness and excitement to their accounts.

Louis Reid

They appear to be unmindful of the fact that the ad-libbing callers are not trained reporters and that they are working in a medium which offers no time for revision. Yet it seems to me there has been a decided improvement in the past year in the broadcasting technique of the big noun-and-adjective men when assigned to the description of news events.

Announcers Now More Confident

Experience in airing a succession of startling front page stories has given the announcers confidence and assurance. They have rushed from Graf Zeppelin arrivals to those of trans-Atlantic airplanes, from parades of celebrities up Ticker Tape Canyon to air endurance contests off Lake Michigan, from the race tracks of the masses to the polo fields of the nobility, from the steps of City Hall to the Rapidan retreat of the Great White Father. The variety and extent of their rushes have enlarged not only their news sense but their poise and accuracy and vocabularies.

Of the various word-painters on the microphones Ted Husing seems to me most deserving of the gold-lined megaphone. Not only does he cover more mileage in transferring the news events to the armchairs, but he, more than any of his colleagues, with the exception of McNamee, has the knack of describing them graphically. Speed in talking, is, of course, an undoubted aid to him. His gabbing has the rush and roar of a waterfall—too much of a rush and roar at times. He appears to be on familiar terms with every phase of activity that appeals alike to broadcasters and managing editors.

Husing was once a salesman of wicker furniture which may account for his eloquence but not for his eager interest in news-in-the-making. He might have been a great reporter had he turned his footsteps to the newspaper offices rather than the broadcast studios. He is a slender, nervous, dynamic figure who goes in for strange sartorial effects—the silk stripe on his tuxedo trousers is nearly three inches wide. There is a Valentino touch to his haircut. He waits until the zero second before facing the microphone and while he is waiting his voice dominates the conversation about him. For a time he sank his identity beneath the more dignified name of Edward B. Husing, but soon discarded it for the more easily remembered "Ted."

Last Week Notable In Sports Events

Were we summoned by a Senate committee to name the greatest sports week in the history of the armchairs we would without a pause select that now drawing to a close. Such a week must have won the huzzahs of the multitude as they have not been won since the last two games of the last world series. The America's Cup races, horse races at Belmont Park, the battles of the Cubs and Robins, the polo matches at Meadowbrook, the tennis championship at Forest Hills, the pros' struggle with old man par at Fresh Meadow—all have tumbled in the last week from the loudspeakers. Only the McLarnin-Singer fight, of the important events, was missing from the microphones.

Pianos To Loan FREE

Frankly, we have too many pianos now in stock. Of course, we would like to sell them. Some new, some used instruments. Every piano in the sale will be sacrificed at a price almost unbelieveable. The slashing reductions on Grands, Players and Uprights, should cause many to be sold immediately. All pianos not sold outright will be placed in the homes of families interested in owning a piano in the immediate future, particularly homes where there are children. You must call at the store to file your request.

Positively No Charge Of Any Kind

We, of course, reserve the right to select the homes in which the pianos are to be placed and they may be used indefinitely until we need them.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

Prominent business men and government officials and internationally famous vocalists and musicians will participate in a program to be broadcast through KDKA and WCAE at 10 o'clock tonight in which tribute will be paid to the expansion program of the radio industry. Technically, the program will be known as "The Dedication of Camden as the Radio Center of the World."

Darrell V. Martin

A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company; Senator David Baird, of New Jersey; Gov. Morgan F. Larson, of New Jersey, and Secretary of Labor Davis will be among the speakers. Graham McNamee will introduce them. The broadcast will last one hour.

KQV is to broadcast the first football game of the local season tonight when Duquesne University meets West Virginia at Forbes Field. Paul Miller and Jack Buchheit are the narrators starting at 8:30.

Billy Jones and Ernie Hare—the Interwoven Pair—are to appear at the Duquesne Garden Radio Show on Wednesday night, October 1.

Incidentally Joseph Manasee, the decorator for the show, has won five international prizes for creating the best store window displays.

Thomas Flanagan, of New Kensington, advises:

"Put Thrasher and Myers to work on NBC and CBS when they fail to come on the air with scheduled programs. Last Saturday night I waited for Pickard Family on KDKA and something was substituted that I didn't care for. Since this detective agency was so capable in locating the KDKA grand piano perhaps they'll be able to find out where good programs go when they don't go on the air."

Right now the Thrasher-Myers Detective Agency is perturbed over a cross-ward puzzle published September 7, but as soon as they solve it, we'll notify them of this more serious business.

Phil Dewey, NBC baritone, and Freddie Albright, drummer of the Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra, have been friends in New York for five years, but only recently discovered that they were born and raised within 30 miles of each other in Indiana. Phil hails from Rochester, Ind., and Freddie from Kokomo.

Albie Evans, saxophonist who plays on many NBC programs, claims to be the original hard luck fellow. He is addicted to hay fever and reports that he recently moved into a place with a large patch of golden rod in the back yard.

SCHOLARSHIP

Virginia Kendrick

Virginia Kendrick, titian contralto of KDKA and WCAE, has been awarded a scholarship at the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia, she was notified yesterday by Josef Hoffmann, president. Virginia is to study under Horatio Connell, beginning the twenty-ninth of this month. We have more congratulations to offer Virginia. She has been one of the hardest working artists about Pittsburgh studios, fully deserving of the high honor which has come to her. When Virginia Kendrick sings she paints musical pictures. Her career has carried her far, but she is ever the sweet titian beauty of high school days to her thousands of Pittsburgh admirers. We wish her good fortune!

QUESTION A DAY

William Horne, East Liberty—We recently had an argument about the oldest station west of Pittsburgh. My friend says KFI at Los Angeles, and I say KGW at Portland, Ore. Who is right?

Answer—Sorry to disappoint you, but both are wrong. KYW at Chicago was the first station west of Pittsburgh, being constructed shortly after KDKA went on the air in 1920.

Incidentally three Pittsburghers who put the first broadcast on the air are to open the Radio World's Fair at New York the night of September 22. They are H. P. Davis, Dr. Frank Conrad and C. W. Horn.

* * *

Jack, Jill and Boots do their first WJAS broadcast at 7:45 Saturday night.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

We feel called upon to mention—or to point out to strangers—that Lloyd Thomas and Jim Simpson are running a mustache race. It takes a stiff upper lip to beat this man Simpson, who has been in training so long, says Mr. Thomas, but he feels certain that he will win.

ASK NEW RADIO STATION HERE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19—(AP.)—An application to construct new stations at Harrisburg and Pittsburgh has been filed with the Federal Radio Commission by Aeronautical Radio, Incorporated. The call of the Harrisburg station would be WAED, and of the Pittsburgh station WAEC.

The application asked permission to broadcast from both stations on 393, 400, 414 and 420 kilocycles.

TRESS DENIES ISH TOSSING

OS ANGELES, Sept. 19.—P.)—Jocelyn Lee, screen act-s, filed an answer and cross nplaint for divorce, denying arges of her husband, Luther A ed, film director, that she had eated scenes in the hotel at gua Caliente, Mexico, and urled dishes and glasses at him hen she was in a fit of rage. She asked custody of their two minor children, also sought by Reed.

In answering the original suit filed a week ago by her husband, Miss Lee said the director frequently had subjected her to beatings with his fist. She asked all community property, estimated at $100,000, be awarded to her, in addition to $750 for court costs and $5,000 for attorney's fees.

Pair Wed 16 Years To Devote Lives To Church

BALTIMORE, Sept. 19.—(Universal)—After 16 years of marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Oswald have decided to devote their lives to the church.

Mrs. Oswald yesterday entered the little Carmelite convent here and her husband, a Brazilian pianist, is on his way to Wernersville, Pa., to enter the Jesuit order at the monastery there.

Both Oswald and his wife were teachers in the Peabody Conservatory of Music. She is a sister of Signor Bachelli, noted Italian author. Oswald has given piano concerts all over the world.

URGES PASSAGE OF TAG FIX BAN

A request to pass the ordinance eliminating tag fixing was to be sent to City Council today by John M. Rice, president of the Pittsburgh Motor Club. Rice said the practice is damaging the entire traffic law enforcement work of the city, and teaches motorists to disrespect all automobile regulations.

A resolution asking Council to abolish tag fixing, passed by the board of directors of the club, July 8, was included in the letter.

Gets $10,900 Award Against Light Co.

Joseph E. Schiff, of 4773 Scioto street, was awarded $10,900 by a jury in Judge James H. Gray's court on his suit against the Duquesne Light Company. Schiff testified that August 27, 1927, he was thrown from a truck of the American Tar Product Company by a ladder protruding from a truck of the Duquesne company as he passed it on Broad street, Sewickley.

His own truck ran over his arm and foot, crushing his arm so that amputation was necessary, Schiff testified.

"WILL ALWAYS BE A BOOSTER FOR KONJOLA"

Pittsburgh Resident Tells How New Medicine Put An End to Years of Neuritis.

What cheerful news this is for all who suffer from neuritis, and who may fear that they never will find relief from this most distressing ailment.

MR. J. E. CHAMBERS

Take the experience of Mr. J. E. Chambers, 3830 Perrysville Avenue, Pittsburgh, and then hear all about this modern medicine from the Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh. Read the words of Mr. Chambers, who said to the Konjola Man:

"Neuritis in my arms and shoulders caused misery for the past two years. My work is outdoors, and I am exposed to all kinds of weather. I tried many medicines that were highly recommended, but could find no relief. Friends advised me to give Konjola a trial, and this I did. To date I have used six bottles, and with the first two came signs of relief. As I continued with the treatment all my pains disappeared, and my bowels were regulated. I highly recommend Konjola to anyone who suffers as I did, and I will always be a booster for Konjola."

So it goes; victory after victory when Konjola is given a chance to show why seven million bottles of this amazing medicine were used in two years. Konjola is a medicine of the aged or the infant; for all the family. That is why Konjola is a household word in tens of thousands of American homes.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where daily he is meeting the public.

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM DFARR

The boys and girls soon will be back at their classes at Pitt, and that reminds us. English instructors, weighed down under the countless themes written in classes by freshmen, usually appoint a few seniors as readers. These seniors generally grade the papers. Last year a freshman who was continually suffering from the theme problem appealed to a senior who was a member of the same fraternity for help. The senior tossed him a theme he himself had written a few years before. The freshman copied the theme, which was something about spring and the flowers, and turned it in as his own. Now here is where the climax occurs, and you'd better grip your chair: the senior happened to be a reader for the English instructor of the freshman. The instructor examined this particular theme in cursory fashion, graded it a barely passing mark and turned it over to the senior for final scrutiny. The senior allowed the mark to stand and later gave the freshman aich-e-double-l.

From Vincent Lopez scrapbook:

There is a caricature by Rosenberg which shows Lopez with a bay-window . . . an interview in the Daily Mirror which tells of his study of Hindu occult lore . . . a piece from the Cleveland News which boasts he was the first to sign his name on Bertha Brainard's piano . . . Cholly Knickerborker's story that he was playing for society at Saratoga . . . a piece from the Passaic (N. J.) Herald which insists Vincent was playing for Park avenue, but not a high-hatter himself . . . The New York World's contention that Lopez can do "Chocolate Soldier" as well as Toscanini . . . The Brooklyn Eagle's theory that Lopez interprets the mood of New York City . . . The Lexington (Ky.) Leader's report that Lopez had signed a million-dollar contract with the St. Regis Hotel . . . The Syracuse American's item that Lopez wants to be a millionaire . . .

The Erie Dispatch-Herald announcing that the hearts of maids in every state in the Union beat a bit faster at the sound of Lopez' voice . . . The radio editor of the Toledo (O.) News-Bee thanking Lopez for acknowledging the News-Bee's kind notice . . . Variety reporting that gambling at Saratoga was up in the air, but that Lopez was on it . . .

The McKeesport News revealing that Lopez goes in for astrology . . . An unidentified clipping telling that the young man is of Spanish ancestors and once studied for the priesthood . . . The Toronto Daily Star revealing Lopez' opinion that jazz, as primitive music, is suited to the tempo of this fast day and age . . . The Omaha Bee News boasting that when Vincent was 5 years old he could play "Chopsticks" . . . And the New York Telegram's story that Lopez wants a girl who should be young and intelligent and intuitive but not too clever . . . And he still hasn't found her . . .

Reminiscence: Martin McDonough remembers a fire in Lawrenceville many years ago. The firemen of this particular engine house were playing handball outside their home when a blaze broke out in the attic. A mischievous spectator telephoned a nearby engine house and the neighbors arrived and were fighting the fire before the hand-balling firemen were aware of what was going on. The fire captain whose place had burned offered a reward.

Lane Reported Out of Race for Porter's Seat

LANE ABANDONS RACE FOR POST OF PORTER

Leaves Erk Virtually Alone In 32nd District Contest; Term Expires in March

Attorney Charles G. Lane, Jr., is out of the race as a candidate for the vacancy caused by the death last spring of Congressman Stephen G. Porter, according to reliable report. Lane's removal leaves Edmund F. Erk, secretary to Porter for 20 years, practically alone in the race.

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the Republican committee of Allegheny County, has called a meeting of the committeemen and women of the Thirty-second Congressional District at 2 p. m. Saturday in North Side Carnegie Music Hall, to select a successor to Porter as the Republican nominee for the full term beginning next March.

A successor for Porter's unexpired term from December to March will be elected by voters at the regular election November 4, in accordance with a writ issued by Gov. John S. Fisher.

Before leaving Pittsburgh today for a vacation, Lane informed his friends who had offered to support him that he would not be a candidate, and did not wish his name presented for consideration by the committee members next Saturday.

EARTH TEN FEET DEEP FORCED OUT OF HILL ONTO NEW FOUNDATION FOR ALLEGHENY RIVER BOULEVARD

BOY FIGHTS, FOILS AIM OF FATHER

Man Ends His Life Thinking Wife Dead as She Falls When He Shoots Again

A 17-year-old boy, just out of a sick bed, today was pointed to by police as the savior of his mother, threatened with death by the father, who killed himself after vainly trying to shoot his wife.

The youth, John J. Kelly, Jr., 17, of 1133 Pennsylvania avenue, leaped at his father, John J. Kelly, Sr., 53, when the man drew a revolver and pointed it at the boy's mother, according to police.

The shot went wild, and the father, who has not been living with his family, dodged away from the boy, in pursuit of the mother, Mrs. Mary Kelly, 42, when she tried to run downstairs.

FALLS DOWN STAIRS

As her husband fired a second time, Mrs. Kelly tripped and fell down the stairs, police said. As his wife fell, police said, Kelly turned the gun on himself and ended his life with a bullet fired into his brain, believing he had slain his mate.

Mrs. Kelly said, according to police:

"Junior was sick in bed all day. He did not go to work. I told him to get up and get washed as I was expecting friends from Youngstown. I went to the kitchen to prepare some sandwiches when I heard a rap on the door.

"There stood my husband whom I have not seen for more than four years. I did not recognize him at first—he was somewhat intoxicated. 'Do you want to see me,' he said. I replied 'No.'

" 'If you don't want to see me now, you will never see me again,' he said. He turned as if to go down the steps, when he pulled an automatic gun from his coat pocket, and he turned around and aimed it at me saying: 'If you do not want anything to do with me, I'll finish it all.'

GRAPPLES WITH SIRE

"Before he had a chance to fire the gun, Junior leaped from the other room and started to grapple with his father. The first shot lodged in the table. It was then that I started to run down the steps. My husband packed up and left us about four years ago."

The body was taken to the morgue.

WERTZ TO TALK IN WEST VIEW

Ray Wertz, assistant divisional state highway superintendent, was announced today as the principal speaker at the first fall meeting of the West View Board of Trade, to be held at No. 3 Engine House, Perry Highway, Monday night.

He will take as his topic, "Safety on the Perry Highway," it was said. Local affairs, including a postoffice and the Lowries Run road extension, also will be discussed.

The board of directors of the body will meet tomorrow night at the home of W. H. Wilt, secretary, Wellington drive and Perry Highway, it was announced.

Bellevue Girl Medal Winner

Miss Angie Holman, representing the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, won the gold medal awarded for excellence in a speaking contest held Wednesday night in the Bellevue Methodist Protestant Church, under auspices of the Bellevue unit, W. C. T. U. Five young people participated.

$1,000 Fire Damages Carson St. Store

Fire of unknown origin last night resulted in $1,000 damage to the men's furnishing store of Benjamin Burak, 2706 Carson street. The blaze was confined to the rear of the store. Battalion Fire Chief Sol Klein estimated the damage.

SLIDE COVERS BOULEVARD

Another delay threatened the new Allegheny River boulevard today as workmen strove to clear its freshly-graded path above Nadine station of thousands of tons of earth which fell on it through the night as the hillside above gave way.

Loosened by recent rains and excavation work on the roadway below, the landside threatened to destroy three houses.

The home of John Allison was thrown out of plumb when dirt piled against it. Doors and windows could not be opened. Homes of Richard Ireland and John Sill were threatened with cracked foundations.

The foundation of the road was forced up by the pressure of the slide.

Roadmen were set at work this morning clearing away the debris. The roadway is covered with 10 feet of earth for several hundred yards.

Man Acquitted, Held On Another Charge

A few minutes after he had been acquitted on a worthless check charge in court yesterday, Raymond Quinlan was committed to jail by a federal commissioner in default of $2,000 bond until the next term of United States Court here. He was charged with having assisted in the transportation of a stolen automobile from Pittsburgh to Nashua, N. H., on June 30.

Need 132,069 Registrations Oct. 4 to Equal '29 Mark

Returns from all but two of Pittsburgh's 405 election districts show 35,678 men and women registered last Tuesday, the second day this year, as qualified to vote at the general election November 4. The total for the first day, September 4, was 20,636, with three districts missing.

An intensive campaign will be required to induce voters to register on the last day, October 4, if the total for the year is to be brought within the total of 188,383 for last year, according to the registration commissioners.

The registration in 1926 for the fight between the Pepper-Fisher and the Vare-Beidleman tickets totaled 91,812 distributed as follows: first day, 20,917; second day, 24,144; third day, 46,751.

Last Tuesday's registration was encouraging to friends of Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for governor. The wards influenced by former President of Council James F. Malone and State Senator James J. Coyne, both of whom supported Pinchot in the primary, topped all other so-called organization wards. The Nineteenth Ward, considered independent, led the city with a registration of 2,577. Other big independent wards, with a large Malone constituency, reported as follows: Eleventh, 1,373; Thirteenth, 1,350; Fourteenth, 1,988; Twenty-sixth, 1,489.

The Fourth Ward, home of Coyne and the Fifth, home of Malone, registered 1,519 and 1,477 respectively. Returns from other wards friendly to Coyne were: Second, 1,046; Ninth, 1,187; Tenth, 1,385; Fifteenth, 1,354.

CHAPTER XXIII.

The pale circle of light floated up the stairway, danced across the big, dark upstairs hall. And Cathie, who was afraid of the dark, afraid of burglars, afraid of the very house itself, just leaned against the wall and waited. She couldn't move. Couldn't scream. Couldn't do anything. She was paralyzed with fright.

It would be only a moment until the darting circle found her. And after that. . .her numbed brain refused to act.

And then her courage came back.

"Who's there?" she asked in a low voice, commanding and steady.

The exploring circle of light wavered, went out.

Instantly Cathie's hand found the switch, flooding the big square hall with a blaze of light.

On the top step, leaning against the balustrade, was Chester Farnsworth, the electric torch in one hand, his shoes in the other.

"Chester, what are you doing? You almost scared me to death!" In her relief and anger, Cathie's voice sounded shrill, almost shrewish.

An Insult
Asks Cathie if Moore Is Present

The color came back into Chester's face. He set shoes and torch on the floor and sat down on the top step, wiping his damp forehead before he spoke. "And didn't you scare me! What the devil do you mean, prowling around the halls in the middle of the night?"

"What do I mean. . .I can walk in my own halls when I want to, can't it?"

Cathie hadn't mean to say that. She certainly did not think of the halls, or the house as hers. She could have bitten off her tongue.

"Your halls. Yeh! That's the refrain. Yours. Yours. Well, I'm still welcome in them, while my father lives. Welcome. Do you understand?"

"Shh! You'll wake him. Wake everyone!"

"Yeh? Well, I haven't anything to conceal. I'm not afraid. Why are you trying to keep so quiet? What were you doing, creeping around in the dark? Who's here? Moore?"

"Chester Farnsworth, you can't talk like that! I won't have it! I don't care if you are my husband's son. I—"

"Shut up! You'll wake him, and we'll have a fine scene!"

"He isn't here, I tell you! He's gone. He left Thursday—you know he did!"

"Oh, get the lover off your mind, will you? I'm talking about my father."

"You can't call Gordon Moore my—my lover. You know perfectly well—"

"I know a lot more than my poor doddering parent, little one. Oh, for God's sake, stop that noise. Get back to your room!" And when she struggled and tried to push him away he half pushed, half carried her back to the room she had left just a few short minutes before. Loose-jointed, stoop-shouldered as he was, he was strong. She could not struggle against him.

"Now go to bed, and forget it," he said, breathing hard.

"Not until you tell me what you were doing here!"

"Now listen. You don't want to get in wrong with me, do you?"

Relief
Husband Suggests Trip To Mountains

"I don't care—Oh, why do you come here, making trouble? What have I done that you should hate me so?"

"Oh, nothing, nothing at all!" he smiled unpleasantly.

"I haven't. I'm not making trouble between you and your father. Then why do you—"

"Oh, all right!" he inter-

INN RAID NETS SLOT MACHINES

Charles Faulkner, described by county detectives as the owner of the Bettis Field Inn, Mifflin Township, where they said they confiscated two slot machines, was to be questioned today by Chief County Detective George Murren.

Detectives James Reddington and James O'Brien said they raided the inn, located near the entrance to Bettis Field, on orders of Murren, after complaints were made that gambling devices had been operated at the place.

MOTOR LICENSE FORMS SENT

Officials of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles at Harrisburg have notified the Pittsburgh Motor Club that applications for 1931 automobile license tags will be mailed to 1,000,000 automobile owners in Pennsylvania, beginning today. About 300,000 will be received in Allegheny County. Applications can be returned with fees to the bureau after October 1.

The new tags become legal for use December 15. Tags issued for 1930 will expire December 31.

Bishop to Address School Conference

Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, of the Pittsburgh diocese, will be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of teachers, principals and supervisors of parochial grade and high schools in the Boys' High School, 4720 Fifth avenue, tomorrow morning. The Rev. Paul E. Campbell, superintendent of parochial schools, will preside.

NEW CLUBHOUSE OPENING SET

The new $125,000 St. Clair Country Club house, in Upper St. Clair Township, will be formally opened tomorrow night. The old building was destroyed by fire about a year ago.

A special program of music will be given during the inspection hours, from 8 to 11 p. m. The building will be open Sunday to members only.

The building is constructed of brick, tile and steel. The main floor contains the dining room, grill, lobby and private rooms.

The building committee was composed of J. M. Hopwood, chairman; B. H. Cannon and Ray Dudley. Officers of the club are Hermann F. Rouff, president; Dr. T. I. Cottam, vice president; Mr. Cannon, treasurer, and R. F. Hershey, secretary.

Charges Mate Sold Clothes to Gamble

Her husband, Louis A. Harris, sold some of her clothes to obtain money to gamle, Mrs. Florence Harris, Walden street, testified at the hearing of her divorce suit before Judge Frank P. Patterson.

Police Trap Fails In Extortion Plot

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 19.—Although police set a watch for an alleged gang of blackmailers who demanded $800 from F. E. Tauber, 50, of Cokeville, a decoy package placed in a designated spot was taken without apprehension of suspects.

A note had previously been received by Tauber saying that later the money would be returned with interest.

Nominations Slated By Veterans' Post

Nomination of officers will take place at a meeting of W. Ralph McNulty Post No. 214, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in the post's rooms, Leslie Park, next Tuesday.

Hand Shakers Quit After 388 Hours, Bet Is Off

Elliott's endurance handshakers, forced to quit after 388 hours, today were recovering in their homes after physicians warned them that they would have to give up the contest they started September 2.

They are Charles Mathews, of 316 Pensdale avenue, and Joseph Cue, of 900 Chartiers avenue. The contest started when they met in front of an Elliott store, shook hands, and one bet the other he could shake hands longer.

Last night, after doctors told them their hearts were showing signs of the strain, they called off the $8 bet and ended the competition.

They quit just 117 hours under the mark they had set and crawled into bed in Cue's home, to try for a long-distance sleep record.

Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal. Sept. 19.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

What do you say to this? Let's everybody send one dollar apiece for a fund to buy a loving cup for Sir Thomas Lipton, bigger than the one he would have got if he had won. To everybody who really admires a fine sportsman, I would suggest a Lipton cup fund in care of Mayor Walker in New York. Let Jimmy buy it and present it in behalf of everybody with an inscription along this line, "To possibly the world's worst yacht builder but absolutely the world's most cheerful loser. You have been a benefit to mankind, Sir Thomas. You have made losing worthwhile." Now get busy and send Jimmy a buck.

Yours, WILL.

BULLET HALTS FLEEING PAIR

An alleged prowler is in the Braddock General Hospital today with a bullet in his left thigh, and his companion is under arrest at the Braddock Police Station.

Patrolman John Macara said he answered a call from Dr. Michael Mendracki, Crystal Building, Braddock avenue, who complained that two men were prowling in nearby offices.

Thomas Murphy, 33, of Arch street, and Mike Gable, 24, also of Arch street, fled when the officer approached the building, according to Macara, who said he fired upon them.

Murphy dropped with a bullet in his thigh, but Gable continued to run until the officer caught him near Ninth street and Wood way, Braddock. Police said they refused to say what they had been doing in the building.

LUCKY GIRL

rupted, and sighed. But evidently his mood had changed, for he paused to light a cigaret, and then he said, almost kindly, "I'm not looking for trouble, Catherine. As I said once before, you lay off of me, and I'll lay off of you. There's enough for both I guess . . . now I'll tell you what I was pussy-footing up the stairs in the dead of night for. Enid and I had words and I walked out on her. I came in here quietly, so dad wouldn't know. I don't want him to worry, see?"

"But he'll have to find out, if you've left her!"

"I haven't left her, damn it! I said we had words—that's all. We'll make up tomorrow. She knows which side her bread is buttered on. She'll come to terms all right, all right. Now, will you keep your mouth shut?"

"Yes."

"All right. Not a word to the old man. Shake on it?" His chill, damp hand found hers and grasped it. Then he tiptoed away, and the door of the orchid guest room closed behind him.

Next morning Cathie rose pale and heavy-eyed, and the dread of the night noises and the dark became almost an obsession, growing stronger day by day.

"Pack up a suitcase. You and I are going to the mountains for a few days. We both need a rest," her husband told her a few days later when her pallor and lassitude were noticeable, even to his unobserving eyes.

It was a real relief. It wasn't only the nights that were hideous, lying awake . . . listening . . . listening . . . the days were almost as bad. The soft-footed Chinese, the furtive, red-eyed maid . . . good heavens, was there ever such a place? How had Mr. Farnsworth stood it all these years? No wonder he wanted to get married . . . living alone here would be terrible . . . terrible!

And Chester . . . Chester was unbearable. He was always looking at her, out of his suspicious little brown eyes. She could almost laugh at that sometimes . . . to think of anyone being suspicious of her—suspecting Gordon Moore of being her lover! Sometimes—for shamed half minutes, she almost wished that it was true . . . oh, to have someone to love . . . that way . . .

A Surprise

Learns That She Will See Moore

Thinking of that she almost envied Marguerite, with her tragic mask of a face, her tell-tale red mouth . . . Marguerite had had something she'd never have . . . and she'd had a baby . . . she'd had that much even if it was wicked and shameful . . . even if the baby had died. . . . Anything is better than just getting old without ever really living. . . .

Then the guilty red would dye her small, troubled face. . . . Dear God, help me. Help me to be good. What would ma say . . . oh, what's the matter with me? I never had bad thoughts like that before. . . . It's because I'm so lonely . . . and, oh, to think that nobody will ever love me . . . never, never . . . in all my life! And all the time Mr. Farnsworth will be getting older, and falling asleep more . . . oh, I can't bear it! I can't! I can't!

But she knew she could. "You can stand anything if you have to," ma always said. She would . . . she'd make Chester like her better too, and never let Mr. Farnsworth know she was sorry. . . .

She was gay, starting out on the trip, and Mr. Farnsworth seemed happy too.

"What the name of this place?" she asked when the blue car was speeding along the highway. "Where are you taking me?"

"Why, up to the dam. Didn't I tell you?"

She looked at him, stricken. "The dam . . . where . . . where you're working?"

"Yes, you'll like it Catherine. It will be good for you to get off into the real country. Great gang up there, too. Lively bunch of young engineers, and Gordon Moore—you like Gordon. The old, sick aunt is a great character, too. You'll enjoy it!"

"Yes. It will be nice," she said dutifully.

What was the use? Oh, what was the use of trying? When her own husband, her own husband, kept dragging her back to him?

Meredith, at the wheel, increased speed. The blue car, bringing Cathie to Gordon Moore, shot ahead in the gathering gloom.

PARIS TRIP AGE LIMIT CUT

Gloria Swanson sends some good news to the girls of Pittsburgh today. She has been advised that there were scores of girls here who wanted to be considered in her offer of a free de luxe trip to Paris but found themselves ineligible on account of the fact that it had been decreed that the fortunate girl getting the award must be at least 21 and unmarried.

Last night Miss Swanson wired the Sun-Telegraph as follows:

"My offer to pay all the expenses of a tour to Paris for a Pittsburgh girl to be selected by the Sun-Telegraph, has created so much interest among the girls of your city that you may change the age limit to 18 years and up.

"This, I believe, will give much larger number of girls consideration when the award is made. However, the girl selected for the tour, if she is under 21 years of age, must have the written consent of her parents or guardians before accepting the award."

Now that Miss Swanson has so generously made this concession, the Sun-Telegraph follows with the same concession on the five Bermuda trips to be given away. Girls 18 and up are eligible for these wonderful all-expenses paid Bermuda tours.

Miss Swanson is giving her trip on account of her new picture, "What a Widow!", which comes to Loew's Penn Theater Friday, September 26. "What a Widow!" has a Paris background and much of it was photographed on the French liner Paris.

Girls eligible for these free tours under the new age limit will find a nomination blank on this page. Cut it out, fill it in, and mail it today.

AIRPLANE MODEL WITH BRAKES!

Mr. Roberts with a model of his invention, a tail brake (circle) and collapsible wings (Abrams is pointing). In flight, the tail brake is horizontal but can be turned to vertical to slow the plane, the inventor says and claims also that it controls drift. The collapsible wing can be changed by pilot from "flat" (necessary for best speed) to "convex," aerodynamically best for lift. The plane, it is claimed, could take off or land in 200 feet and climb at 35 degrees.

MORE LINES GET ONE-MAN CARS

One-man cars are to be placed on two more routes of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, No. 64, operating between Wilkinsburg and East Pittsburgh, and No. 88, operating on the Frankstown avenue line.

With the introduction of the one-man car on Sundays on the East Pittsburgh line and on the Frankstown avenue line around October 1, during off-peak hours, between 75 and 80 per cent of the cars of the system will be one-man trolleys.

Since this service was introduced, officials of the Pittsburgh Railways Company admit that approximately 700 men have been removed from the payroll, including those retired on pension.

Before the introduction of the one-man system the company employed 3,200 men.

Lewis W. McIntyre, engineer of the Traffic Bureau said that no check-up on delays in the operation of one-man cars has been made since 1927, but he did not believe that traffic has been interfered with to any great extent.

FIREMEN'S FETE AT GLENFIELD

Glenfield Volunteer Firemen opened their carnival in Phillips Park yesterday with a duck pond, in which trained ducks seek to elude light wooden rings tossed at their necks, as the principal feature.

The carnival will continue until Saturday night. A miniature golf course will be available for those wishing to play, according to the announcement.

Funds from the carnival will be used to purchase equipment for the firemen, according to officials in charge of the affair.

Cleveland Realtors Play Locals at Golf

Members of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board played in a local golf tournament at Cambridge Springs, Pa., yesterday and will meet Cleveland realtors in an inter-city tournament today.

OBITUARY

Mrs. W. Walter Kevan.

Ill several months, Mrs. Mary Sisson Kevan, 23, wife of W. Walter Kevan, of Los Angeles and Pittsburgh, died early today at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Sisson, of 9 Ellsworth Terrace. Born in Evansville, Ind., the deceased resided there for several years before coming to Pittsburgh. She was a graduate of Bellefield public school and Schenley High School and was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Her father is editor of the Pennsylvania News. Besides her husband and parents, she leaves two sisters, Mrs. Robert N. Taylor, of Ingram, and Bertha Sisson, and one brother, Albert Sisson, both of Pittsburgh. Funeral services, private, will be held from the home of her parents tomorrow, with interment in Uniondale Cemetery.

Isaiah N. Pollock.

Funeral services for Isaiah N. Pollock, 119 South Fremont avenue, Bellevue, will be held from his residence at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. Interment will follow in Uniondale Cemetery. Born in Center Township, Butler, County, Mr. Pollock had been engaged in the saddlery and harness business on the North Side for 52 years, prior to his retirement in 1926. Besides his wife, Mrs. Ella McWilliams Pollock, he leaves one son, Ralph A. Pollock; two brothers, J. F. Pollock, New Lebanon, and Thomas N. Pollock, Wesleyville; two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Patton, Erie, and Mrs. Mary McCandless, Butler.

Mrs. Elvira G. Myers.

Mrs. Elvira G. Myers, 79, widow of David Myers, died yesterday in her home, 1413 Severn street. She was born in Butler County, but had lived virtually her entire life in Pittsburgh. She was a member of the Third United Presbyterian Church. She leaves three daughters, Mrs. Edward Steel, Mrs. Joseph D. Nirella and Miss Jessie E. Myers, all of this city; two sons, Charles E. and Harry H. Myers, both of Sharon, Pa.; one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Flinn, of this city; 10 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Hospital Strike Over Paint Skim Settled

A skim of paint on sheet metal one-eighth inch in thickness tied up all metal work on the new Allegheny General Hospital for more than a week.

A dispute between two branches of union metal workers was settled yesterday and work was resumed.

Sheet metal workers installed iron in a laundry chute, which, after being enameled, was more than one-eighth inch in thickness. That put it in the Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers class, members of the latter union said, and the strike was on.

Camera Question Box

Today's question: Who do you think has the most influence over a man, his wife or his secretary, as exemplified in Faith Baldwin's story, "The Office Wife"?

J. J. Galardi

J. J. GALARDI, Oakland, tailor—I read the story in the Sun-Telegraph, that is, most of it. I believe the question of influence in this case depends entirely upon the wife.

Frank Kanzler

FRANK KANZLER, South Hills, baker—A man is in closer communication with his secretary than with his wife, the greater part of the day. She it is, then, who naturally exerts more influence over him.

Mrs. Nolfi

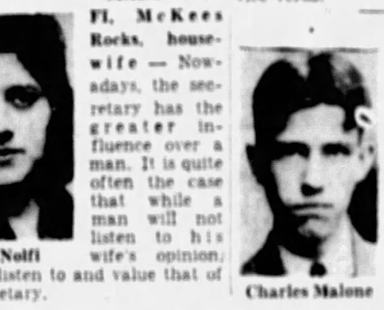
MARY NOLFI, McKees Rocks, housewife — Nowadays, the secretary has the greater influence over a man. It is quite often the case that while a man will not listen to his wife's opinion, he will listen to and value that of his secretary.

Miss Colangelo

FLORENCE COLANGELO, McKees Rocks, beauty operator — Each morning a man's secretary appears attractively dressed, while his wife often forgets this necessary detail. Personal appearance has more influence on a man than a woman often supposes.

Miss Jones

MILDRED JONES, North Side, cashier — I think a man's wife has a greater influence over him than his secretary. What he does and accomplishes is of more personal interest to his wife than to one who is merely his business assistant and vice versa.



Charles Malone

CHARLES MALONE, Sheraden, student—I believe the woman who influences a man depends largely on the man, himself. Some men are more easily influenced than others and by more people.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Pittsburgh Society Folk Attend Westmoreland Hunt Horse Show

This afternoon nearly all our society folks will desert Pittsburgh for Greensburg, where the annual Westmoreland Hunt horse show is being held.

This morning there already was a large number of spectators, and many society folks were riding. Mrs. Simon T. Patterson and her daughters, Isabel and Nancy, were riding, of course, and so were Stella Coulter and her aunt, Miss Margaret Coulter, and Mrs. Francis Burke Rodgers.

Watching the races from her car parked by the ringside was Mrs. James Francis Burke, who looked striking in an Alice blue boucle ensemble, with which she wore a blue baku hat. Chatting with friends was Mrs. Niles Trommell, of Chicago, wearing a smart purple striped knitted suit with a beret of the same material.

Mrs. John C. Stewart, of Keywick, Va., a niece of the H. P. Bovards, whom she's visiting, chose a beige tweed suit and a beige felt hat.

Watching the classes was Mrs. John W. Lawrence in a blue and white boucle suit with a black and white checked hat. Young Jane Stevenson, I noticed strolling about the ringside, and Elizabeth Bovard.

A cricket green knitted suit with a green felt hat was chosen by Mrs. George R. McNary, of Greensburg. Martha Keenan, in blue flowered crepe, I saw chatting with Virginia Watt, who wore a blue jersey dress with a small beret of the same material, and Catherine Weaver, in a blue and white crepe dress with a studded beret.

Polo matches and golf tournaments this Indian-summer weather are attracting many Pittsburgh society men and women, to Asheville, N. C. Another interesting event in the Land of the Sky will be the annual Cherokee fair October 7 and 10, when many visitors will come to see the Indians green corn dance. Riding is an added attraction.

Just now Mrs. J. C. Patterson and her daughters, Miss Mary Patterson and Dr. Ellen J. Patterson are in Asheville stopping at the Grove Park Inn. At the same hotel is T. A. Mellon.

Another bride of autumn will be Katherine Schley, granddaughter of Mrs. Chambers McKibbin, who has just decided on the members of her bridal party. Her marriage to H. Allen Machesney, Jr., son of the H. Allen Machesneys, of the Schenley Apartments, will be an event of October 7.

Muriel Gates, of Cincinnati, O., will be maid of honor, and Mrs. Alexander Logan Wilson, of Plainfield, N. J., who was Helen Rebecca West before her marriage, will be matron of honor.

The bridesmaids will be Mrs. Henry Mason Reed, who was Elizabeth McCullough before her marriage Wednesday; Elizabeth Guiler, Rebecca Follansbee, Sally Thompson, Betty Young and Mary Maxwell, of Braddock and Baltimore.

William Cecil Hogg will be best man, and Rees Doverspike Scully, cousin of the bride-to-be, David McClay, George Pomeroy Bassett, III, Bennett Rodgers, B. Meredith Reid, Mat. Joseph D. Coughlan, Henry Mason Reed, Marshall Harger, of Springfield, Mass., Carl M. Wolter, of Evanston, Ill., and Alexander Logan Wilson, of Plainfield, N. J., will be ushers.

And the wedding will take place in St. Paul's Cathedral at 11 o'clock in the morning, with the Rev. William J. McMillen officiating. A small reception in the Hotel Schenley will follow.

The second dessert-dance party of the season took place last night down in Sewickley when the Christian I. Shannons, of Sewickley, gave a dinner dance in honor of two buds, Madelaine Alexander, daughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Maitland Alexander, and Ruth Wollock, daughter of the Frank Scott Wollocks. The Allegheny Country Club was the scene of the entertainment attended by 150 guests.

Six tables were arranged in the summer dining room of the club and decorated with yellow blooms and bronze dahlias, cattails and Talisman roses. Candles of autumn colors lighted the tables. Dancing followed on the tile terrace adjoining the dining room.

Madeline, in shell pink chiffon, and Ruth, in delphinium blue crepe, received with the Shannons.

Betty Miller, debutante daughter of the William Booth Millers, wore Chinese yellow chiffon. Elizabeth Childs appeared in rose bud pink lace, and Nancy Craig in pastel tinted moire.

Barbara Irwin, another debutante of the fall, appeared in shell pink chiffon, fashioned with a sash at the high waistline of orchid satin. Katherine Collin chose gold and silver lace combined with copper velvet. Mary Franklin Robinson wore salmon pink chiffon. Anne and Margaret Rose wore yellow chiffon frocks, and Mary Elizabeth Floyd appeared in pale pink chiffon trimmed with demure blue grosgrain ribbons.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Rockwell, of Hutchinson avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Katherine Rockwell, to William Summerville Potter, of Mt. Lebanon, which took place on August 18. Mr. and Mrs. John Parrar were the only attendants.

Among Pittsburgh girls who will enter Lake Erie College, Painesville, O., this fall are Miss Mary Helen Wanamaker, of Aspinwall; Miss Mary Roderigues and Miss Mary Elizabeth Jenkin, of Bellevue; Miss Jane Beatty, of Ben Avon; Miss Triscilla Van Voorhis, of Charleroi; Miss Dorothy Lake, of Irwin; Miss Katherine Trax, of McKeesport, and Miss Jeanne Truter, of Francis avenue.

Mrs. Joseph Harris, of Broughton street, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Edith Joan Harris, to Ely Weil, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Weil, of New York, which took place September 7.

Miss Mary Louise Nelson, daughter of Mrs. Emma Nelson, of the East End, became the bride of Charles E. Craig, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Craig, of Albemarle street, in the Homewood United Presbyterian Church Wednesday morning. The Rev. Dr. George A. Long, pastor, officiated.

The bride wore a simple gown of powder blue chiffon and the bridesmaid, Miss Mary J. Craig, sister of the bridegroom, wore green lace. Miss Dorothy Craig, caring brown lace, played the wedding march. James B. Craig was his brother's best man.

After the wedding breakfast for 16 guests in the Edgewood Country Club, Mr. and Mrs. Craig left for an eastern trip. After October 1 they will be at home in Forbes street.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Reinhold, of Baum boulevard, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Margaret Reinhold, to Walter Scott Crawbuck, son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Crawbuck, of Squirrel Hill, which took place at noon today in Calvary Episcopal Church. A breakfast followed. Tomorrow Mr. and Mrs. Crawbuck will sail for Havana.

MISS ANNE ROSE, SEWICKLEY DEB OF PAST WINTER, AT ALLEGHENY COUNTRY CLUB

Club Woman Criticizes Colleges for Lack of Intellectual Life

Colleges were blamed by Mrs. John M. Phillips for what she termed "the pathetic and tragic fact that women and girls have so little intellectual life that they are compelled to fill Sunday afternoons with dancing and card playing." Mrs. Phillips made this observation yesterday in the characteristically splendid talk she gave before the Aspinwall Woman's Club at its president's day reception.

In her capacity as home department chairman of the State Federation, Mrs. Phillips touched on many subjects relative to club work. "Club work means a climbing of the heights; it means peacetime patriotism and women's clubs are doing more for the world today than any other one agency," she stated.

Mrs. I. H. Milliken, Aspinwall, president, presided over the program, which also included several appealingly sung contralto solos by Mrs. William Wilson Colledge, a member of the Oakmont Club, and piano numbers by Mrs. Paul Kress, among them three of her own compositions, modernistic and striking.

A number of other club representatives were present from the State Federation County Federation Congress of Clubs, Allegheny Valley Woman's Club, Freeport Current Events Club and several others "nearer home."

Among several Tuesday Musical Club members who will entertain with luncheons today preceding the choral's benefit bridge at the Wildwood Country Club, is Mrs. Will Earhart, whose honor guest is Mrs. William Spencer, of Muncie, Ind. The bridge is a benefit for the Stephen C. Foster Memorial Fund, to which the choral has pledged $5,000. Buses leave the William Penn Hotel for the clubhouse at 1 o'clock.

Miss Rebekah Eggers, who spent the greater part of the summer in Oberammergau and saw the Passion Play several times, will address a luncheon meeting of the Woman's City Club tomorrow.

The Allegheny County Junior Christian Endeavor Union will have a junior workers' supper conference on Saturday evening in McCann's dining room.

The state junior superintendent, Miss Rebecca Hughes, of Philadelphia, will be the chief speaker and conference leader. An illustrated address will be given by the Rev. T. V. Voorhees. There will be group singing and games from India. Supper reservations may be made by calling Dorothy Hallock, Steuben street.

Mrs. Phillip Benz, district chairman of radio for the State Federation, has extended the courtesy of her radio period Thursday, October 2, at 1:30 over KDKA to the General Federation of Women's Clubs and has asked Mrs. Edward M. Land, chairman of the General Federation's home safety committee, to speak. Mrs. Land is to be here to take part in the annual safety congress of the National Safety Council the next day. Mrs. D. Edwin Miller, chairman of safety in the State Federation, and General Federation chairman of street and highway safety, will introduce Mrs. Land.

Radio Talk

An unusual feature at the recital to be sponsored by Miss Matilda Orr Hays, well known club woman, in Utility Hall tonight will be a canary which has been contributed by Mrs. Margaret Flannery to the scholarship fund for which the recital is a benefit. Mrs. Flannery's three grandchildren will appear on the program, and Miss Hays will also present their mother, Elanor Flannery Jones, soprano, in old-time songs.

Benefit Recital

Marion Foster Welch, Stephen C. Foster's daughter, will be honor guest at the recital. On the program will be Shirley Weiss, Betty Ericson, Mona Ahlgren, Robert Stanley, Joseph and Mary Jones, Grace, Gordon and Lillian Larson, Vivian and Claire Louise Fenner and Georgia McKay.

The public is invited to the recital which is to be given without admission fee. The proceeds from a candy sale and a silver offering will be added to the scholarship fund.

DIGNITY, CHARM AND SIMPLICITY CHARACTERIZE NEW TEA GOWNS

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—By the grace of the haute couture, femininity is to remain the theme for the new autumn and winter sartorial symphonies. We are to be alluringly, love-ly, or at least our clothes are. And, whether we must include at least one of these very feminine garments in our wardrobes, however we may be devoted to the pyjama in its boudoir version, we must in The woman who enjoys the comfort and relaxation that a tea gown can afford provided it is not too "fussy," will rejoice that ever so many collections are showing models of dignity and grace simply but originally made, in a variety of lovely fabrics. Both the business woman and the woman who belongs to the so-called "leisure class" are one in seeking a soft, comfortable, but withal good-looking garment in which she can enjoy an hour or so of relaxation and rest, should find the new tea gowns much to her liking.

IF YOU SHOULD happen to be in the market or mood for a tea gown, we can cordially recommend something on the order of that from the new Molyneux collection, shown today. It is of heavy peach colored georgette with a softening relief of circular frills and jabots that are pleasing but not too fussy in the well-known tea gown manner. The train is about two feet long and adds materially to the extremely feminine allure of this model. This note is predominant in the Molyneux collections.

* * *

MANY EVENING dresses are trained to please this season and so we are showing a trained model from Champcommunal. It is of black mousseline de soie and an interesting effect is achieved by means of a spiral line which starts somewhere at the front of the bodice and is repeated in the upper flounce of the skirt. The decolletage is V-shaped both back and front.

FAMILY FACES DEPORTATION

Francisco Ross, alias Ernest Arthur, 37, Italian citizen of Canada, was in jail today while his wife and four children were at home in Arnold, Pa., all awaiting deportation to British soil.

William H. Marshall, immigration inspector for this district, took the family into custody last night, but released the mother and children on their own recognizance.

The family is alleged to have entered this country four years ago ostensibly on a visit, but failed to return home. From Ambler, Pa., they went to Arnold in May, 1929, where Ross was employed in the plant of the Aluminum Company of America. The children range from 2 to 7 years in age.

Eighteen aliens, who are alleged to have entered this country illegally, were taken to New York today for deportation to their native lands. Four were Arabs, who had entered by way of New York as seamen on Italian vessels.

FIDAC CONGRESS HAILS PERSHING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Welcomed by President Hoover and Gen. John J. Pershing, veterans of the Allied armies in the World War, attending the annual Congress of Fidac, devoted themselves today to choosing new officers and a meeting place for 1931.

The wartime commander of the American forces was cheered to the echo by the veterans of nine nations in a delayed birthday greeting. He was 70 Saturday.

ASK NORTH SIDE TRAFFIC LIGHTS

A stop-and-go signal system for the North Side was included in the Better Traffic Committee's proposed budget of $399,035.33 to be requested of City Council for 1931 approved at a general meeting of the traffic committee yesterday.

The system would include 10 lights on Federal and Ohio streets with a central control station at Federal and Ohio streets.

Horses would be barred from the Liberty Tubes and the boulevards at least during the peak hours by a recommendation approved by the committee and forwarded to City Council and the county commissioners.

Settlement School Will Teach Music

Instruction in piano, voice, violin and music theory is to be given in the Irene Kaufmann Settlement Music School, due to reopen October 1. A children's toy symphony and chamber music groups are likewise to be organized. The school's staff is unchanged, according to Anna L. Perlow, who is taking student applications.

Mayors to View Novel Light System

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 19.—Greensburg's new automatic traffic control lights will be demonstrated today to mayors of neighboring cities, invitations having been sent to 15 executives to see the lights put in use. The lights cause the traffic to change with the ebb and flow of traffic rather than at stated intervals.

'SPORTSTER' COATS

For Young Moderns

What will the high school and college age wear next? Why, the "Sportster" coat! It's so swank—even more than the polo coat of last year. It's so practical, because it is furry looking, and is smart enough to wear places when school and business and the game is over.

"Sportster" has a standup or notched collar, leather buttons that pop out with newness and a fitted line also new and less bulky. In addition to all these virtues, it is a very warm, good quality alpacatuft that might have sold last year for $39.50—and therefore, your ideal coat is very reasonable for $25.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

WAFFLES Sift flour and measure 1½ cups to which add 1 teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons baking powder and 1 tablespoon sugar. Beat 2 eggs thoroughly and add 2 cups of milk and 1 tablespoon melted butter. Stir the liquid quickly into the dry ingredients. Stir until the flour just disappears. Pour only enough batter into the hot, well greased waffle irons to fill, then bake to a golden brown. Just enough batter should be used to obtain a thin crisp waffle. Serve hot.

RICE WAFFLES Prepare 2 cups of hot boiled rice and stir into it 1½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar and 2 cups of milk. Let cool then add the beaten yolks of 2 eggs and 4 teaspoons of baking powder sifted with 2 cups of flour. Fold in 3 tablespoons melted butter, then the stiffly beaten whites of 2 eggs. Bake like plain waffles.

MEAT AND RICE LOAF Mix 1 pound of ground hamburger with 1 cup cooked rice. Add 1 egg, 1½ teaspoons salt, pepper, chopped green pepper, 1 medium onion, ½ cup bread crumbs and ¾ cup milk. Mix well and mold into a loaf place in an oiled casserole and bake in a moderate oven about one hour. Serve with parsley or white sauce.

VANILLA PEACH JUNKET—1 package vanilla junket, 1 pint milk, 1 can peaches.

Drain juice off fruit, place peach in bottom of each individual dessert cup. Follow directions on package for mixing junket with milk, one minute, let stand till cold, chill, serve with peach juice or cream.

BANANA ORANGE JUNKET—1 package orange junket, 1 pint milk, banana.

Place layer of thinly sliced banana in bottom of each individual dessert cup. Follow directions for mixing junket with milk, one minute, pour over banana, let stand till cold, chill. Serve with topping of whipped cream, to which if desired may be added a sprinkling of cocoanut or chopped nuts.

CHICKEN LIVER OMELET—Heat 1 tablespoon butter in a pan. Cook 1 teaspoon chopped onion until golden brown. Sprinkle 8 chicken livers with salt and pepper and chop fine. Turn fry the onion over in the pan with the pan covered for 5 minutes. Beat 4 eggs very light. Season, and add 2 tablespoons milk. Put in the omelet pan. Chop the livers and place on the omelet before folding and serving.

CARROT SALAD Place crisp shredded lettuce on salad plates. Pipe a circle with cream cheese on the lettuce. Have uniform sized carrots peeled and chilled. Cut in slices of paper thinness and fill with a teaspoon of chopped chives or parsley. Pour over all a French dressing to which has been added 1 tablespoon of chopped watercress and ½ teaspoon chili sauce. Garnish the salad with cress sections of radish.

range the well-seasoned and cooked vegetables on the plank. Serve with butter sauce or tartar sauce.

QUEEN TEA MUFFINS—1¾ cups cake flour, sifted; 4 teaspoons baking powder; ½ teaspoon salt; 4 tablespoons butter or other shortening; 4 tablespoons sugar; 1 egg, well beaten; ¾ cup milk.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cream butter, add sugar, and cream together thoroughly. Add egg, then flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Bake in greased muffin pans in hot oven—450 deg. F.—for 20 minutes. Makes 18 small muffins.

BREAKFAST MUFFINS—Two cups cake flour, sifted; 4 teaspoons baking powder; ½ teaspoon salt; 1 egg, well beaten; ¾ cup milk; 4 tablespoons butter.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Combine egg and milk and add to flour, beating until smooth. Add shortening. Bake in greased muffin pans in a hot oven—400 deg. F.—for 25 minutes. This recipe provides for 10 muffins.

PRESSED CORNED BEEF WITH VEGETABLES—Cook the meat very gently until thoroughly tender, then remove the bones and compress the meat into a shallow granite or glass pan. Lay a plate on top and put a weight on it to keep the meat in shape. Chill, unmold and garnish with diced carrots and potatoes and beet cups filled with peas, which may be marinated in French dressing, using in addition to the cooked vegetables, cole slaw or shredded lettuce and pickles. Slice meat thinly and serve with vegetables.

LONG ISLAND CLAM PIE—One quart clams, finely chopped; ¼ pound fat salt pork, chopped; 1 tablespoon butter; 2 tablespoons flour.

Make sauce of butter and flour, using either clam juice, milk or water for liquid. Season to taste and add clams and pork. Make a crust of 1 pint of flour, a cup of shortening and a teaspoon of baking powder. Mix with cold water for a flaky crust and roll out. Line a baking dish with crust; fill with clam mixture. Place layer of sliced boiled potatoes on top, cover with thin crust and bake.

BAKED CLAMS—Place a dozen large clams in baking dish so that the juices will be retained in lower shell. Bake until clams open; remove upper shell carefully and place on each side a slice of crisp fried bacon. Serve in lower shells.

SAUCE CHEVRAUX FOR FISH—Dissolve 1 teaspoon vegetable bouillon extract in 1 cup of boiling water. Add ½ teaspoon pep-

History Proves Men Are Greater Gossips Than Women, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Are men greater gossips than women? I think there is no doubt about it. They are.

All the famous gossip columns written today are authored by men.

The great gossip diaries of history were written by men.

The greatest gossip of all time was one Samuel Pepys, who wrote his famous diary during the time of Charles Second of England. Appropriately the proper pronunciation of his name is "peeps."

Nothing escaped him concerning others, and he also recorded his own escapades with equal candor.

Few women have left self-revealing memoirs. But countless men have confessed all in prose or poetry.

Is it because women prefer to confide in men, that women admit the most understanding books about women have been written by men?

MISS HARD-BOILED

By JANE DIXON

Raquel Takes Interest in Indifferent Rescuer

CHAPTER LVII.

"There's one thing about you, dearie," Greta said, crinkling the corners of her blue eyes. "One never lacks for excitement when barging in your company."

It was the morning following Raquel's escape from drowning, and the two exponents of the art of Alphonse were breakfasting late in their suite overlooking the Normandie garden.

"I don't believe I was too far out," Raquel insisted.

"What difference does that make," Greta demanded, "as long as you picked yourself such a handsome life-saver?"

Raquel smiled—enigmatically.

"He ruined a perfectly good bathing suit though. Tore the back right out of it. Had to wrap you up in his beach-robe to keep you from looking like a Follies gal—bare back and very little front at that."

"I must return the robe," said Raquel.

"Uh-huh. And you can thank him at luncheon. We're lunching with him, you know. I accepted for you."

"But Greta—"

"Don't but me. I tell you he's a wow. You can't wear the tall hat with a bimbo who's dragged you out of the ocean."

"I suppose not. And I must thank him—even if he did rescue me needlessly. I was all right until he clutched me in the back."

Raquel Interested

"Oh gosh—you would spoil a perfectly swell romance!"

Greta noticed that even for a reigning beauty, Raquel spent an unusually long time over her toilette.

"Which would you advise, Greta," she asked, hesitating over a mound of pleated silk and frail chiffon, "the pois de rose, or this gray?"

"The gray. It'll make you look pale and interesting. And that chiffon coat with the gray fox collar. It'll give just the right touch of paleness to your face."

"What did you say his name is?" Raquel knew, but she wished to hear the name again.

"Gerald Parker. Nice moniker, what? They call him Jerry, for short."

"Who's they?" quickly.

"Oh, the mob around here. My boy friend is a pal of his—the one from the Long Island Set who staked me at the Casino. He's coming to luncheon with us. His name is Bryce Watrous. Can you bear it?"

"Greta—" reprovingly.

"Hey! Do you think I'm going to be a glass of cold water at a party? I gotta have a man, don't I?"

The two men were waiting for them when they went down for luncheon.

"He's bored," was the thought that flashed through Raquel's mind when she was introduced, with Greta's usual informality, to Gerald Parker. "I'm glad he's fair. I like fair men. They seem easier to read. He's courteous, but his mind is elsewhere. He doesn't even see me."

The thought nettled her. She was accustomed to instant surrender.

However, they were a jolly foursome at the table. Impossible to be otherwise with Greta setting up a constant barrage of her inimitable chatter.

Raquel realized with a start that she was using little subterfuges to prolong the luncheon.

Parker Seems Bored

"It's Gerald Parker's eyes," she told herself. "I've never seen such a gray gray. Like a dark mountainside with a gray mist over it. He's really only moderately good-looking, except for his eyes. And moderately young. I should say."

"You are stopping in Deauville some time?" he asked her with his lips. His eyes let her know the answer was a matter of indifference to him.

"Yes," she said. "And you?"

"I don't know. One has to stop some place. I was thinking of pulling out shortly."

She almost said "Please don't." She caught herself just in time.

Watrous suggested going on to the polo game. The Argentines were playing the Blues, and the game promised well.

"You are Spanish?" Parker asked Raquel.

"No," she said and felt her cheeks must be glowing for no reason that she could discover. "I am American. But there is quite a bit of Spanish in my past."

The dobe hut on the desert.

Bryce Watrous thought they ought to make a day of it. Dinner after the polo game and later dancing and a turn at the tables in the Casino. Raquel was sure that Gerald Parker's assent was more polite than eager.

"Sorry," she said, and was impatient that his lack of interest piqued her. "Some other time, perhaps."

"Then we'll make it tomorrow night if you're not engaged," said Watrous. "I'll do a little intensive playing tonight and see if I can't win back what Greta lost."

"If Miss Rojos will do us the honor," Parker seconded. Her first refusal had sharpened his ardor.

A perversity in Raquel urged her to decline. She could not. With Gerald Parker's misty gray eyes asking her to say "yes."

So it was arranged that they would meet on the morrow.

What the halleluja did you toss ice-water on that invite for? Greta wanted to know as soon as she was alone with Raquel.

"I thought your friend Mr. Parker was a bit bored," Raquel answered.

Alphonse Delayed

"What did you want him to do—throw down his coat and let you walk on it?"

"No, but he seems like a man who has been pretty much spoiled by having his own way—with women."

"My mother's apron string! He don't give a kopeck about women."

Raquel had a queer feeling around her heart.

"How do you know?" she asked.

"I know the breed. As for being spoiled, I shouldn't be surprised. He's disgustingly rich. Wouldn't you know it—and that you'd pick him out for your life-saver?"

A message awaited them. Alphonse would not be down until a week later. He was on the track of a Corot, a real Corot. He would know in a week if it was genuine.

"What the deuce is a Corot?" demanded Greta.

"A painting," said Raquel. "Corot is the name of an artist."

"Gosh!" Greta said. "You can get a hundred pictures in the Place du Terte any day at a dime a throw. And you can get a hundred artists too by just whistling."

Raquel was not listening. She was taking account of herself. A little while ago she had been looking forward impatiently to the arrival of Alphonse. She had even been considerably disappointed that she had not received word of his immediate departure from Paris.

Why was it that now she was glad that arrival had been postponed?

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Loves Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Plans for Early Morning Get-Away Completed

As Mr. Hasbrouck uttered his little gibe concerning breakfast for us, his wife gave him the resigned half contemptuous, yet good-humored look which a woman long married responds to her husband's pet joke.

"I'll see to my part of the business all right," he said. "Breakfast will be ready to serve at half-past three. That will give them a good half hour to eat before they want to start. But how in tunket you're going to keep that man here if he wakes up and wants to go—you're not the sheriff, you know, nor yet a constable, and you haven't anything to keep him on."

"I don't have to keep him on the premises to prevent him from following Mrs. Graham's car," her husband replied with dignity. "He can't go without his car, can he, and the garage doesn't open till seven."

"But Miller lives over the garage," his wife said, and Mr. Hasbrouck struck the back of one hand into the palm of the other.

"Then I'd better go over to see Miller right now," he said grimly.

He strode to the door with a look of mischievous enjoyment on his face, and his wife looked over her glasses after him with tender amused indulgence.

"No boy with a new pair of skates will have a better time than Egbert fixing it so that man can't follow you," she commented. "He'll be perfectly helpless without his car. The first train and bus don't go through till after six, and nobody else is traveling but a few miles at that time in the morning. He'll be tied by the leg till you've had a good two or three hours start on him."

"That sounds very reassuring," I said, "but I do hope he doesn't hear us getting out. The noise of the car starting, for instance."

"That's the only danger," she agreed, "for I can get breakfast very quietly if I have to, and you haven't any baggage to speak of, and your rooms are quite a ways from his. If you are all careful you can get downstairs without any noise—there is only one stair board that creaks, and I'll show you which one that is. And if you'll wait until Egbert gets back, he'll probably be able to plan something about the car."

Her confidence was justified, for when her big husband returned, a quarter of an hour later, he dismissed the whole matter with a confident wave of the hand.

"Don't worry your head about that part of it," he told me. "I'll attend to that. He'll never hear that car go out of this yard. Now how about waking you in the morning? I don't want to knock on your door, and you don't want an alarm clock going off."

"I usually can waken within half an hour of any time I set myself," I said, "but—I'm unusually tired—and—"

"If you won't be scared, Mrs. Graham," he said, "just tie a long piece of cord around your wrist, and let the rest of it dangle through that radiator on the floor by your bed. Before we had the heat put in, that was the only way we had of heating that room, from the warm air down here, and we used to give our boys a jerk every morning, saved climbing stairs."

"A jerk!" his wife commented tartly. "You mean a half dozen before those lads waked up."

"Yes, you want to look out, Mrs. Graham," Mr. Hasbrouck said. "Ma got so used to tugging at the boys, she's likely to tug your wrist nearly off."

"If you'd let your tongue wag less, and your brain work more, you'd be better off," his wife told him, and then turned to me with a comradely grin.

"If you wake up before I do, untie the cord, so that when I pull it will come down through the radiator," she instructed. "Then I'll know you're awake. But if you sleep until I tug at your wrist, then give a strong pull back on the cord, and I'll stop. Pa, get me that ball of cord and the scissors, please."

"Pa" obeyed with a celerity that spelled long conjugal training, and his wife measured a goodly length of cord before snipping it. Then she handed one end of the severed cord to me.

"I'll let you wind it yourself," she said. "Then you won't have it tangled when you get ready to tie it on your wrist. And now we'll get to bed. Pa, you'd better fix that fire so we can start it up around half-past two."

"I'm discommoding you dear people terribly," I said contritely but Mrs. Hasbrouck waggled a scoffing hand at me.

"Don't bother your head about that," she said. "I've made breakfast for fishermen and hunters all my married life, at all hours of the night and morning, especially night. Is there anything you want special for Mrs. Underwood. She looked so bad when she came in tonight that I was worried. How's she going to stand getting out so early?"

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, September 20

The sidereal operations for this day must be interpreted as of conflicting import. Although there is to be a definite breaking away from old obstacles and frustrations, making way for a constructive effort toward stability and advancement, yet there will also be a menace of small frictions and anxieties as well as of some deep laid scheme against the cherished success.

Those whose birthday it is are to be confronted by a year of conflicting conditions, with a much desired breaking away of old congestions and obstacles. But there may also be small financial annoyances, minor irritabilities and the threat of fraud or subtle attack. The personal safety should be protected.

A child born on this day should have good abilities and much stability and steadfastness of character, qualities which it may need to surmount many minor annoyances and menaces in life.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND.

Women—and Other Women

The more modern women learn about "sex-appeal," the less they seem to know about how to hold a man's love.

Life is a screen-test in which the most successful people are the woman who can register indifference when she is in love and the man who can register love when he is indifferent.

Sometimes it looks as though a man marries just in order to enjoy the comforting feeling that some woman is worrying about him.

If our American bachelors get any more woman-shy, they may soon be going around veiled, like men of a certain Mohammedan tribe, in order to hide their fatal charms from the women.

Time withers and dries up a woman's heart as it does her face, but it only seems to make a man's heart more flabby and susceptible.

What keeps most of us alive is nothing but the glamorous hope that Fate will some day run out of her supply of lemons and begin flinging plums at us.

The trouble with half the women in the world is their financial dependence on men," says a feminist. And the trouble with the other half is their lack of a man to depend on.

When Satan takes a personal interest in a woman, he endows her with limousine tastes and then mates her to a man with a flivver income.

The average man loves an intelligent woman—on theory; a good woman—on principle; and a beautiful woman—on sight.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Varied Introductions Depending Upon Formality

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The reading of your column has always been such a delight to me that I know you can set me just straight now. When introducing one's husband, how should one go about it? I shall leave it to you for an example. There is a great deal of confusion in my mind about this particular thing and I am frightened every time I have to introduce him. MRS. H.

Thank you—and I bow!

The way to introduce your husband depends, of course, like all other introductions, on the person to whom you are introducing him. If, for instance, you wish your introduction to be of the conventional, formal kind, as when you are introducing him to a woman acquaintance, you might say, "Mrs. Alexander, may I present my husband?" or "Miss Graham, may I introduce my husband?"

For a more casual introduction, you might use the expression "this is," so often used in family introductions, "Mrs. Lawlor, this is my husband."

Then let us suppose that you wish to introduce your husband to a relative or a close friend; then it would be natural to say, "Mary, this is Tom."

When you are introducing your husband to another man, you could say, "Mr. Thompson, this is my husband," or, simply, "Mr. Thompson, my husband."

Impolite to Disregard 'Thank You'

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When you have given information to anyone and the person afterward says, "Thank you," is it necessary to respond? Or is it just as polite to say nothing? B.

It is never polite to disregard "thank you." In this case say, "I am glad that I was able to give you the information," or "I am delighted to be of service," or "It was a pleasure," or just "You are very welcome."

Household Hints

If the material to be hemmed is so heavy that a neat rolled hem is practically impossible, stitch a piece of tape to the material and then turn the hem up on the wrong side and stitch the other edge of the tape to the material. It avoids folding that heavy stuff twice and makes for a much neater job.

Egg whites will "point" when whipped enough. If you lift the beater out of the mass a piece of egg white will hang from it and decrease in size to a point. If you are a braver person and belong to the old school you will turn the bowl upside down and if the whites stay put, they are done.

In these days of carrying home our packages, it is a foolish woman who has not her list of necessary articles made out so she can hand it to the man of the house when she learns he is going in that direction. It saves many burdens for the housewife as well as many trips.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Should a Wife Permit the Husband to Make Up Her Mind?

Just "plumb ornery"—that's Lil's Old Man.

Can't abide an idea unless it's His Own.

For instance — he's ga-ga about Greta Garbo. But just let Lil suggest that they go to the Tivoli because Greta's there, and he immediately discards the Garbo as a wash-out, and votes for Lon Chaney or Constance Talmadge.

And it's giving poor Lil the roundaround. She can't understand how he gets that way. She's sure he's something Unique . . . and that no other woman ever faced her problem. What a laugh that's going to hand a lot of older wives!

"Dear Sally—

"I wish you would help me figure out something that has me up a stump. I'm ready to admit that I can't get the straight of it alone.

"Here's the story. Jack and I have been married nearly a year, and we are deeply in love. Jack is a fine fellow, and awfully generous and good to me, but there is one thing about him that is terribly annoying. He argues all the time.

"He's crazy about Greta Garbo, but if I should be the first to suggest that we go see her, he won't go. He'll insist on going to see some other show. Can you beat that? I sure can't.

"And he gets so angry and so hurt if I don't agree with him on everything. If he buys something, I have to say I like it, whether I do or not, or a big argument starts, and he acts as if he thought I'd disagreed with him just to hurt him or put something over on him or something.

"Don't you think that a man should want to hear his wife's opinion once in a while? Or do all men insist on their wives being just echoes or carbon copies or something? It certainly has me puzzled, and I'm getting so nervous I don't know what I'll do. You never know when some innocent remark, even about the weather, will start something. Honestly, he has me so that I never let him know how I really feel about anything. And I do like to talk about what I think, whether other folks agree with me or not.

"Honestly, he is making a liar out of me, and I don't know what to do bout it. I'm jumpy as a hen. Wouldn't you think he'd rather have the truth? I know I would.

"Now I come to the really big problem. He insists that I give up my job, but I'm afraid to do it, because I'm afraid our marriage can't last much longer. The other day he spoke to me when I was half asleep, and I misunderstood him and gave him a wrong answer. So he called me a liar. And when I finally understood, and tried to explain to him, he just cursed me a lot more. I can't stand much of that, I know. So, don't you think I'd better hang onto the job, in case something does happen?

"I just can't imagine what ails him. He can't excuse himself by saying that he was 'spoiled' as a child, because he wasn't. He didn't have any parents to spoil him. And he's been around the world a lot, too. Don't you think he should know better?

"I do love him, and I'm sure that under it all, he loves me, too. But life is just one long dread of arguments, and I'm so tired of it I could scream. Do you think it would help if I'd give him a good fight? Did you ever see anyone like him? Please, please help me!

"LILLIAN."

Did I ever see anyone like him? Dozens of 'em lady, and they were certainly pretty pesty propositions to have around the house. You have my sympathy. But before we start in judging Jack, let's try to find out how he got that way.

You say he hasn't the excuse of being "spoiled," because he had no parents to spoil him. Well, honey, that's one of the very things that makes him the way he is. You see, all babies and children need some spoiling. They need to feel loved and secure and needed. And Jack never did. He had no mother to smack him and give him cookies . . . no dad to brag about and go to the ball game with. He just didn't belong much of any place. And not belonging gave him a perfectly poisonous feeling of inferiority. And feeling inferior is one of the things that no human being can stand for long.

So, finally, he got so muddled and scrambled in his mind that he simply had to bully someone, to prove that he did rate. His hurt mind found pleasure in balking and thwarting and arguing with other people.

Now that you understand what ails him, and sympathize with him, it's up to you to make him understand what a mistake he is making. Don't stab his decent self-respect, but make him see what these antics are really buying him. That, very far from impressing you, and making himself solid with you by his tantrums and his childish insistence on his own way, he is actually gypping himself out of your love and respect—losing the very thing he needs most. Talk to him, sweetly and kindly, but straight from the shoulder. Lead him to understand that a really big man doesn't need all that false front. It'll take tact and patience, but it'll be worth it.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

It sometimes happens that the drug store blonde gets a sudden hankering for dark hair. She should stop and consider before she applies a dye. Peroxide and ammonia, her old favorites, have a strong chemical action upon the hair structure, the ammonia burns it. Each hair is like a piece of blotting paper; it absorbs hair dye quickly, and the resulting color is always darker than if the same medium were applied to virgin hair. When yellow-top wants to turn brunette, she should consult a hair dye specialist. The job is not a simple one—that of turning gold to ebony. You have to know how. And there's a lot to know.

When shampooing do not rub the bar of soap on the hair. Shave the soap, melt it and let the liquid stand for two or three days before using. Rinse with a bathspray and finish up with a cold shower.

The swanlike neck may be beautiful in an oil portrait, but it is a mean neck, for all that. It takes on gullies. It gets fiddle strings. The neck that has a slight padding of fat is the one that is most likely to pass the test of years. The one that is held properly, with the head properly poised, will survive. Necks need massage. Give the neck a hand. Also a bleaching cream when necessary.

For the sake of her complexion, her hair and her lungs, the boss of the household should avoid clouds of dust. With carpet sweeper and vacuum cleaner there is no need of kicking up dirt. When wiping furniture use a dusting mitt or an oiled cloth. Keep the hair covered. A reliable hand lotion should be used twice a day by the busy bee who must keep her domestic hive in order. A dish mop saves the texture of the skin surface on the hands.

Youth, being full of energy and bounce, with spring in its heels and out for all the fun that can be collected, hasn't much time to think about keeping fit physically. Too bad. Good looks depends upon vitality. Exercise, fresh air, eight hours of sleep, a well balanced diet, contribute toward the building of body repairs and the perfect coloring of the complexion. Hygiene is the first law of beautifying.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Don't Put Off Appendicitis Treatment

Constipation may be blamed for many of the disorders from which we suffer. Among such troubles is appendicitis.

DR. COPELAND.

Formerly little was known of the condition. Many cases of "inflammation of the bowels" or "acute gastritis," no doubt were really attacks of what is known as "appendicitis."

There may be either an acute or a chronic condition. In chronic appendicitis the patient is troubled by repeated mild attacks of pain. It may take the form of a sensation of burning or aching in the right side of the abdomen. As a rule, the pain, in such cases, is not enough to keep the victim from his work.

This type of ailment is probably due to a chronically inflamed appendix. It has not yet become severely affected. Or it may be a flare-up of some past acute attack.

An attack of acute appendicitis is likely to come on suddenly. There is severe pain in the right abdominal region with great tenderness. The patient wants to lie on his back with the right leg drawn up.

There is considerable rise in temperature. Loss of appetite, nausea, and often vomiting are other symptoms. Constipation is usually present before the attack.

In ordinary cases the symptoms last for a few days or a week or two then gradually disappear. But in gangrenous appendicitis the symptoms are all aggravated. The fever is very high and death may come suddenly if the affected organ is not removed.

The treatment of a mild case is simple. Keep the patient on a light diet, preferably liquid, and apply a hot water bag to the site of the pain. Be sure to clear up the constipation, but do not give strong cathartics. Your doctor will advise the treatment best suited to the particular case.

Some surgeons advise that the appendix be removed as soon as the trouble has been diagnosed, but usually it is thought best to clear up the acute symptoms before operating. However, if there is any reason to suspect an abscess formation, immediate removal of the organ is necessary.

Thousands of cases of appendicitis have disappeared without operative procedure. The profession is making progress in the control of this ailment and perhaps in the majority of cases will not advise surgery.

per, ½ teaspoon paprika and salt to taste. Add 1 cup orange juice, pulp of 2 oranges, few slices of rind and 1 teaspoon sugar. Brown 2 tablespoons butter in saucepan. Add 2 tablespoons flour and cook until mixture is brown, smooth and creamy. Add slowly to stock. Cook until thickened. Take off fire and add ½ cup skinned and seeded white grapes.

EGGPLANT EN CASSEROLE—Cut 2 medium sized eggplants in half-inch slices, pare them and dip each in flour and saute. Drain on crumpled paper. Eggplant absorbs fat readily, so have plenty in the pan. Cut ¼ pound of sliced bacon into strips, and cook in large frying pan. Add 1 onion, finely chopped, and when it is light brown add 6 large peeled tomatoes, cut in eighths. Season with half a teaspoon of salt and let simmer slowly. Cut 2 large green peppers into strips. Arrange in a casserole by covering the bottom with a layer of peppers and grated cheese and continue until all ingredients are used. Use ½ pound grated cheese and over all pour the tomato sauce. Bake in a hot oven for 15 minutes.

RICE FLAKE MUFFINS—Sift 1 cup of flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder and ¼ cup sugar. Add 1 cup rice flakes, which have been crushed with a rolling pin.

Add ½ cup of milk to 1 well beaten egg and mix with a fork into the dry ingredients. Add 1 tablespoon melted butter and bake 15 minutes in a well buttered tin. This makes 8 large muffins.

QUICK FIG BREAD.—One-half cup granulated sugar, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 3½ cups flour, 3 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt.

Beat the yolks of 2 eggs, add ½ cup of sugar and cream well. Add flour, sifted with salt, baking powder and ginger, and milk alternately. Beat several minutes, then add a cup of crushed fresh preserved canned figs. Lastly, fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn the mixture into a greased pan and bake 45 or 50 minutes, 350 degrees F.

Fig Fritters are easy to make, and add so much to any meal. Sift a cup of flour, a teaspoon of baking powder, a quarter teaspoonof salt, and 2½ tablespoons sugar. Mix 1-3 cup of milk with a well beaten egg, add a medium sized can of fresh ripe figs drained, and fold in the flour mixture. Fry until delicately browned. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve with fig syrup.

Homely Potato Ranks First Among Vegetables

When Potatoes Are Baked (And That Is the Best Way to Cook Them) Why Not Eat Skins and All? In the Skin Are Found Valuable Elements, Dr. Copeland Points Out.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City
United States Senator From New York

Of all the vegetables which go to make our lives comfortable, efficient and satisfied, the homely potato ranks first. It adds to our comfort, because it is easily digested. It adds to our efficency because it gives us energy. It leaves us satisfied, because it has a lasting quality, or, as we say, a good "satiety value." In short, it is a food that "sticks to the ribs?"

Potatoes are rich in carbohydrates, a little sugar, but chiefly starch. It is essential that we have a liberal carbohydrate intake, not alone for what the carbohydrate gives, but because they help the body to utilize properly both proteins and fats.

Says one author, "Nitrogen balance can be maintained at an economical figure only when at least half the energy value of the diet is in the form of carbohydrate . . . If there is insufficient carbohydrate, the fat is not properly utilized." This may sound "high-falutin" but it is the scientific reason for establishing food habits of greatest importance to us.

Potatoes belong to the group of foods classed as tubers or root vegetables. These food plants store in their roots vital elements used to nourish the growing shoots or vines. In the roots are stored the greatest amounts of minerals, carbohydrates and other elements necessary for energy and growth.

More and more rice is being compared to and used in the diet as potatoes are. It has been found in experiments with the two that they are about equal in food value and in price. But the potato has the advantage of not being acid-forming.

As the potato contains but little iron, lime and phosphorus, elements which are much needed in the diet of growing children, it should be supplemented by other vegetables, as well as by milk and eggs in the kiddies' diets. A dish of potato alone would be disappointing.

A well-cooked potato is a most appetizing part of the heavy meal in the first cool days of autumn. Baking is the ideal way to cook it. The skins should be properly scrubbed before placing in the oven and why not eat skins and all? Much of the nutrient of the vegetable lies in the skin.

If you are going to boil potatoes, plunge them in boiling water. In this way they lose only a small per centage of their protein value. If put to boil in cold water they lose twice as much.

When served with meat the pototo increases the satiety value of your meal to a great exient. Indeed this humble vegetable possesses many factors which makes it a splendid food. It is no wonder it has always been one of the most popular of our foods.

HOLLYWOOD AND GOTHAM IN REVIEW; LOCAL AMUSEMENT NEWS

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

COPYRIGHT 1930 DAILY MIRROR INC.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

The oaken hearts on Broadway outnumber the broken lights is right . . . But his heart isn't loaded with pain because of sour professional breaks . . . He is one of the town's funniest clowns . . . And probably the only miserable one . . . And the old lump comes to the larynx everytime I think about him and his sorrow . . . One philosopher says . . . One becomes creative if he has the gift of pain" . . . "Out of our great sorrows and aches we make our little songs" . . . But his aches came after he crashed the Broadway heavens, and he was starred . . . A highly paid one . . . I saw him weeping in a dark corner of a speakeasy the other night . . . After he had left his audience in spasms from laughter . . . No one asks him why he cries . . . That is those of us who know him . . . We know why . . . Because his pretty wife who struggled with him for years to achieve what he now has is now an incurable . . . She cannot share or enjoy that which they worked so hard for . . . He has many thousands of dollars . . . Meaning nothing to him . . . Because it cannot save her . . . Or help her to recognize him when he visits the sick-room . . . To appreciate Heaven we must first go through Hell.

Jack "Legs" Diamond who authors the nickname and who is a pretty sick guy will feel a lot better . . . If his intimates show him what the N. Y. World just printed about him . . . All the innuendoes will be forgotten as will the rebuffs and rebukes he experienced in the old countries which banished him . . . He will forget all that—if he sees the item . . . He is as susceptible to compliments as the rest of us . . . The paper said in part that he proved to be a third-rate marksman during clay-pigeon shooting aboard the Belgenland but that the passengers all testified Diamond had good manners . . . He will save that clipping . . . Diamond is fussy about his appearance and his manners . . . Throughout his career he has been convinced but once . . . When he was 14.

"They blame me for everything now," he said, after the papers screamed "Diamond Wanted" . . . "Why don't you go and see the Commissioner and see what they want?" he was asked . . . "I think I will," Diamond answered. "I'm not afraid of anything, except a rookie cop who might see me on the street, and get so scared himself he will shoot me before I have a chance of saying, 'I surrender.'" . . . They call Diamond "the gem of the ocean."

I was going to say that La Guinan is now on a newspaper doing a column like Coolidge's . . . But she might wonder if I were giving her a compliment or a dirty dig . . . The Joe Whitehead-Annette Bracy breach of promise suit will get exciting soon . . . He said he could name eight men which was why he didn't marry her . . . She dared him to name them . . . Now she is going to counter with four affidavits from as many people who will say that they heard the Coca-Colothario propose marriage to Annette at least four times as late as last February . . . Some of the producers even matters with critics who blackball their attentions . . . The "Hot Rhythm" troupe advertises that one of us said it was "A Very Green Pastures" . . . What the critic meant when he said that about the all-colored show was that it was "very green"—not ripe—not digestible—not good.

Talk about dirty digs. I wonder if this one was aimed at me . . . When they announced that I was going to resume broadcasting, the various railroads advertised a $10 excursion to Montreal . . . They tell me that along his one-night stand tour Master Vallee was billed as "The Sensation of the Decade" . . . The pronunciation is yours . . . The next time I see George Dewey Washington (who hasn't replied to the invitation to discuss the controversy) over Art Landry's usage of the curtain speech "Thanks for your applause which we assure you goes to our hearts and not to our heads," I'll tell him Robert Bruce a Scot, said that . . . According to a book published in 1854.

When Billy Rose was casting his revue he seriously considered engaging Lou Holtz . . . "I'd like to have you Lou" said Rose "but you look too Jewish!" . . . So Rose hired George Jessel . . . My old chum, John P. Medbury quotes Ben Lyon, the movie star, as saying: "Give a man an inch and he'll build a miniature golf course" . . . They keep writing and asking me why I dislike Rudy . . . I do not dislike Rudy . . . I never said I disliked Rudy . . . I dislike people who dislike my printing gags about Rudy . . . One of the out-of-town rags quotes Vallee as saying: "There are men in New York who would stop at nothing to drag down one who has achieved fame" . . . For instance? . . . I'm his severest friend and best critic.

The esteemed, if dull, London Sunday Times, a while ago ran from Sabbath to Sabbath a department titled: "Why I Hate America" . . . Every sorehead in England was here given the opportunity to air his dislike of the people of the U. S. . . . Well, it seems a good idea for the London Times now to start a column headed: "Why Englishmen Hate England" . . . And they might quote two new books—Leonard Merrick's "The Little Dog Laughed" and Norman Douglas' "Good-Bye to Western Culture" . . . Page 68 of Merrick's tome contains this:

"You must come and see me one day at my cottage in the country. It is called 'Sweet Home.' It is an English name. England is delicious, except for its climate, its scent, and its cookery." . . . Now turn to page 116 of Douglas' book and get an eyeful . . . "Come to Britain, where you will find: The worst climate in Europe . . . The most brutal and ferocious Customs-examination . . . The most comfortless and expensive hotels . . . The worst cooking . . . The worst wagon-restaurants . . . You cannot get a drink when you want one . . . You are not allowed to buy a cigar after 8 p. m. . . . If you speak to a woman in the street you are run in . . . If you walk in the Park after sunset you will be spied on and probably arrested . . . If you stay six months—but nobody would be such a fool—you will pay 4 shillings income tax on every 20 shillings . . . Everything more expensive than anywhere else."

However, as the editor of the London Sunday Times seems to be devoid of a sense of humor, this suggestion is not likely to go very far.

Looks Like Either Flagg Or Quirt May Meet Movie Death

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 19.

HIGH MOGULS at Fox are wrinkling their brows over an abstruse problem—shall Sergt. Quirt or Capt. Flagg be killed off in "Women of All Nations," the new adventure of the two fisted heart-smashers?

The death of one of the pair obviously would give dramatic punch to the picture, yet expediency may dictate that they be left alive for future conquests at the box-office as well as feminine.

Bebe Daniels

It comes out at this time that Sergeant Quirt narrowly escaped death in "The Cock-Eyed World." The script called for his attack of fever to be fatal but after seeing the rushes of the picture Winfield Sheehan cannily recognized the possibility of a sequel. Hence the sergeant got a new lease on life.

By the same token one might argue that the two will survive the present consultation over their fate. Well established characters like Flagg and Quirt are rare in screen history. It would be a shame to miss their annual joust in the lists of love.

RUMORS PERSIST

Every city editor out here is familiar with the false tips on the death of film stars. No one knows where they start, but the rumors come in to the papers every few days. Frequently an out-of-town paper hears the report first and bombards the local city desks with queries.

Recently within 15 minutes came out-of-town tips that Buddy Rogers and Bebe Daniels had been killed in automobile accidents. Sometimes it takes several hours to locate the stars and disprove the reports. Yet city editors do not dare to take a chance of missing a big story. Not though the first accurate rumor of this kind has yet to come in.

MYSTERY EXPLAINED

When film stars grow real beards instead of using false whiskers, they are not moved by a desire for realism. The chief reason is that the hirsute fakes have to be stuck on with spirit gum, a disagreeable mixture that tickles and irritates the face. Rather than submit to its tortures Tully Marshall has spent eight months growing a beard for "Fighting Caravans."

Tully Marshall

SILLS MOURNED

The death of Milton Sills greatly shocked the Hollywood film colony. At the time of his fatal attack, the actor was between pictures. He was scheduled to do "Network" for Fox within a short time. Within a month Doris Kenyon (Mrs. Sills) is billed to appear as a concert artist for a local impresario. It is not known whether she will change her plans.

WORKING GIRL LOVES; NEW M. C. DEBUTS IN STANLEY

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"The Office Wife" is the new film in the Stanley. This "wife" is a young girl who gets a job as a stenographer or some such and falls in love with her boss. And she's such a silly child. He, the boss is twice her age.

The film is based on the magazine story by Faith Baldwin. It was an interesting story. But we cannot say as much for the picture the Warner Brothers have released. However, it does have appeal for women audiences.

Dorothy Mackaill is the girl in the film. She makes $45 a week and the movie studio dresses her up like a Sewickley debutante. Which makes her very attractive as an actress, but very unreal as a working girl.

Lewis Stone is the man. An actor is Mr. Stone. Yet his role, as developed in the film is a terrific handicap. He has too many letters to dictate.

A GABBY FELLOW

There is a newspaper character in the picture. But shades of Mr. Ruggles, you should see what they've done with him. The movies used to keep the newspaperman drunk. But now—and worse—they have turned him into a swell-headed, gabbing fool. We have met the former, but never, in 10 years, have we seen the latter.

Women dress and partly undress in the film. They are present in street clothes and in negligee. All very proper, of course. But, keeping to the title, there should be more office buildings and fewer boudoirs.

The picture jumps too much. It shows the romance between the not such a young man and the such a young girl at various stages. But you've got to guess at times how it arrives there.

THIS IS PITTSBURGH

A new master of ceremonies is on the stage. His name is Ed Lowry and the story is that he was a grand success in St. Louis. Well, this is Pittsburgh, Mr. Lowry, however, does appear to be a likeable fellow. He has personality. But his jokes and his Vagabond-Lover-Rolling-Along song didn't take him so far at his premiere.

But maybe the current stage show handicaps his style. The California Crooners won't get anyone excited. Pauline Gaskins isn't any knockout—singing or dancing. And the blackface parson, who goes back to the Garden of Eden for his alleged comedy, isn't any treat. Incidentally, there are one or two lines he has that once were "big stuff" on the burlesque circuit.

A dance number by the chorus girls, in which they skip rope to the tune of "Swinging in a Hammock," is clevely executed. Bernie Armstrong at the organ and David Broudy in the overture act are on the bill.

BERNARD SHAW BUSY WRITING NEW PLAY

Bernard Shaw, who wrote "The Apple Cart" which the Theater Guild is bringing to the Nixon on Monday night, is at the age of 74 busily at work upon another play to swell a list that already includes 40 dramas.

George Abbott, co-author with S. K. Lauren of "Those We Love," next week's attraction of the George Sharp Players in the Pitt Theater, entered the theater as an actor. He began his career in a New York theater in "The Misleading Lady" which had the now famous Lewis Stone for its principal player.

"Dracula," the mystery play, will be shown to Pittsburgh theatergoers when the Shubert Alvin opens the 1930-31 season next Monday night. There will be matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

CARDS INCREASE N. L. LEAD

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Bucs May Finish Robins. | Mamaux Likely to Stay.
Kremer Alone in Loop. | Donlin Praises Cards.
Mack's Eighth Pennant | Sir Thomas Fails Again.

PIRATES POISON TO FLAG ASPIRANTS

WHATEVER, IF ANYTHING, remains of the rosy-cheeked pennant chance that Brooklyn had before the Robins were crushed under the weight of three straight defeats in the mad rush of the St. Louis Cardinals may be wiped out entirely if the Pirates run true to form when Jewel Ens takes his troopers to Flatbush tomorrow for their final series of the season there. Only something very close to an unbroken string of victories in the seven games they have yet to play could now produce a ray of hope for the Robins. Perhaps even that would not be sufficient. And if the Bucs stick to their recent habits the last prop may be kicked away.

Jewel Ens

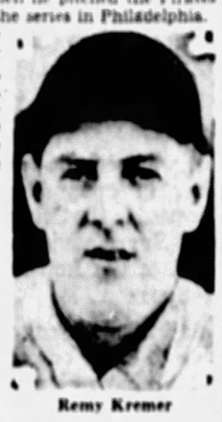
For though not in the flag argument themselves, the Rovers have cut a tremendous figure in the race by dealing damaging blows to the prospects of actual contenders. In the first place, they kept the Cards from having the flag safely sewed up before now by spilling them right and left earlier in the season. Of the 18 games played with the Redbirds to date the Corsairs have won no fewer than 12, or an average of two out of every three. Change that to an even break and the race would be over. The Cards would be as good as in with a lead of five full games.

AND SINCE THE clubs swept into the homestretch in one of the closest finishes on record, the Pirates have done a couple of big jobs toward putting two other contenders out of the fighting. It was the capture of three out of five games by Pittsburgh in an early September series with Chicago that undermined the Cubs' lead and plunged them into a slump from which they have never recovered and only last Sunday the Bucs killed New York's final chance by knocking off the Giants in both ends of a double-header.

So if the Picaroons keep that up Brooklyn may be next in line for a knockout punch. The record of the competition between the clubs for the season would appear to indicate the Robins are in no great danger, as the Bucs have beaten them only seven times in 20 meetings and have won only two games out of nine in Brooklyn. But past performances cannot be taken as a sign of what any club is going to do in this dizzy finish, and the games in Brooklyn tomorrow and Sunday may find the Pirates completing the ruin that the Cardinals started.

AFTER FOUR UNSUCCESSFUL attempts, Remy Kremer finally put over his twentieth win of the season when he pitched the Pirates to a 6-to-5 decision in the closing game of the series in Philadelphia.

The last few hurdles have been the toughest for pitchers in general this year with the exception of Bob Grove. Ted Lyons, after winning 17 games in smooth style, went six weeks before he landed his twentieth victory, and Wes Ferrell tripped three times following his twenty-fourth win before he hung up his twenty-fifth on the same day Kremer reached the 20 mark.



Remy Kremer

UNLESS PAT MALONE, of the Cubs, can capture two more decisions before the finish, Kremer will get the distinction of being the only pitcher in the National League to win 20 games this year. Malone, with 18 to his credit at present, appears to be the only hurler in the Heydler loop with a chance to reach the mark. Last year Malone was the only National League hurler to finish in the select circle. Only four fingers all told won 20 or more games, the successful ones, aside from Malone, being Lefty Grove, George Earnshaw and Wesley Ferrell. Five have reached the line this season, Kremer's companions being Grove, Earnshaw, Ferrell and Ted Lyons.

THE CLINCHING OF the American League pennant by the A's brings the championship honors of that circuit to Philadelphia and Connie Mack for the eighth time. For the second time in succession the Mackmen are practically certain to win more than 100 games. It was their ninety-ninth win that sewed up the flag. Last year they won 104 games.

Mack's seven previous pennant victories were scored in 1902-05-10-11-13-14-29. He lost only two world series, those of 1905 and 1914, while winning four. John McGraw, in the National, with a total of 10, is the only manager who ever won more major league pennants than Mack. The manager to approach Mack most closely in the American was the late Miller Huggins, who won six flags. Boston, like New York, won six pennants in the American, but under four different managers.

AL MAMAUX, former Pittsburgher and one-time Pirate pitcher, has done so well as manager of the Newark club in the International League that, according to reports from the East, Owner Paul Block is expected to reappoint him for 1931.

Al Mamaux

The club was near the bottom of the heap when Mamaux was named to succeed Tris Speaker on June 28, but Al managed to put new life in the outfit, made a couple of helpful deals and improved things in general to such an extent that Newark has risen to fifth place and looks good for a higher finish next year.

CUM POSEY, manager of the Homestead Grays, believes an injustice has been done Barney Dreyfuss and the Pittsburgh Baseball Club in the testimony before Council that the Grays are charged 40 per cent for the use of Forbes Field for their home games. "That is an injustice to both Mr. Dreyfuss and the Pittsburgh Baseball Club and I wish to go on record as saying that whoever made that assertion has been misled," said Posey. "Certainly it did not come from any person connected with the Grays, as it is not true. The rental quoted to Council is in excess of what the Grays actually pay. The person who made that statement must have confused it with the 40 per cent paid by the Grays to some of the visiting clubs. The Grays are perfectly satisfied with the arrangement they have with the Pittsburgh club, as they encounter absolutely no overhead, which is always a big detail in connection with baseball games. When the Grays play at Forbes Field everything is in readiness for them upon their arrival at the park. And when the game is concluded they go on their way, the task of putting everything back in order being handled by Pittsburgh club's employes. That requires a force of workmen. The Grays feel that the person or persons who quoted 40 per cent as our rental should retract."

MIKE DONLIN, former star clouter in the big leagues, who did a turn with the Pirates in 1912, is in New York to take part in a Broadway stage production opening near the end of the month, and has been sitting in at the big pennant games. He says he has always rated Hal Chase as the greatest first baseman of all time, but has revised his views since seeing the Giants in action. His vote now goes to Bill Terry, as the best ever.

Donlin says the Giants lost their chance for the pennant by failing to do as well on the bases as the Cardinals. "The Cards were the better base runners in the New York and Brooklyn series," Mike declares. "They made their own breaks by hustling. I like the way Street had them always on the move on the paths. Practically every time they got a man to third he scored."

ANOTHER INDICTMENT AGAINST night baseball is being

DUKES BATTLE MOUNTAINEERS IN INAUGURAL

Dukes vs. W. Va.

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

King Football crashes upon the scene in Pittsburgh and the surrounding territory tonight in the garb and guise of a night rider.

The collegiate season gets under way at Forbes Field at 8:45, daylight saving time, with Duquesne University meeting West Virginia University, of Morgantown, W. Va., in the first game of the season for both teams.

Meanwhile, at Beaver Falls, Geneva College's 1930 eleven makes its bow under the new coaching leadership of Howard Harpster against Clem Crowe's St. Vincent's College Bearcats, of Latrobe. This will be the first night college football game ever played in the Beaver Valley.

ATTRACTIVE OPENER

The Dukes-Mountaineers battle is one of the most attractive early-season tilts ever to be played here, and the fact that it is a night contest makes it doubly so, for many fans who cannot get away from work for afternoon gridiron tussles will be on hand for the fireworks.

The Dukes and Mountaineers played a 7-7 tie at Morgantown last fall, and both Coaches Elmer Layden, of Duquesne, and Ira Rodgers, of West Virginia, are more than anxious to eke out a triumph with which to start off the new season in proper style tonight.

The West Virginia squad arrived in town by bus this afternoon and is slated for a long workout under the lighting system before game time.

Members of the Pitt, Carnegie Tech and Wash.-Jeff. squads have been invited to attend the game as guests of Coach Elmer Layden of the Dukes.

The Dukes look for one of their best crowds. The men on the Bluff inaugurated night college football in these parts last season and were very successful with it and this year will play a big schedule of nocturnal engagements.

SCHOOLS ALSO IN ACTION

Tonight's game will be broadcast by radio through Station KQV, with Paul Miller and Jack Buchheit at the microphone. They will go on the air 15 minutes before the kickoff and detail the game play by play.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE CROOKED SPIRE CHURCH OF CHESTERFIELD, ENGLAND—The All Saints' Church of Chesterfield, Derbyshire, England, is surmounted by the curious "crooked spire," which is 228 feet high and 8 feet off the perpendicular. It is said that this phenomenon is due to the use of unseasoned timber in the construction of the edifice in the Fourteenth Century, with considerable warping of the woodwork as a result. A SAMOAN BECOMES "OF HEIGHT" NOT "OF AGE"—Samoa has a considerable amount of native self-government. Once a year every adult reports to his tax office where his exact stature is ascertained. The Samoan who has attained the height of 5 feet 1 inch is considered a taxable subject, and pays his tax on May 1.

TEST SWAMPS JUDGES

Judges in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's All-Time Pitt Football Team contest, which closed Wednesday night, have been swamped ever since they took over the task of determining the thousands of winners of tickets for the games at the Stadium for the season beginning with the Waynesburg game next Saturday. However, they are striving manfully to complete their work in time to be able to announce the staggering complete list of winners in Sunday's issue.

The official All-Time Team, selected by James J. Long, veteran sports scribe, for this contest, will be published in Sunday's Sun-Telegraph, along with pictures of the members, and Long's reasons for the choices he has made. This story is one of the most interesting along these lines ever prepared, and will be saved by followers of Pitt's gridiron fortunes for future reference. It mentions virtually all of the outstanding players that ever performed on Pitt teams.

If you or your friends were among the army of readers who competed in this contest, you must read Sunday's issue for the grand climax. Perhaps your name will be among the winners of choice ducats.

DeMarco Unfit, Bout Called Off

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Eddie Shea, Chicago featherweight, knocked out Joe Rychell, also of Chicago, in the second round of a scheduled 10-round boxing contest here last night. Rychell was no match for Shea.

A scheduled 10-round bout between Tommy Cello, California lightweight, and Johnny DeMarco, Philadelphia, was called off when it was announced that physicians refused to let DeMarco box because of physical disabilities.

Mack Celebrates Clinching of Eighth Flag

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Connie Mack, 67-year-old leader of the Philadelphia Athletics, remained in Chicago today to celebrate his eighth American League championship.

By a burst of base hits the Athletics yesterday wound up the White Sox series by defeating the Chicago team, 14 to 10, and clinching first place for the second consecutive time. Although the Cardinals apparently will enter the world series as foes of the Athletics, Mack said he had not deserted the Chicago Cubs.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The tumult and shouting has died down in the Flatbush with many a Brooklyn fan convinced that their beloved Robins will have to wait for another year before they can attain the goal of world series glory.

And in the meantime, Charles (Gabby) Street is in the driver's seat in Philadelphia after taking his leave from Ebbetts Field, where he and his Cardinal fighters laid waste the Robins in all three games of a crucial series. While the Redbirds were making it three in a row, the Cubs were taking one on the chin at the Polo Grounds, so the Bears today were a bit worse off than the Robins. St. Louis holds an advantage of two games over the Robins and their lead over the Cubs is one-half a game bigger.

HOW THEY STAND

Today the leaders stand as follows:

Club—	W.	L.	Pct.	Games To Play Back	With Pitts.
St. Louis	83	60	.583	....	9
Brooklyn	84	63	.571	2	7
Chicago	83	63	.569	2½	8
New York	80	66	.548	5½	8

How tonight's standing will read, win or lose:

	Won.	Lost.
St. Louis	.589	.582
Brooklyn	.574	.568
Chicago	.571	.565
New York	.551	.544

The Pirates, almost reconciled to a fifth-place finish, were spending a day of rest in the metropolis today. The Ensmen reached New York from Philadelphia last night after defeating the Quakers, 6 to 5, in their last meeting of the season.

Remy Kremer finally recorded his envied twentieth victory of the season, he being the first hurler in the National League to reach that goal. But Frenchy tried five times before he landed the twentieth success. Had he been favored with better breaks, Remy now would be well above the mark.

Capt. Pie Traynor and Lloyd Waner were missing when the Bucco reached this city. Pie and Lloyd were given permission by Manager Ens to visit Baltimore, where both will undergo health examinations. The two stars were treated in Baltimore earlier in the year and they took advantage of the day off and their close proximity to the Maryland city to have a check up on their health. Both are due in town tonight or tomorrow morning.

PLAY ROBINS TOMORROW

The Pirates will play the Robins at Ebbets Field tomorrow and Sunday. These games will end their activities in the East for the 1930 season. As the Robins still have a chance to win the flag because the Pirates are not out of fourth place reckoning, the two games are likely to be filled with excitement.

The Pirates will try hard to take both games, and, of course, the home team will be possessed of similar ideas. Therefore, the competition is bound to be exceptionally keen.

The Pirates are getting close to the end of their playing card. They will show in Pittsburgh Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. These games will be the last of the season at Forbes Field. A double-header is scheduled for Tuesday. Thursday will find the Pirates in St. Louis for a four-game set and, if this series still has a pennant bearing, you may be sure the fur will fly. The Pirate card, therefore, consists of nine more games.

DUGAS STARS

Manager Ens and other members of the club today were boosting the actions of the youthful Augustin Dugas, southpaw outfielder from Wichita, who had his big league initiation in Philadelphia. Dugas played in the outfield in two games, and he came

DAVIES BEATS ATHERTON

WILLIE'S JAB IS UNDOING OF HAPPY

By JAMES MILLER

Wee Willie Davies, Charleroi mite, with his left jab working like a piston, scored a clean-cut victory over Happy Atherton, Indianapolis veteran, in Hickey Park, Millvale, last night.

Atherton, with an unbelievable two-fisted attack to Davies' body which he executed after every other round, was all the little fellow from the Hoosier State had to offer against Willie's stiff pecking left and short lights to the chin that landed consistently.

Davies won every round handily except the second. In this setto Atherton belted Willie with a left hook to the body and then followed him across the ring to his corner where he connected with a hard right to the chin. A flurry was started and Davies came back and outboxed Atherton for the rest of the session, by a shade.

DAVIES' JAB SCORES

Grandpa Atherton, at the ringside fairly cheering him, finished the fight with his none-too-good-looking countenance showing the effects of Davies' stinging left jab. All but cut over his left eye was reopened and one of the ridges on his little nose was cut. Willie remained unmarked.

While both fighters sat in their corners before the count started, the ring post behind Atherton broke, leaving the ring looking like a circus pulling stakes after the last show. The bout was held up for 20 minutes while the park attendants, aided by Jack Metz, Willow Club boxing instructor, carved a new pole to hold up the ropes.

Boxing Commissioner Harry J. Boyle ordered both fighters back to the dressing room while the repair work was going on.

When the fighters returned Atherton was wearing a patch over his left eye but was told to take it off by the commissioner when his manager said it was covering an old wound that had healed.

ROBERTS STOPPED

Hans Roberts of Braddock, German welterweight riding on the crest of a comeback wave, struck a submerged log in the person of Billy Holt, Homewood Negro and formerly of Canton, O., and was sunk when Holt let loose a right hand smash that landed on Roberts' chin in the fifth round of the scheduled eight-round semi-final that kept Hans down as the knockdown timer and referee tolled the fatal 10. Roberts tried to rise at nine, but his legs would not respond.

Holt came close to ending the fight in the second round, when he shot several hard lefts to Roberts' chin that made his knees buckle. Hans' back-pedaling soon had him out of danger.

In the second six-round bout, Georgie Chambers, of East Liberty, punched out a well-earned decision over Russell Powers, of Youngstown. It was a good fight throughout, with Chambers having Powers all but out in the last round.

PORTLAND VICTOR

Frankie Portland, of Ambridge, carried too many guns for Johnny Brown, of Lawrenceville, and won the referee's decision after six rounds of hard fighting in the curtain-raiser. Brown caught Portland on the chin with a wild right in the third round and dropped him for a five-count. Judge Frank Ferris cast his vote for Portland and Lou Mieninger, the other judge, gave it to Brown. Referee Al Grayber saved things by deciding for Portland.

Davies weighed 114¾, and Atherton 113¾ pounds. Roberts 143 and Holt 142¾. Chambers 158¼ and Powers 157, and Portland 137 and Brown 142.

Red Robinson and Al Grayber alternated as referees with Frank Ferris and Lou Mieninger as judges. Tommy Grant and Steve Russell acted as timers. Dr. M. R. Goldman was the commission physician. Harry Klass was the announcer.

A fair-sized crowd attended. Matchmaker Charley Luck is planning for a double windup card next Thursday night.

RANDALL SCORES KAYO

Showing the effects of his long layoff, Tiger Joe Randall, Negro welterweight of Elizabeth, last night finally came through to knock out Eddie Kaufman, of Cleveland, in the ninth round of their scheduled 10-round main bout at McKeesport. A left hook to the jaw spilled Kaufman for the full count after he had been down twice in the seventh.

Nick Polis, of Aliquippa, lost a referee's decision to Lloyd Clements, of Swissvale, in the eight-round semi-final, with Clements making his professional debut. Johnny Warner, of Clairton, defeated Johnny Haggerty, of Lawrenceville, in the second bout and Johnny Demko, of Weirton, W. Va., won over Anson Green, of Homestead, in the opener.

Fight Results

At Hickey Park, Millvale—Willie Davies defeated Happy Atherton, 10 rounds; Billy Holt knocked out Hans Roberts, 8 rounds; Georgie Chambers defeated Russell Powers, 6 rounds; Frankie Portland defeated Johnny Brown, 6 rounds.

At McKeesport—Tiger Joe Randall knocked out Eddie Kaufman, 9 rounds; Lloyd Clements defeated Nick Polis, 8 rounds; Johnny Warner defeated Johnny Haggerty, 6 rounds; Johnny Demko defeated Anson Green, 6 rounds.

At New York—Jack (Kid) Berg defeated Joe Glick, 10 rounds; Roll Roth knocked out Terry Roth (technical), 2 rounds; Jackie Pilkington and Willie Siegel drew, 6 rounds; Miki Geib defeated Leo Thorzon, 10 rounds.

At Philadelphia—Micke Blair defeated Mickey Doyle, 8 rounds; Frankie Rappa defeated Young Terry McGovern, 6 rounds; Eddie Palmer knocked out Jack Ramsford, 4 rounds; Frankie Dutch defeated Benny Cleine, 6 rounds.

At Indianapolis—Eddie Shea knocked out Joe Rychell, 2 rounds; Tommy Cello and Johnny DeMarco bout called off by physician.

At New Haven—Humbert Curi Walter Kaiser bout no contest, 3 rounds.

At Garfield, N. J.—Paul Cavalier knocked out Jack Kane, 6 rounds.

At North Adams, Mass.—Tut Jackson defeated Johnny Freeman, 10 rounds.

pitched eight in the case of Walter George Brown, 240-pound pitcher from Oklahoma City who joined the Yankees recently but has been sent home until spring on account of an ailing pitching arm.

The soreness in Brown's arm is said to have resulted from pitching under the lights. He says the damp night air put kinks in the wing. Pirate scouts by the way reported unfavorably on Brown after watching him at work in the minors before he was bought by the Yanks.

Sir Thomas Lipton

ANOTHER DERBY OF the deep is a thing of the past, and the fifth attempt of Sir Thomas Lipton to lift the America's Cup has gone the way of all the rest. The fourth straight victory of the defender Enterprise brought the 1930 series to an end, and the famous emblem of world yachting supremacy remains in this country for its eighteenth consecutive year. In his five attempts to capture the ancient trophy Sir Thomas spent something like $15,000,000 and set out of a total of 18 races sailed in the five series he won only two. He lost three straight races in 1899, 1901 and 1903, won the first two and lost the next three in 1920, and was turned back in four straight this time. He is past 80 now and will hardly challenge again, but it is only Father Time that stops him. Truly one of the world's best and gamest sportsmen, and an opponent to be admired, even in defeat.

PITTSBURGH WILL BE one of the first cities in the country to open the football season of 1930 with the Dukes and the West Virginia Mountaineers prying off the lid in a game under the floodlights at Forbes Field tonight. And in the quality of the attraction this city will rank foremost, as rarely does an opening game take on the class of a struggle between teams of the caliber of tonight's principals.

A clash between the Dukes and Mountaineers would be good enough to rate as a feature attraction at any stage of the later schedule. It's not a mere warm-up for one team or the other, as is generally the case in openers, but a real football battle between elevens of class and power.

THE THIRD STRAIGHT victory for the Cards in the final number of the important Brooklyn series, their twenty-fifth win in their last 29 contests, gave St. Louis a decided edge in the National League pennant fight.

The Redbirds are not set in, but the advantage they hold of three games in the Lost column will be hard to overcome in the short time that remains unless Gabby Street's club goes to pieces. If the Cards win five of their remaining nine games, the Dodgers would have to win all of their remaining seven contests or the Cubs would have to win all of their remaining eight events to beat them out.

out of the contest with four hits.

Lefty has an impressive style at the plate and apparently he knows something about playing the outfield. Pirate fans are likely to get a chance to see Dugas in action when the team returns home.

The final game of the Cardinal-Robin series, like the first two fights, was a corker. Burleigh Grimes, in his 1928 stride, had the satisfaction of trumming the clue for which he toiled so long. Grimes was an outstanding figure of aggressiveness. The Brooklyn fans booed or cheered him according to their dictates, but Burleigh just smiled and kept fighting right down to the last ditch. The score of the last game was 4 to 3.

Ray Phelps, one of the best of the young pitchers of the season, opposed Grimes for almost six innings. Phelps had been reached for only three hits when Hollis Thurston went to his rescue, but the three safeties comprised one two-run homer and two triples, each of which had run-power. Phelps seemed to be weakening when taken out.

Sunny Jim Bottomley's homer in the fourth with Frisch on the sacks, was the most potent force in the Cardinal victory. The inning produced three runs and the Redbirds picked up what proved to be the winning marker in the sixth.

Grimes held the Robins to eight hits and they were blanked until the sixth, when they scored one run, and Burleigh was in a jam in the ninth, after Sparky Adams had failed to field a bounder off Hendricks' bat. But the master worker of the mound waged a winning fight.

A NEW VOLUME OF VALUE FOR FALL

High Priced Hand Made Models Reproduced by Regal for $6.60

ALLEN & BRIDGE, LONDON — BARTLEY & SONS, LONDON — N. GRECO, PARIS — JAMES ALLAN, EDINBURGH — G. W. BUNTING, LTD., LONDON — ANTON NIHLEEN, NEW YORK

THE Master Bootmakers of the World actually made by hand these six Original Models for the most prominent and best dressed men in London, Paris and New York.

We had access to their Customer's Book where everybody who purchased a pair of shoes wrote his name and address and the Bootmaker filled in a detailed description of Last, Leather, Pattern, Height of Heel, Weight of Sole—even the design on the Tip or Toe Cap.

This information was invaluable. We could not issue a summons and have this Titled List appear before us and cross-question them on Shoe Styles, but an analysis of the Customer's Book of these Famous Bootmakers, supplied us with all the information we wanted.

They gave us this inside information because we have been very good customers for several years. When we select a Shoe, we buy 42 pairs of each Style, so that we can show you the Original hand-made model and the $6.60 Regal Reproduction side by side, in every Regal Store.

Now don't forget, these Master Bootmaker's hand-sewed models were made of the finest Leathers, regardless of cost, and the Price was an incidental item to their customers.

But this year PRICE is a very important factor to our Customers. And we consider it an achievement in American Shoe Manufacture, to reproduce these expensive hand made models in our factory for $6.60.

When a shoe is made of Martin's of Glasgow Scotch Grain, there is no way to reproduce it except to use the identical Leather. So we sent our Representative to Scotland, to see Mr. Martin personally, and placed the largest order for this expensive leather that he had ever received.

As a matter of fact, with one exception, we used the same identical tannage in the Upper Leather in every Regal Reproduction, that the Custom Bootmaker used in the Original Model. In this one exception, our Leather Buyer advised us that the American Tannage was better than the Imported Leather, and strange as it may seem, it cost us more.

But there isn't any secret about it. I think it is safe to say we sew 1,000 pairs in our factory by machine to every one pair these Custom Bootmakers sew by hand. We have 84 stores located in all the principal cities of the United States and they have one shop in London, Paris or New York. It's the purchasing power of a National Institution. It's the Volume that makes this Value possible.

PANTHER GRID SQUAD BREAKS CAMP TODAY

OPENING GAME LINEUP STILL IN DOUBT

WINDBER, Pa., Sept. 19.—Pitt's Panthers are leaving here late today in fairly good shape, but still unsettled in three or four positions for the opening game with Waynesburg a week from tomorrow.

The Panthers added an hour to daylight savings today to make it possible to get in two full workouts and still reach Pittsburgh in time to see West Virginia meet Duquesne in the night game at Forbes Field.

The athletes arose at 6:30, ate breakfast an hour early and started the morning workout at 8:30 instead of 9:30.

TECH SCRIMMAGES

What may prove to be the final scrimmage before embarking upon the invasion of Buffalo, N. Y., to play their opening game of the season will be staged by the Carnegie Tech varsity football squad today. There has been no real rough work since last Tuesday with Wednesday and Thursday being given over almost exclusively to signal drills and the perfection of the plays that will be used against Buffalo.

Today's battle will be the final scrimmage of training camp which will be broken tomorrow at noon. School is to start next Wednesday and Monday and Tuesday will be registration days, so the preliminary work will have to be virtually completed with this week.

W. & J. COACH ILL

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 19.—Buster Peters, assistant varsity coach at Washington and Jefferson College, is confined to his home here by an illness resulting from a leg injury suffered during the Bucknell game. He will be confined to his home for several days, and perhaps weeks. His absence will prove a real handicap to Head Coach Bill Alms.

HARNESS ACE TO RACE

HANOVER, Pa., Sept. 19.—Mahomet Rysdyk, 2:01, winner of the Hambletonian this year, although injured in training at Lexington, Ky., will be able to perform in the Kentucky Futurity, the final racing engagement of the season, next Tuesday, according to a telegram received here today from Trainer Berry.

MRS. REAGLE CHAMP

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 19.—Mrs. E. E. Reagle won the 1930 golf championship of the Sharon Country Club yesterday, when she defeated Mrs. S. M. Phillips, 5 and 3.

Nick Altrock Says:

CLEVELAND, Sept. 19.—This National League race may not be decided until the last day. The Cubs, Cards and Robins all finish at home and two of them are going to stay there. That was a sad story about Flint Rhem being kidnaped and forced to drink liquor all night. After reading the awful details, I walked three miles up and down dark alleys trying to be mistaken for a St. Louis pitcher, but I had no luck. I got back safe and sound. I hear that next year the Boston city fathers are going to get the Red Sox to play night baseball and then pass a curfew law for 9 p. m.

Louisville Almost 'In' in A. A. Race

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The Louisville American Association team has practically clinched the pennant. The Colonels are three games ahead of St. Paul with only three games to play.

If Louisville wins one more game the flag is clinched.

St. Paul has four more games to play. If the Colonels lose all three and St. Paul captures three of their four games the result will be a tie.

St. Paul can still win the pennant by a half game if the Saints win four while Louisville is losing three.

FT. WORTH WINS SECOND

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The Fort Worth Fort Worth won their second straight Texas league victory, yesterday, defeating Memphis 4 to 1. Memphis errors in the eighth handed the Cats two runs and the lead which was clinched with a final run in the ninth.

MONESSEN VICTOR

BELLE VERNON, Pa., Sept. 19.—Monessen High won its opening grid game of the season last night in the first football night game played here by defeating Carmichaels 13 to 0. Close to 2,000 fans witnessed the contest.

MY 50 YEARS IN BASEBALL

by CONNIE MACK, MANAGER OF WORLD CHAMPION PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS

INSTALLMENT NO. 11.

In my previous articles I have not put forward any representations regarding my skill as a catcher. One naturally hesitates. I trust I will not be thought immodest, therefore, if I say that the newspapers gave me a high rating.

Connie Mack

I now had been catching since 1886, and no club ever wanted me to go and in Washington, Buffalo and Pittsburgh I always caught the majority of games. At the end of the season of 1893 Manager Buckenberger had been good enough to say that the Pirates and not Boston would have won the championship if I had not broken my leg.

In my Washington and Pittsburgh days a high premium was placed on base-running and base-stealing. The base-stealing device always was spectacular and pleased the fans. Nearly every player of any speed always tried to build a reputation by stealing bases in wholesale fashion.

Therefore a catcher to last had to be alert and have a throwing arm like a rifle.

It always had been my policy to study batsmen and work in close harmony with the pitcher. Opponents would run wild on any catcher who held aloof from his pitcher and was not always keyed up and the game was sure to be lost.

A "TALKING" CATCHER

Therefore, a catcher could not relax a split second and he had to resort to many subterfuges to help his game along. I was known as a "talking catcher" because I always had something to say to the batsman at the plate.

I never "rode" a player in my life. Up in East Brookfield, they liked the homely saying that you always could catch more flies with molasses than vinegar. I believed in that axiom.

Therefore, I always tried to distract the attention of the hitter by praising him. "That was a beaut you hit the last time," or "If you have any weakness I don't know it" and similar side remarks were my stock in trade.

The reason for this is that I always worked the quick delivery with the pitcher. I wanted the batsman to be half turned, replying to some of my fol-de-rol so that he would not be set properly when I signed for a quick pitch. We had a lot of success that way. Whenever the pitcher sneaked over a strike, I invariably would protest to the angry hitter.

PIRATES FALL DOWN

"That fellow," I would say, "has to stop that stuff or somebody is going to get hurt. I wasn't set for that pitch myself."

The hitter at the time might have been in the notion of throwing his bat at the pitcher, but my remarks always would mollify him. I also have been accused of tipping bats. Well, I won't go into that. Catching was different in those days.

After finishing second the year previous, the Pirates had high hopes for 1894. Buckenberger, of course, was retained as manager on the strength of his success.

As it turned out, the season was a dud. The team started poorly and never did catch its stride. In the last half of the season we were wallowing in the second division and the fans commenced to howl.

Believe me, Pittsburgh fans can howl when they get in the notion. So one day William W. Kerr, the new club president, called me in his office and said:

"I want you to manage the team. I'm through with Buckenberger."

It was like a bolt from the blue and I didn't answer for some seconds.

"No, I can't do that," I finally responded, "for I believe that Buckenberger has done everything possible to keep the team going and that it is no mistake of his that we are not winning. Give Buck another chance."

SPURNS PILOT JOB

I also reminded him that I had not fully recovered from my broken leg and that I had not contributed my normal service to Buckenberger.

President Kerr never expected such an answer from a man he had offered the managerial post. Astonishment crept over his face.

"Well," he said slowly, "I will think this over."

The upshot was that the dismissal of Buckenberger was canceled and he took over the reins again.

A few weeks later the Pittsburgh papers carried a story that Buckenberger has been released. Again Mr. Kerr sent for me and offered me the job, and I accepted this time without compunction of conscience.

When I agreed to act as manager, I felt that I was slipping as a player because of my injured leg, and it dawned on me that it was imperative now to try some other line in baseball if I were to stick in the game.

FINALLY ACCEPTS

I was still young, not yet 32, and had been in the majors since the last part of 1886. Had it not been for that broken leg, I believe I could have had a playing career lasting at least 12 years, because I always kept myself in good condition summer and winter.

Herman Long's spikes, accidentally, of course, had changed all that. It hurt me to crouch and move around, and I knew that I never could do the things I had done previously.

I still was able to play at intervals, but the days of my going in and taking the catching burden by participating in 100 games or more a season were gone. Nobody knew that better than myself.

Therefore good fortune had succeeded ill luck. My playing days were virtually ended, but I had an opportunity to stay in baseball perched higher and drawing bigger money than ever before in my career.

My appointment as manager of the Pittsburgh club changed my whole viewpoint in the game. I now resolved to succeed as a leader and devote all my brains to the tactical side. My experience as a catcher stood me in good stead.

The game of baseball revolves around the battery and I felt that I was equipped to give the job a battle. The season had only a short time to run. We finished seventh. Nothing that season was charged to me on that account.

I thought of nothing except 1895 when I jumped aboard a train for East Brookfield that fall.

Colorado Gridder Dies From Injuries

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Harold Akin, 22, halfback on the Colorado College football team, died in a hospital here early today as a result of injuries received in practice on Tuesday last.

MANDELL VS. HERMAN

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Sammy Mandell, former lightweight champion, will meet Tommy Herman, of Chicago, at the Coliseum here September 26 in an eight-round bout.

COLLEGE GRID SEASON OPENS

The collegians will not have the night field all to themselves tonight for a number of scholastic teams will cut in on the gravy.

Scott High School of North Braddock will stage the first of a series of night games in its stadium, which seats more than 4,000 persons. Oakmont High School will furnish the opposition, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. Five of Scott High's other eight games also are scheduled as night events. The Scott eleven of last year lost only one game.

New Castle High opens its season with a game against Coraopolis High at home tonight. New Castle, coached by Phil Brumbaugh, former Geneva College mentor, is a veteran in this night game business, having gone through it last year and the first five of its 10 games this fall all are night games.

In other night games tonight, Ellwerth-Coxeburg High plays at Charleroi, and Brookfield High appears at Farrell.

20 TO FLY HERE

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Twenty Clarksburg football fans are hoping that West Virginia's football team gets the same kind of a start—a flying start—against Duquesne at Pittsburgh today as they plan in their method of travel to the scene of the battle. The fans will fly from here to the Pennsylvania city, aiming to make the journey in an hour.

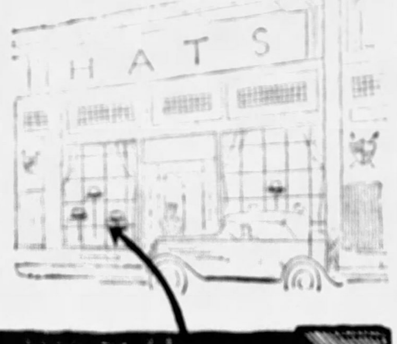
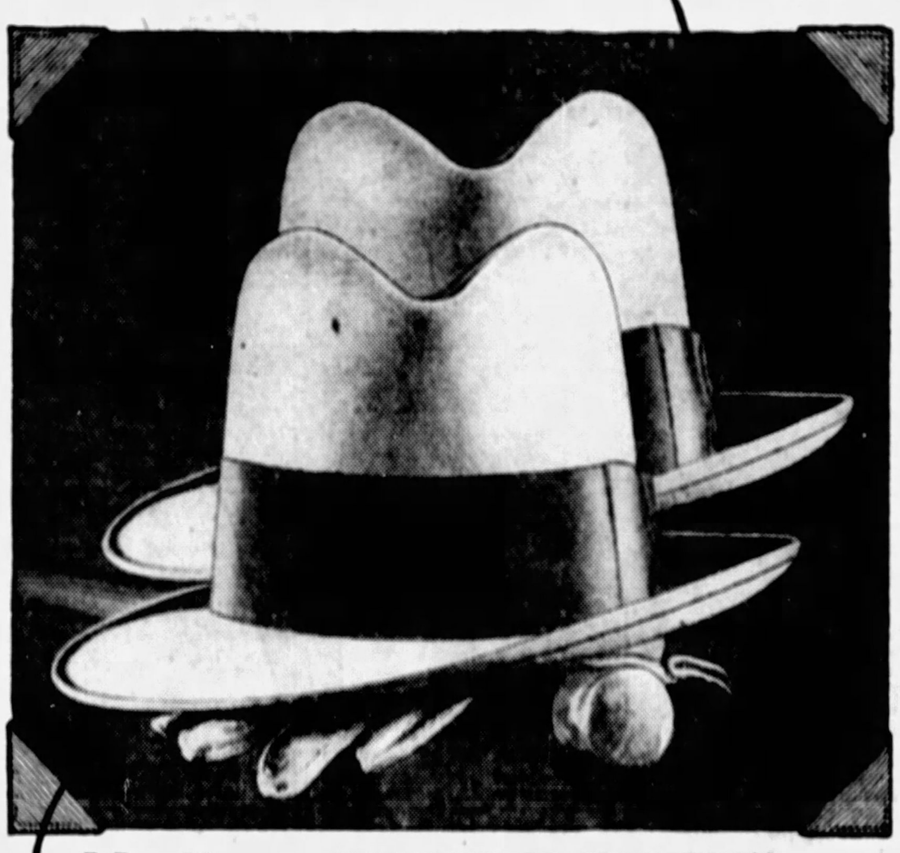
I Purchased the Original "Sydip" in a Shop in London It Cost Me $16.42





My Exact "STYLE TWIN" Costs You .. $3.50

I guess it would be perfectly proper to say that the King's Own Hatter designed this new "Sydip" Style because he holds Royal Warrants of Appointment to H. M. The King and H. R. H. The Prince of Wales.

At any rate, it is the most distinctive style shown in London this season and we were told that a Member of the Royal Family bought one a few hours before we discovered it in this famous London Shop.

They coined the word "Sydip" because it describes the way this hat is designed to be worn, that is, the brim is tipped up on one side and dipped down on the other.

And there is one other point—I know the Quality of this hat will surprise you more than the Price.

MRS. CURRY, MRS. BLAIR MEET IN GOLF FINAL

MRS. M'BRIDE, MRS. BRIGGS DEFEATED

By VERN SWARTSEAGER

Mrs. Margaret Curry, medalist and defending champion, and Mrs. Eva Blair, runner-up to Mrs. Curry in the 1929 city title tourney and 1930 Women's Schenley Golf Club championships, were opposed in the final of the annual city women's championship at the Schenley Park municipal links this afternoon.

Mrs. Curry and Mrs. Blair both scored decisive triumphs in their semi-final round matches this morning, the former eliminating Mrs. Al M. Bride 6 and 5, and the latter defeating Mrs. C. E. Briggs by the same margin.

Mrs. Curry rules a slight favorite to retain her crown. The semi-final round summaries:

GRID RULES Interpretations

PLAY NO. 17.

A play comes up in a game between Notre Dame and the Navy which has caused any amount of disputes as to the correct ruling. It happens this way:

Carrideo of Notre Dame intercepts a Navy forward pass behind his own goal line. Instead of grounding the ball, he sees an opening and attempts to run the ball back, but is tackled behind his own goal line in the end zone. The Navy captain claims two points on a safety.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER.

The referee disallows a safety and rules that a touchback only has been made which carries no points. The ball is brought out to the 20-yard line and put into play by scrimmage. Notre Dame's ball.

AMATEURS BOX TONIGHT

The amateur boxing show scheduled at the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. North Side last Tuesday night and postponed because of threatening weather will be staged tonight instead. A fine card of boxers has been arranged by Matchmaker Eddie McEnter.

My Sullivan and King Tut do the honors at St. Paul tonight. Tony Herrera (takes Wesley Ramey at Detroit. Jimmy Braddock clashes with Phil Mercurio in the opening show of the season in Boston's Madison Square Garden and Ethan Elkins faces Tommy Grogan at Omaha.

The Meyers Bowl management has given up the idea of holding a Johnny Farr-Eddie Anderson bout next Monday night and the outdoor season thus was closed with the postponed Baby Joe Gans-Young Saylor show last Wednesday night unless a good card should be available for September 29. Manager Angelo Meyers will appear next as the promoter of the Moose Temple Penn avenue where he will stage his first indoor show next Friday night. He has matched Young Gizzy and Chet Smallwood for his initial main bout.

INDEPENDENT GRIDDERS DRILL

LITTLE ACTION CARDED FOR WEEK-END

By TOM BIRKS.

With all of the managers in the district finishing off their practice sessions over the week-end in anticipation of the real season opening a week from Sunday, little action will be noted on the lots in the nature of heavy independent gridiron games.

At West View, Paul Muzzio will give the fans an eyeful of his club when Pleasant Valley Smilers are met. Muzzio states that Mose Keish will start in the backfield for the Parkers, so this might offset any argument as to where the veteran will play this season.

At Rainbow Gardens, Freddie Iverson will send his Olympians into action against the Valley All-Stars. This will be the opening off game for the strenuous contest listed in the conference on the following Sunday.

The All-Stars are players from around the Turtle Creek Valley who have been hankering for a crack at the Black and White, so plenty of action should be on tap.

Burns, of New Kensington, will hold a practice session. Coach Dick Goldberg and Jimmy Smith decided not to stage a game before the opening battle of the league.

East Pittsburgh and the Majestics also will stage scrimmage practice, but the McChesneytown machine will tackle Christy Park. This game will give the fans a chance to see what the Big Red Machine is composed of for the 10 big games to follow.

The Story—

Celebrated English Designer Agrees to Serve American Man

H. Huntsman & Sons, celebrated tailors of Saville Row, London, tailors by appointment to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, have entered into probably the most unique agreement in the history of the tailoring craft. At the request of the well known Fintex Corporation in America they agreed to design a certain number of models expressly for the American Man. This request struck them so odd at first and was so foreign to their usual type of business that they flatly refused. Only after much discussion and final conviction that these models were to be designed in the interests of better dressing and the furthering of the art of men's fashion in America, did they agree to consider it. Only after careful examination of the character of the work done by the Fintex Corporation and after conclusive proof that their standards were sufficiently high to do justice to the distinctive clothes they create, did they agree.

H. W. T. Huntsman—President of H. Huntsman and Sons

The Huntsman Establishment, Saville Row, London

There is a definite feeling that this marks a new type of development in American Clothes where industrial genius has made it possible to produce an excellence at a cost beyond competition anywhere in the world. With the power of Fintex industry, the ingeniousness of their executives, and skillfulness of their craftsmen, these models by Huntsman should mark a new standard of American clothing production.

H. R. H. The Prince of Wales—from a recent picture

It is of utmost importance to note that not only have Fintex produced clothes after these Huntsman designs, but they have imported fine woolens from England and Scotland so that they'd carry out in every detail that same English spirit that Huntsman himself had in mind when he planned them.

Few announcements, if any, have ever had such importance in the matter of men's clothes.

Here's 'Mental Cocktail' Not for Pessimists

By B. C. FORBES

"THIS MESSAGE is not for pessimists. Pessimists are cowards."

So writes an old friend, C. E. Knoeppel, well known industrial counsel, who urges, "Let's excite the sweat glands." He sends to this column what he calls a "mental cocktail" for those who are in "red" or "dull black."

Mr. Forbes

You will, I think, relish it.

IN 1880 OUR population was 50,155,783. In 1930 it is 123,000,000. This increase of 146 per cent in 50 years is an increase of 2.92 per cent each year.

In 1900 our wealth was $88,517,307,000. In 1930 it is $400,000,000,000 (estimated). This increase of 352 per cent in 30 years is an average of 11.73 per cent yearly.

WEALTH IS INCREASING FOUR TIMES FASTER THAN POPULATION.

What this will mean in 1949 and 1980, if history repeats itself, can be seen from the following:

Population — 1949, 158,916,000; 1980, 302,580,000.

Wealth — 1949, $869,200,000,000; 1980, $2,346,000,000,000.

Wealth per capita — (Now $3,252) — 1949, $5,466; 1980, $7,742.

PURCHASING POWER is on the increase. The Hoover report, "Recent Economic Changes," says that productivity has increased 53.5 per cent, with an 11.4 per cent increase in wages, and a 24.5 per cent decrease in unit costs.

A year like 1930 is nothing to go by, anyway. Over a period of 120 years there have been 32 cycle movements, the average of the swings being four years each, with the largest number (10) taking three years each. The thing to do is to consider the three to four year swings.

Keep in mind that we have 123,000,000 people who require food, clothing and shelter as DAILY NEEDS and radios, automobiles, washing machines and a thousand other things as WANTS. These needs and wants must be supplied in ever-increasing volume, due to our growth.

This will all mean: More machines to make more machines; less waste; more wages and salaries per person; better methods of production and especially selling; better plants; higher standards of living; fewer hours of work; more leisure time to enjoy the greater volume of goods produced; ever-widening markets; new processes flowing from research; entirely new industries, and many other benefits.

A PESSIMIST, under the conditions above described, is an apostle of gloom, for the GREATEST BOOM OF OUR ENTIRE HISTORY IS AHEAD OF US.

This message is not for pessimists. Pessimists are cowards. Even if they read it, they couldn't be induced to do anything about it, because to them the condition is hopeless. As the president of a large company wrote us:

"The only remedy for the situation is more sales, which of course, would mean more profits, but conditions in our industry are not such that sales can be increased."

More sales alone is NOT the remedy, nor does it follow that greater profits flow from larger sales. Who makes the "conditions in the industry?"

NOW, WITH optimists it is different. They go into a huddle about the ways out of the situation, and emerge with an idea that results in profits. The proof of this is the list of "blue ribbon" winners showing better profit records for the first half of this year, over the first half of 1929.

These, like the French at the Marne, say to dividends: "They shall not be passed."

The optimists are even now planning for profits, studying markets, redesigning products, rearranging plants, tooling up for the future, researching, developing new lines, soliciting ideas from personnel, eliminating waste and GETTING READY FOR THE GOOD TIMES WHICH HAVE NEVER YET FAILED TO COME TO THIS GREAT AND GROWING COUNTRY.

These are the ones who are "exercising their sweat glands."

Optimists welcome times like these. They provide glorious opportunities to create, develop, tighten the belt, plan for the future, and through wise management get an entire personnel to win out over the common enemy, RED INK.

IF BY ANY chance, some pessimist should happen to read this, let him think it over for 10 minutes—and then throw the blue glasses away!

HOW'S BUSINESS?

ACTUAL FACTS ON CONDITIONS TODAY

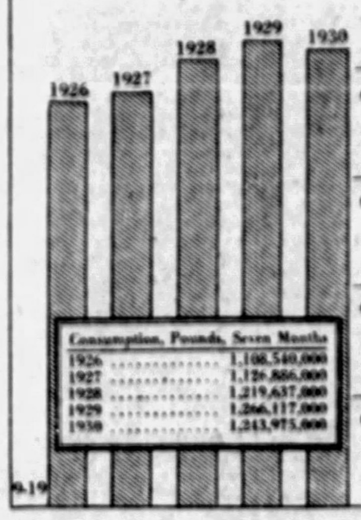
By FRELING FOSTER

Consumption of Butter and Cheese High

The apparent consumption of butter and all varieties of cheese in the United States during the first seven months of 1930 is compared with the same periods of the past four years. The figures are computed from actual factory and estimated farm production, imports, exports and changes in cold-storage holdings. Source: U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

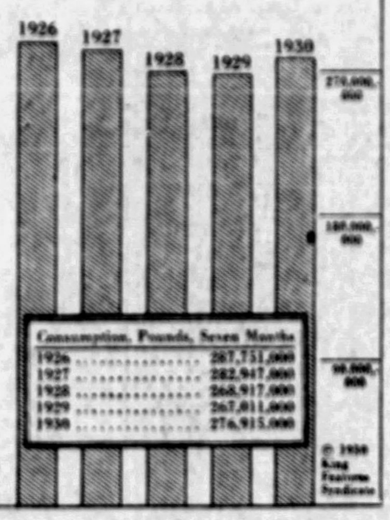
Butter Consumption

Despite the suppositional economies brought about by the depression, and the constant growth in the use of margarine, the consumption of butter in 1930 is at a satisfactory level. It is only 2% under 1929, but 2% over 1928, 10% over 1927 and 12% over 1926.



Cheese Consumption

From 1926 through 1929, the consumption of cheese in the United States decreased yearly, reaching a maximum decline of 7% last year. 1930, however, has helped this industry turn the tide. Consumption this year is almost 4% more than 1929 and 3% more than 1928.



NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Demand for high-grade railroad and utility issues continued unabated today and the two groups maintained their leadership on the bond market's current advance.

STOCKS BREAK RESISTANCE LEVELS

Market Declines, Rallies And Then Extends Early Losses; Volume Increases

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The stock market broke below recent resistance levels today in active selling that was stimulated by a rumor of political troubles in Germany. Seizing this report, which quickly proved to be unfounded as ammunition for their own guns professional bears offered leading issues in large blocks and succeeded in bringing out considerable liquidation from other sources. Volume increased sharply.

Denial of the rumor concerning Germany arrested the break shortly after noon when losses of 3 to 5 points or more had developed, but the market after making an irregular recovery turned dull for a time and then went into another decline in which the earlier recessions were extended.

The market encountered sporadic rallies and recessions throughout the afternoon but was more active on the down side. Maximum losses in favorite shares ranged from 3 to 6 points with drops of 8 of 9 points in a few volatile issues. Stocks off 4 or more included United States Steel, American Can, Sears, Roebuck, Loew's, American Water Works, Republic Steel, Dupont and Eastman Dodak. Western Union, American Power and Light and Youngstown Sheet and Tube lost 5. Underwood-Elliott-Fisher 6, Worthington Case 8 and Allied Chemical 9 and International Business Machine 9. General Electric, General Motors and Radio were steadier dipping only a point or two. The close was weak. Sales approximated 3,100,000 shares, the largest turnover since August 8.

SHARES DUMPED

Weakness of the market found many holders ready to part with their stocks. Some disappointment has been expressed this week over the failure of the anticipated business revival to materialize in a broad way and many who had made purchases during the advances of late August and early September had placed stop loss orders which were uncovered by the declines.

The day's reports from industry and trade were rather nondescript, although it appeared that large copper producers had definitely cut the domestic price to 10½ cents a pound. The custom smelters were also holding at that figure.

Steadiness of the Department of Labor's commodity index in August, which was unchanged from July, was attributed chiefly to the rally in farm produce prices last month because of the severe drought, for many of the other important groups of staples declined.

EXTRA DIVIDEND

There were a few unfavorable dividend actions, notably by the directors of Park & Tilford and Dunhill International. On the other hand, Allegheny Steel voted an extra and Diamond Shoe increased its rate. Wall street heard a report that Republic Steel was likely to omit its common dividend.

A gain of $79,000,000 in brokers' loans, although surprising in view of the downward movement of stock prices during the week covered by the report, reflected temporary borrowings through brokers for income tax payment purposes. The Federal Reserve statement showed that bank borrowings had dropped $20,000,000, to the lowest level in several years.

The money situation remained favorable. Call loans renewed at 2 per cent again, but funds were liberally offered in the outside market at 1½.

BLAZES TRAIL IN FORWARD BUYING

Bell System Takes Lead In Abandoning Hand-to-Mouth Purchasing Policy

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 — Leadership consists of willingness to break away from established trends.

In the face of the continuous decline in copper prices over a period of months, Edgar S. Bloom, president of the Western Electric Company, a subsidiary of the superbly-managed American Telephone and Telegraph Company, has made the bold, yet obvious decision to take advantage of cheap prices to do some forward buying. He has acted in the public interest, to the comfortable and undoubted profit of the Bell System, the largest consumer of copper in the world, has purchased a sufficient quantity of copper to take care of its needs for four months. Mr. Bloom and his associates obviously concluded that little would be less risk in accumulating copper at prevailing depressed prices than in waiting to see what the future price would be.

Mr. Rukeyser

Time will show whether this venturesomeness was wise. In view of the fact that the Bell System maintains perhaps the best statistical organization of any consumer of raw materials, numerous other executives will doubtless be influenced by the announcement by Mr. Bloom. The Bell System has also been making forward purchases of silk and antimony, lead and paper which goes into the making of cables.

VENTURESOMENESS NEEDED

The fashion until now has been to carry hand-to-mouth buying to an extreme. This very aloofness of large consumers has been a major cause of the weakness in commodity prices. Obviously at some price commodities will be cheap, and since barter first started profits have been made by the old-fashioned formula of buying cheap and selling dear. While the industrial storm was not a certain amount of pessimism was a safety factor, but after pessimism has carried prices to ridiculous extremes—in numerous cases below the cost of production—sagacity points to the desirability of becoming a little more venturesome. The leader has spoken and his voice is one of the most significant utterances since the Hoover business stabilization conferences held in the White House some 10 months ago.

In spite of low prices for leading farm commodities, farmers apparently get some consolation out of the fact that the city man is none too well off this year. In previous years of peak industrial prosperity the farmer irked at reading of the boom in the cities, in which he failed to participate.

NOT SO BAD OFF

D. P. Hogan, president of the Federal Land Bank of Omaha tells me:

"Employment conditions in the cities and lack of prosperity in industry and commerce have to some extent, I think, caused farmers to feel that perhaps they are not so bad after all. Farmers can cut down their expenses quite materially and still live very well as their farms produce much of their necessities of life.

"I think there has been a growing feeling for some time among farmers that they can help themselves by joining with other farmers in co-operative organizations. The Federal Farm Board with ample funds available and with a well-thought out and definite program in mind, can be of very great service in uniting the farmers in co-operative organizations. Other industries and lines of business have profited by organizations and united efforts to improve their affairs. Farmers are so numerous and their business is so individualistic that it is almost impossible for them to organize themselves. I think that the Federal Farm Board is making good progress on those lines."

DAILY TRUE STORY

'News'

Phyllis Morley wasn't the type of girl to sulk.

But there's a limit to one's good nature. Phyllis felt that the limit had long been passed.

She sat on the edge of her steamer chair aboard the Gigantania and scowled as she watched her stepmother and the pale, nervous little shrimp whose crested cards bore the name "Conta Ferrano d'Ilitezzi."

"Imagine facing that every morning at breakfast," Phyllis muttered. "I'll jam his head in a bowl of porridge and drown him some morning."

Then Phyllis grinned.

She had a saving sense of humor.

However, when a very nice girl is madly in love with a very nice boy and is told by a strong-willed stepmother that she is to marry a pint-sized little titled foreigner, such a girl cannot go about grinning very heartily for long.

Phyllis had always been quiet and kindly, always avoiding argument and fussing. The result was that her stepmother had for years tried to treat her like a little tot just running about.

Mrs. Morley, the stepmother, wasn't an unkind woman. She was naturally bossy and arrogant and a persistent social climber.

"You are naturally aristocratic looking, Phyllis," her stepmother often said, "and I shall see to it that you make a brilliant marriage, just as your dear father would have wished you to do."

Phyllis had always said "Oh, yes."

It was easier than getting into an argument.

Mrs. Morley did very well by Phyllis in her way, but she couldn't see that any way in the world except her own way could be the right way.

When Phyllis fell in love with Carl Sumner her stepmother did not approve.

"Carl is a lovely boy, my dear," she told Phyllis, "a nice gentlemanly fellow, and I like to have him beau you about, but as for matrimony—ah, no—it isn't the sort of a brilliant match I have in mind for you."

To Marry Carl

"He's all right," Phyllis had demurred.

"For everything except a husband. I look to an alliance for you with someone of family and title."

"Carl is American royalty. His father is a lumber king," Phyllis told her, quietly.

"Anything so serious as matrimony isn't to be turned aside with a joke, Phyllis."

However, Carl and Phyllis used to meet more often than stepmother suspected, and they had fallen more thoroughly in love than a strong-willed, self-centered woman like Mrs. Morley would have believed possible.

Both Phyllis and her stepmother had their own comfortable little fortunes. Mrs. Morley really believed that she had the very best interests of Phyllis at heart.

"I've argued with her, honey, and she's adamant," Carl complained, when they discussed the situation.

"I know it—she thinks I'm going to marry the Prince of Wales or something——"

"And you're going to marry me!"

Phyllis sighed.

"We're going to elope," Carl went on.

"We'll wait a year, we would, anyway," Phyllis urged.

And then Mrs. Morley took Phyllis abroad. She rigged her out in Paris and she took her here and there in a wild effort to locate some titled young man who would make her a worthy husband.

Unmarried earls, viscounts and lords were mighty scarce in England.

But in Italy Mrs. Morley met an old friend who introduced her to Contessa d'Ilitezzi. This Contessa was actually related to the royal family. Moreover, she had a son.

Without delay Mrs. Morley took a villa and entertained. The Contessa and her son were guests. When Phyllis saw Conta Ferrano d'Ilitezzi she almost laughed.

He spoke excellent English. He strutted when he walked and in lieu of brilliant conversation he smirked and twisted the needle-ends of his minute black mustache.

He was extremely polite.

"But he is so terribly dumb!" Phyllis had said when Mrs. Morley asked her how she liked him.

"Not at all, he is restrained, my dear," she had answered.

"Mentally and physically," Phyllis commented.

Stepmother Consents

"He is very wonderful — he often dines at the castle with royalty—and he is not a fortune hunter, he has plenty of money."

"All of which means nothing to me, except a good laugh." Phyllis found the nerve to answer.

"All of which proves that you need my mature mind and watchful guidance, my dear."

And so, almost before Phyllis realized it, her stepmother had one explosive quarrel with her over the little Conta Ferrano d'Ilitezzi and then calmly announced that Conta had asked her permission to marry Phyllis.

"I gave it, my dear — naturally," she explained.

"But how about my permission?"

"You are too young. I shall guide you, my dear."

It all seemed so unreal and impossible to Phyllis, but here she was, aboard the Gigantania, on the way home with her stepmother and the little Conta.

There was to be a big wedding. Mrs. Morley mentioned the Italian ambassador and other celebrities, but Phyllis was too dazed to pay much attention.

Mrs. Morley had already sent word ahead of her engagement.

Phyllis secretly sent a letter to Carl Sumner telling him that she was heartbroken, but that she just couldn't get out of it.

Phyllis sat there on the edge of her steamer chair, chin in hand, sulking and trying not to scowl. She wondered what her stepmother and Ferry were talking about. She always called the Conta "Ferry," it was easier than Ferrano.

Finally they moved along the deck to their chairs, beside Phyllis.

"And how is my beautiful little darling now?" Ferry inquired.

"Still living."

Phyllis forced a smile as she said it.

"Ah, you are so droll, my own," he said, as he got into his chair, curled up and pulled the rug over him.

He didn't half fill the steamer chair. Phyllis wondered if it wouldn't be positively funny if some one came along and sat on him, thinking the chair vacated.

Mrs. Morley beamed on them.

"Talk to him in his native tongue, my dear. I want you to perfect yourself in the beautiful language," she advised, although when Mrs. Morley advised it sounded like ordering.

Prepares Publicity

Ferry murmured something about "amoro" and rolled his eyes. Phyllis languidly tried to recall a few sentences. Mrs. Morley strolled away. After a few more attempts the Conta fell asleep. Phyllis got up and went to the rail where she stared down into the water and repressed a great desire to scream.

Carl had not had time to send her a reply to her letter before she sailed.

Now and then Phyllis sneaked up to the radio room to see if, by any chance, Carl would send word by air. Thus far no word had come.

Perhaps the poor boy was breaking his heart, too.

The Conta did not rave to any great extent when they sighted land, which meant that next day would see them landed. He had often made the trip.

At quarantine the customary routine occurred. And there came word that because of the lateness in the afternoon they probably wouldn't dock until very late.

The ship reporters' boat came out, and the usual lot of cameramen were with the reporters.

Here was another opportunity for Mrs. Morley. She would give the reporters a nice story for their society page—all about the engagement of Phyllis to none other than Conta Ferrano d'Ilitezza!

She went to hunt up one of the reporters; then she hurried to the writing room and wrote it all out so there would be no mistake in spelling names. Her own name was included.

Then she hurried out to find the reporters who were going about trying to interview really prominent passengers and trying to avoid the unimportant ones who rushed up and begged to be interviewed.

She found a reporter. He was interested in the engagement of an American girl to a Conta related to royalty!

Mrs. Morley caught sight of Phyllis posing for a cameraman.

This pleased her. Phyllis was getting sensible. The Conta was coming along. He too would be photographed and interviewed.

In Disguise

"Take several poses, please," Mrs. Morley said to the cameraman who wore a yellow slicker and glasses and also a heavy black mustache.

"I'm going around there in a better light," Phyllis called out. Mrs. Morley nodded and smiled again. Everything was lovely.

One of the cameramen was evidently finished. He went over the side of the boat—and then another, also in a yellow slicker.

Later Mrs. Morley went to ask Phyllis if she had thought to be photographed beside the Conta. But she decided that Phyllis was asleep as her stateroom was locked. Phyllis had her own single stateroom.

It was decided to try and dock that night as the quarantine formalities were over sooner than expected.

Mrs. Morley was just rapping at the door of the stateroom to waken Phyllis when a steward brought her a radiogram.

This radiogram read:

"Some real news for you. That wasn't a cameraman in the yellow slicker, glasses and big mustache, that was Carl Sumner in disguise. We came ashore in the newspaper boat in time to get a license and have just been married. Don't be angry.

"MRS. PHYLLIS SUMNER."

All the ship reporters grabbed this story when Carl told them.

"That's real news," they told him.

Detroit Sets Example In Unemployment Crisis

The inquiry made by the Bureau of the Census last spring disclosed that 21,727 workers in Pittsburgh, or 3.2 per cent of the population, were without jobs. What is the number now? What is being done to relieve the situation?

The questions are prompted by a conference on unemployment held in Detroit this week at the call of Mayor-elect Frank Murphy. The Sun-Telegraph suggested there was a lesson for Pittsburgh in the election of Murphy, a capable, clean, honest man who disdained to play the game of professional politics as it is ordinarily played. There appears also to be a lesson for this city in Murphy's manner of handling the unemployment crisis.

Within a few days after the election he summoned into conference the local prominent business, labor, welfare and municipal leaders, arranged for a city-wide unemployment census, and for a survey of city projects which it would be possible to take up at once. He took steps to find out how much money Detroit could raise for public improvements, and what jobs the various city departments had in mind. He secured the co-operation of the Board of Education, established a committee on unemployment, and took steps to provide a central headquarters where men out of work can apply for jobs. Under Murphy's inspiring leadership the unemployment committee is described as working "with war-time enthusiasm."

Pittsburgh's situation in respect to unemployment is not so bad as Detroit's, but it is bad. If the 21,727 workers whom the Census Bureau found jobless last April have an average of two dependents each—the number used in Detroit estimates—there were more than 60,000 persons here without income six months ago. How many now?

"First the facts—then the fight," is Detroit's slogan for the emergency. Pittsburgh might well take the same motto.

Test of Voting Machine Contract Is Welcome

Hope of having voting machines in use in Pittsburgh at the November election, none too bright before, has been made still more remote by the bill in equity filed in Common Pleas Court by Francis S. Guthrie through which he seeks to restrain county officials from carrying out the contract with the Poole Engineering and Machine Company for purchase of the machines.

The new delay is disappointing, and yet the suit is to be welcomed as an opportunity to test allegations that have been made about the contract and the type of machine contracted for, allegations which, if true, raise grave doubts as to the wisdom of purchasing the Poole Company's machine.

There can scarcely be any question that in bringing the suit Mr. Guthrie is actuated by creditable motives. An officer of the Pennsylvania Elections Association, a member of the Citizens Voting Machine Committee, and for years a worker for civic improvements, Mr. Guthrie is heartily in favor of substituting machines for paper ballots, but he is not satisfied that the Poole machine (also called the American) will furnish the service demanded.

The question if the machine will "stand up" is the crux of the argument. Mr. Guthrie has strengthened his complaint by alleging a number of violations of the regulations in regard to the awarding of the contracts. Vital as they may be in determining if there was laxness in entering into the agreement, they are of secondary interest from the standpoint of the public. To the citizens the important questions are: Is there danger that the Poole machine may fail to work satisfactorily? Is there danger that the taxpayers may lose the money, amounting to more than a million dollars, which the county is preparing to pay for the machines? The public will appreciate the careful answers to these and related questions that are likely to be produced by the court procedure.

In the meanwhile civic workers should again gird for a battle against fraud at the November election—fraud at which Pittsburgh's crooked politicians have shown themselves so adept when paper ballots are used.

Speeding of Court Work Cause for Satisfaction

Everyone at the courthouse is talking about the way in which the new judges are expediting the work of the courts. It is cause for satisfaction.

Allegheny County's Common Pleas and Quarter Sessions Courts resumed jury trials recently, after the long summer suspension, with a great accumulation of cases. There were hundreds of criminal charges to be disposed of, while the number of civil suits awaiting disposal was more than enough to keep the courts busy for 14 months, even if no new litigation should be started.

But the court's tempo has been speeded up. The new judges, comparatively youthful, vigorous men, will not patiently brook avoidable delays. And some of the older judges have changed customs with a view to relieving congestion. Persons drawn for jury service are not excused so readily as formerly. Lawyers have been directed to try their cases as listed. As many as eight jury trials have been in progress at one time in Common Pleas Court this week. Because all the courtrooms were occupied, one of the judges sitting in Quarter Sessions took pleas of guilty by a number of minor offenders in a probation officer's office. Inconsequential testimony cannot be introduced so easily as it once could.

All of these things, by hastening the adjudication of suits, tend to promote justice, and to save the taxpayers money.

The judges are to be commended.

Practice What You Preach -:- By Nelson Harding

Has Uncle Sam become a man
Who tells in urgent speeches
What he expects, and then neglects
To practice what he preaches?

"Let wages fall? Why, not at all,"
Says he, "and keep jobs going."
These things to do he's telling you,
But they're not what he's doing!

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Eye Browsing Along

When Paris makes some clothes that look so funny it can't sell 'em in Europe, it declares them to be the fashion, and America falls for it like an arch falls from old age.

The latest from the home of eccentric haberdashery and cuckoo feathers is a merger of eyebrows and hats.

If you want to be stylish this winter your lampshades must match your bonnet. It would be much better backgammon if your eyebrows were the same color as your toupee. But that's too easy a problem for Americans, who are such a hardy race that they play miniature golf with petrified grapefruit.

It would also be simple for a hat to match the eyebrow. Still, the way they forge things nowadays in this neck-o-the-woods, an eyebrow only means a little extra shopping for the girls.

Just step into the modiste's. Buy your deep dish toque and then rush around the beauty parlors for a set of curly eye fenders.

If your hat blows up in the brisk breeze of October, then your eyebrows must blow off with it.

A complexion or two doesn't mean anything these mechanical days of civic improvements and minor bribery. Give a girl a pencil and a lipstick and she will do a better mural on her face than Michaelangelo ever did on the ceiling of St. Peter's.

When a girl arises at the crack of dawn around noon her face is just a blank. So she takes out her pencil and signs it.

A dab here, tap there and a blob or two between. She puts on lips, lashes and brows. She gets a beautiful outdoor complexion without even opening a window.

In the old days of soap and water a girl could never go out until her hair dried. Now she cannot take a walk until her complexion dries.

We used to see them perched on the roof allowing the sun to toast their curls and bangs. Now they put their faces in the oven to bake.

Sometimes, the roses on their cheeks fail to jell. But, a little dash of powder and baking soda will make a nice crust over everything.

We will guarantee there is no fashion set by Paris that our debutantes cannot trump. If eyebrows have to match hats you can guarantee they'll match if they have to make 'em out of chewing gum and ostrich feathers.

So don't be surprised if your wife shows up on grand opera night with a fireman's hat and red eyebrows.

ELIAS HOWE

By Archibald Henderson

Every American school child knows that Elias Howe invented the sewing machine. But few know the success and failure, the triumph and tragedy of that memorial life. If ever a man deserved to have a monument raised to him by the women of the world, it is Howe. The tragedy of the working woman, striving to keep the wolf from the door with her only weapon, the needle, is depicted in Thomas Hood's ballad "The Song of the Shirt," published in 1843, with its mournful stanza

With fingers weary and worn,
With eyelids heavy and red,
A woman sat in unwomanly rags,
Plying her needle and thread.

Perhaps no mechanical invention, introduced into the home, has ever bestowed a greater blessing upon housewives or brought a greater relief to patient, struggling womanhood. The sewing machine vastly multiplied the power of man and woman, the tailor and the mother, to bind fabrics together with thread, to make clothes and garments of all kinds for human beings. The invention has added untold wealth to the world. It created a whole chain of huge new industries, made clothes unbelievably cheap, and introduced industrial developments in a thousand directions.

Elias Howe was born at Spencer, Mass., on July 9, 1819. It is an interesting fact that he came from Worcester County, Eli Whitney's old home. His father was an unsuccessful farmer and a miller on a small scale, but he was unable to make a success of anything he undertook. At the age of 14, Elias removed to Lowell and found employment there, but two years later he took up his residence in Cambridge, when he was employed in a machine shop. Somewhat later we find him working in the shop of one Ari Davis, who handled fine machinery. From this period dates his intensive interest in the invention of a sewing machine.

Howe was by no means the first man to give his attention to this problem. Half a century earlier, an Englishman, Thomas Saint, had patented a sewing machine, and about that same time a Frenchman, Thimmonier, was actually running a shop containing 80 sewing machines, making uniforms for the French army. An inventor, Walter Hunt, had even anticipated Howe in discovering the principle of the lock-stitch, and had actually abandoned his invention when he was just on the eve of success. But although Howe was thus anticipated, his invention was an independent discovery. There is no evidence that he was aware of the principles of former inventions in this line, or had even seen a sewing machine.

Howe became completely obsessed with the idea of his invention, and worked on entirely oblivious of his surroundings. He was almost reduced to beggary, for his salary was only nine dollars a week with which to support his wife, children and himself. His wife's health was gradually undermined by the drudgery and hardships she had to undergo. She paid the price of the invention for her sex.

In the book of Popular Science it is said that one night Howe dreamed that he was making a sewing machine for a savage king, who gave him 24 hours in which to complete the machine, and make it sew—or die. In his dream he saw himself defeated and led on to execution by warriors carrying spears—that were pierced through the head. He awoke with a start, for the problem was solved. Running to his garret, he pierced the head of a needle, and ran a thread through it, and the victory was gained.

The odd-looking little machine, which Howe invented, is still preserved in the National Museum at Washington. It contained many complicated features, which have since been much simplified or eliminated. Failing to accomplish anything in America, he went to England and met with no better success. Upon his return to America, virtually bankrupt, he found his loved but neglected young wife dying of tuberculosis, from the hardships and poverty she had suffered.

Through the backing of others, in particular of George W. Bliss, Howe was ultimately successful in winning suits against others for infringement on his basic patents. All makers of sewing machines were required to pay him a royalty of $25 on every machine. Howe became a rich man, at one time receiving an income of $4,000 a week. In the year of his death, 1867, he was awarded the cross of the Legion of Honor and the gold medal of the Paris Exposition. But he never ceased to mourn the loss of his devoted wife.

LISTEN, WORLD -:-

By Elsie Robinson

Most of your life you will spend in an effort to escape.

Escape from what? From yourself . . . from the pain and pressure of your own life.

You will seek that escape in many strange and delightful ways.

You may seek it in love—
Or in work—
Or in idleness—
Or in pleasure—
Or in dissipation—
Or in dreams—
Or in freedom—
Or in adventure—
Or in marriage—
Or in travel—
Or in people—
Or even in illness and hate and brutality—

As you pass through these experiences, you will not say that you are seeking escape. You may not even realize that you are seeking it. But you will be, nevertheless. Always you will be seeking to get away from yourself ,to escape—

From your own fear—
Your own weakness—
Your own restlessness and desire and grief.

BUT YOU CAN'T ESCAPE!

Yet you feel that you MUST find love and happiness, wisdom, power and peace. And you're right. These things are essential to your life. Life isn't worth living without them.

BUT YOU CAN NEVER FIND THEM OUTSIDE YOURSELF. NO ONE CAN GIVE THEM TO YOU. NOR TEACH THEM TO YOU. NOR BUY THEM FOR YOU. AND THEY NEVER "JUST HAPPEN."

There is only one place where you can find relief from your distress—

There is only one place where you can find the answer to your desire—

AND THAT PLACE IS IN YOURSELF.

You may think you find it through escape—

You may become tremendously absorbed and excited by these outer happenings—

But in the end you will find yourself exactly where you started, with the same problems on your hands.

YOU ARE THE ONLY ONE WHO CAN HELP YOURSELF.

The only wisdom that will do you any good is the wisdom that you, yourself, wrest from life and storeup, bit by bit, in your own mind. Look back over the years and you'll see that this is true.

The only power that will do you any good is the power you gain through your own self-control—through your own battles with yourself and circumstance.

The only love that will do you any good is the love that you generate in your own heart, and give away to others.

The only peace, that will do you any good is the peace you gain as you rise slowly, so slowly above the clutch of things. You may not believe this now. You may be quite sure that if you can only get that Something on which your heart is set, then you will be satisfied. But you won't be—Yet you'll try again.....and again.....and again.....

But it will do you no good.

YOUR ONLY CURE FOR YOURSELF IS YOURSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

V—Isolation as a Species Maker.

Mutation is a matter of chance, and here one mutation to which Natural Selection had no objection arose, and there another. Life was easy and adverse forces not very stringent. This extraordinary blossoming of distinct species, each on its little island patch, so impressed Darwin that he wrote, 30 years later,

"When I visited the Galapagos archipelago . . . I fancied myself brought near to the very act of creation."

Equally striking are the snails of the Philippine Islands. The Philippines contain about 115,000 square miles of land, divided up among thirty large and medium sized islands and over three thousand small ones. In spite of the difficulty which land snails find in getting carried overseas, the Philippines possess over a thousand special of these molluscs.

H. G. Wells

The nearest land area in the same latitude is that of French Indo-China and Siam. This includes close on half a million square miles, but only six hundred kinds of land-snail.

The Philippines with their isolated islands must have been a veritable factory for snail evolution. And we could multiply examples from every archipelago.

In fact, the degree of isolation of an island runs closely parallel with the number of types which are peculiar to it. Great Britain's isolation from the Continent is too slight and too recent for many of its birds to have developed into new species—the Red Grouse is its only undoubted case.

On the other hand it does enjoy some measure of isolation, and as a result, many of its birds show slight but constant differences from their continental relatives; they have evolved into new sub-species. The long-tailed tit is a familiar instance, the bullfinch another.

The Canary Islands, on the other hand, though some of them lie only about 50 miles from the African Coast are separated from it by a channel over 5,000 feet deep, and have never formed part of the continent.

And on them half a dozen birds have evolved into distinct species.

And for the extreme of isolation, let us take St. Helena, perhaps the most isolated spot on the globe, the most insular of all islands.

Animals and plants have either wholly failed to reach this water-girt speck of land, or, if they have succeeded, have usually evolved and changed into something new.

Patches of water can be isolated by land as well as patches of land by water; and in the lakes of Ireland and Northern Britain there has been a remarkable divergence of fish belonging to the trout tribe, quite like that of the birds on the Galapagos Islands.

Charr of various kinds, vendace, gwyniad, and pollan—there are a dozen species of the two genera, Salmo and Goregonus, each restricted to one or a few lakes, while those species of the family which go down to the wide sea instead of living all their life in an isolated lake range over very large areas.

Thus isolation promotes divergence. It seems indeed to promote divergence irrespective of any advantage which the divergence might bring with it. This seems to be due partly to isolation preventing new types being swamped by intercrossing with the old, partly to the release of mutational forces from urgent competitive and destructive conditions. Oddities flourish in out-of-the-way places.

The primary conservative disposition of natural selection spares the corners. But the advance of knowledge will probably reveal other agencies at work. It is worth noting that however great the variety which isolation brings into being, it never seems to promote steady advance or long continued specialization.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Thoughts while strolling: Manhattan's dainty heels click, click, click! Those floating opal pendants. The halo wealth gives mediocrity in this town. Never see Francine Larrimore anymore. Soon the Yule logs will glow. Nothing a person will miss like popularity.

L. M. Boomer, a Poughkeepsie, N. Y., boy, who made good in the city, A new hotel furnishes continental breakfasts in rooms free. A motor lunch kit that becomes a table. No city sound has the charm of a side yard bumble bee in a small town. Black and orange sleeping shirts. Gay Nighties!

Why do frozen-faced men have such joyous wives? John M. Gregory, writer of Western tales. The broiled black seashore boys begin to pale. Howard Thurston, the magician. What would New York revues do for material without the good old Folies Bergere? Barney Gallant back from a swing around the Orient.

The melancholy odor of burning leaves. And that glow from roofs of the Fifth Avenue skyline—the pale amber of Haut Sauterne. Wonder if anyone likes broccoli without sauce? You don't have to answer. I really wouldn't care a lot. They don't name girls Lulu anymore.

H. W. Hanemann is writing excellent humor. And I wish Ring Lardner would do more writing. A youth with aeroplane wing shoulders stops his roadster to light a cigarette for his girl, takes a swig from his flask and shoots away. Anyway 1930 love is different. Mark Leuscher's as young as ever. And as obliging.

The Alger books were far more interesting than 90 per cent of the muck today. Persistent urchins who hang onto auto doors to sell magazines. And smudge up the windows. Papa Poupon who gave away his "red ink" cafe when prohibition arrived. And now peddles lace.

Crowds around broadcasting studios to see favorites. And look abashed and self conscious when they appear. Overheard: "Just as I was going to sue him for breach of promise, he wants to marry me." The icy hauteur of mannikins. And old bucks who paddle at their heels. Toodle-oo!

Soap box orators are in fine forensic form at their open forum in Columbus Circle. They decry the fustiness of their fate and lampoon "the crushing heel of capital" to enthusiastic crowds. One today, resembling George Rector, made a sound point. Said he: "Workers are ready to submit to rules of society, but each should be guaranteed the right to earn a living. Until we are this country has no equality."

* * *

Few of us are satisfied with our jobs. When I was crossing t's and kicking commas out of reporters' copy I ached to be a reporter. When a reporter nothing looked so grand as the job of special writer. And so on. Soap box orators are recruited from such restlessness. We keep on kicking until we kick ourselves out of a job altogether—or become columnists. And prattle along like this.

The other week I saw the Rath Brothers after ten years. They are smiling acrobats and as such have been "stopping performances." In the show world the acrobat is the lowliest of performers—comparable to the contortionist in the circus, who to circus folk suggests the snake. Vaudeville's unholy curse is: "May all your children be acrobats!"

* * *

The Rath Brothers are an example of the measure of success that comes to humblest workers when they stick to it. I first saw them when serving as one of those fresh-every-hour press agents for the old Midnight Frolic. Acrobats had never before been featured in high-priced revues. They had a polish and made the grade. I wager neither ever had an idea of being anything but an acrobat. I am told they have never missed a day rehearsing since they first appeared on Broadway.

My wife and I were talking how dogs so frequently begin to resemble their owners. The discussion was carried on in a cafe where we went to dinner. A woman came in carrying an umbrella with a dog's-head handle. And it looked so much like her that, while my wife stuffed a napkin in her mouth, I rushed out in an alley and let go of a six-foot whoop.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Why think a person a dullard just because he does not understand you?

If you are a teacher, perhaps you do not put your problem over clearly.

Perhaps you leave out one or two points.

These points may seem so obvious to you that you don't think it worthwhile to give them.

So you leave out a step—and take it for granted that your pupil understands.

The best teachers are clear to results and conclusions that way unless they are dealing with adult minds as able and as agile as they are in mental gymnastics.

The best teachers are clear and would prefer to state again something you know rather than have you lose the thread of the problem.

Of course there is not much to be said for the pupil who pays attention by fits and starts and then blames the teacher because he can't work things out.

You like to say that your teachers filled the time with inconsequential things, but possibly there was a reason for boring in a little obvious point and yet you could not see it and thinking it trivial you did not get it after all.
